Ford Strike Averted by Temporary Agreement

Formal Notice by Disputants Awaited; Pension Rift Still May Cause Walkout

BULLETIN

Detroit, Aug. 4 (AP).—A formal announcement that the strike of 107,000 Ford Motor Co. production workers had been averted still was awaited tonight hours after the report of an agreement.

Detroit, Aug. 4 (AP).—A strike of 107,000 Ford Motor Co. production workers was averted this evening by an agreement in a Taft-Hartley law dispute.

Preparation of a joint statement by the company and the CIO-United Auto Workers held up formal announcement of terms.

Both union and company representatives, however, confirmed that the walkout set for tomorrow noon would be called off.

Informed sources said, machinery for settling a pension plan dispute would be provided in the agreement.

Despite the present agreement UAW Vice President Richard T. Leonard said the union would maintain its strike threat.

Still Possibility of Strike

A strike tomorrow, however, is off, Leonard said.

Leonard, chairman of the UAW Ford Department and a chief union negotiator, said the Taft-Hartley agreement had only set back a strike deadline.

"As long as we are still negotiating, we won't definitely call off the strike," he told reporters.

This was a reference to negotiation of the pension plan.

Earlier authoritative sources close to negotiators said the company and CIO-United Auto Workers heads had come to an understanding in their disput involving the Taft-Hartley law.

"It's only a question now of preparing a joint statement," an official union spokesman said at 5:30 p. m. (EST).

Pension Accord Reported

The union spokesman made his assertion in the ninth hour of the negotiators' race to avert a strike set for noon tomorrow.

Shortly before, union attorney Maurice Sugar had been called into the consultations. He left with a secretary and later returned to the session.

The union and Ford were reported agreed on turning their pension plan dispute over to later negotiations in event they settled on the Taft-Hartley problem.

The two sides closeted themselves at 10 a. m. (EST) in humid, 90-degree heat that pervaded their plush-carpeted eighth floor conference room in a downtown hotel.

They remained in session into the afternoon.

Man Rides Plane Wheels Over Sea To Escape Bride

Rio de Janeiro, Aug. 4 (INS).—A Portuguese newlywed dropped stiffly off the underside of a Dutch airliner at Natal today and announced he had crossed the Atlantic clinging to the wheels and landing gear because he "couldn't stand" married life.

Twenty-seven-year-old Francisco Carvalho declared he had stowed away on the four-engined KLM airliner at Lisbon to "start a new life in Rio de Janeiro," away from his bride of three months. He was jailed at Natal pending disposition of his case. He said of his crossing:

"The cold bothered me more than anything else. I was afraid to look down. I saw the ocean only twise during the entire trip."

He said he hid in the retraction mechanism of the main landing gear. "I had a difficult time," he added, "when the wheels were retracted, but managed to escape being crushed.

"My biggest fright occurred on landing at Dakar, when the pilot dropped the wheels and I almost fell out. Landing at Natal was no trouble because I knew then where to hold on."

Cease-Fire Order of Indonesia Marks First Big U. N. Victory

Batavia (Tuesday), Aug. 5 (AP).—The Republic of Indonesia issued a cease-fire order to its troops last night, parelleling a similar Dutch order Sunday.

The orders, giving the United Nations Security Council its greatest victory for peace, became effective at midnight.

Indonesian President Soekarno, in a brief radio speech, ordered the whole Indonesian population to halt hostilities against the Dutch. He addressed republican troops as commander in chief and also told the civil population to cease guerilla and scorched-earth tactics.

The commands to stop fighting found Dutch forces at Salatiga, Java, in a position which their staff officers declared would have enabled them to capture Jogjakarta, the republican capital, within two or three days. Skirmishes were under way at many points throughout the East Indies yesterday as the deadline for the truce approached.

Earlier, Republican Premier Amir Sjarifoeddin said the cease-fire order was being issued "without any reservations at all." He quickly added that the republic would demand appointment of an international commission by the U. N. to supervise the cease-fire orders.

Sjarifoeddin told the U. N. that the Dutch had delayed transmission of the Security Council message, making it difficult to achieve cessation of hostilities on short notice.

The Premier's demand for an international commission was interpreted as meaning the republic did not favor the tendered United States offer of mediation which the Dutch had accepted.

Sjarifoeddin said the commission should see that carrying out the cease-fire orders included release of imprisoned Indonesian youths, restoration of Republican officials to their positions, return of troops on both sides of the demarcation lines existing at the time hostilities started (July 20), cessation of hostile propaganda, and cessation of attempts to sponsor any separationist movement which would break areas awaey from the republic.

He said it was understood "all this cannot be done at once, but we stick to these demands."

He said the Dutch had issued their cease-fire "with qualifications," since they had declared they intended to continue "clearing actions."

Wheat Export Rise Over '46 Held Possible

Poor European Crops May Require Boost Of 50 Million Bushels

By John W. Ball
Post Reporter

America may be called upon to increase wheat exports this year 50 million bushels above last year's record of 400 million, because of poor crops in Europe, the Agriculture Department said last night.

At the same time it was learned that the percentage of whole grain to be shipped as compared with flour will be increased. Last year about half the wheat exports consisted of "equivalents" of flour milled in this country.

Reports yesterday were that State and Agriculture Department officials were planning a ratio of about 80 per cent whole wheat this year, because of lower shipping costs.

The new plan will reduce this country's supply of livestock feed, such as bran, shorts and other by-products of flour. Millers are protesting the change, it was reported yesterday.

Substantial exports of grain from Russia and parts of the Danube Basin will be possible this year for the first time since the war, the department said. Russia has a good crop this year, reports say, but in western Europe a drop of 10 per cent below last year's subnormal yield is estimated.

Areas affected by the winter crop damage include Germany, Denmark, Sweden, the United Kingdom, France and Spain.

Although wheat production in Africa and Asia may be near last year's level, the outlook is not favorable in areas to which large amounts of American wheat were shipped last year. These include Japan and Korea.

Fears of Drought Push Corn Price to New Peak

Corn reaches a new all-time high of $2.22 ¾ cents a bushel for September futures at Chicago yesterday. The previous record was $2.21 for July wheat, scored last, month.

Although the high mark in July was due to fears of a short crop because of spring and summer floods, yesterday's rise was due to fears of drought. In the same areas where early rains retarded the crops in May and June, a long, hot, dry spell is now damaging corn.

U. N. Council Rejects Soviet Plan on Greece

Vote Against Troop Withdrawal, Joint Aid Supervision Is 9-2

Lake Success, Aug. 4 (AP).—The United Nations Security Council late today rejected without debate a Russian counter-proposal for peace in the Balkans and then argued over what to do next.

The vote on the Soviet resolution, calling for withdrawal of foreign troops from Greece and U. N. supervision of economic aid to that country, was 9 to 2, with Poland the only Russian supporter.

The council's slate thus was cleared of the second major proposal for settling the Balkans troubles, Russia having vetoed a United States plan for a semipermanent Balkans commission last week.

Poland immediately offered a "compromise," which took all the teeth out of both the American and Russian versions and merely recommended that Greece, Yugoslavia, Albania and Bulgaria solve their own difficulties.

Polish Plan Assailed

Britain and the United States assailed the Polish plan as ineffective and an admission of the failure of the council.

American Deputy Delegate Herschel V. Johnson was especially bitter, questioning how Polish Delegate Oscar Lange could offer sucha resolution after voting with the Russians and against the Americans. Johnson said Lange had made it clear that he felt Greece was entirely at fault and the Soviet satellites were being "menaced by this fascist wolf."

Terming the Polish suggestions "moral exhortations," Johnson said Lange was calling countries "bad boys" and saying "we don't believe in sin."

Chairman Faris El Khoury of Syria adjourned the meeting with no agreement on the Balkans in sight and announced that Egypt's charges against Britain would be taken up at 10:30 a. m. (EDT) tomorrow. Cairo demands the evacuation of British troops from Egypt and termination of the British regime in the Sudan.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko, in asking for adoption of his plan, charged that "certain powerful states" were attempting to bring about the "political and economic enslavement of Greece."

British Troops There

His remarks were interpreted as a reference to the Truman program to aid Greece and the presence of British troops there.

The American plan called for a semipermanent border commission and followed a commission report laying the blame for frontier incidents on Albania, Yugoslavia and Bulgaria. It was sup-

Letter From Family Launches Probe Into Death of D. C. Man

An investigation was under way yesterday into the death of a 59-year-old man at Gallinger Hospital of a fractured skull after being booked by police for intoxication six days before.

The man was Forest Bunch of 18 3d st. ne., who was picked up in front of 1302 F st. ne. at 12:45 a. m. July 29 and taken to No. 9 Precinct station on a charge of intoxication.

Police Superintendent Robert J. Barrett said yesterday he assigned two members of the homicide squad to the case Sunday after a letter from the Bunch family had been received by Commissioner J. Russell Young while Bunch was still alive, but in serious condition.

An autopsy performed by Deputy Coroner Dr. Richard Rosenberg yesterday disclosed the cause of death as a basal fracture of the skull and cerebral hemorrhage. Dr. Rosenberg said the fracture appeared to be about a week old.

Records at No. 9 Precinct show that at 6:35 a. m. on the same morning he was picked up, Bunch had complained of being ill and was taken to Gallinger Hospital. Examination there by Dr. Sidney S. Sattenstein of the hospital staff brought a diagnosis of acute alcoholism and "no apparent injuries."

Bunch was returned to No. 9 Precinct and at 7:15 p. m. the same day again complained of being ill. He was admitted to the

Labor Hard, Britons Told By Churchill

He'll Help Swing U. S. Loan if They Speed Production, Help Themselves

Woodstock, England, Aug. 4 (AP). Winston Churchill offered today to support the Labor government in an appeal to the United States for a new loan on condition that Britons "labor long and hard" to help themselves.

In a party speech the Conservative leader charged that Prime Minister Attlee's government had "frittered away" a great part of the present American loan of $3,750,000,000 on nonessentials.

Churchill also scoffed at what he called the "folly" of proposals for a coalition government to meet Britain's economic crisis, despite his offer of support to the Labor cabinet for "any and all sensible proposals, however severe, that are truly made in the national interest."

Criticism came also from the Liberal camp when Lord Beveridge told summer school students at Westminster: "I still go on being hopeful about this country in spite of all attempts to misgovern it."

Cites Coal Problem

Referring to the problem of coal production, a key factor in the nation's present crisis, Churchill declared that, since the nationalization of the mines, the miners "are producing less at a far heavier cost than when they were working for the private capitalist owner, with his more intimate and flexible management."

Declaring the "foundation of British policy must be an ever closer association with the United States," Churchill said:

"I have never asked at any time, or suggested, an alliance. I want something more than that. We must seek something less precise and far more potent.

"The whole English-speaking world must move forward together in fraternal association along the lines of destiny. This will be the greatest hope of peace among nations and of the freedom and dignity of ordinary men and women over the largest portion of the globe."

Churchill said some of the terms of the present American loan alarmed him, notably the clauses requiring Britain to make her sterling debts to other countries freely convertible into dollars by last July 15 and that requiring nondiscrimination against the United States in the reduction of imports.

"However, I relied, and I rely now, on the wisdom of the fair-minded American people to make the necessary easements," Churchill said.

Blames Rising Prices

He said a large part of the dollar drain was due to rising prices in the United States and added:

"That is an aspect which I am sure the United States ought and will take into consideration."

"There is no shame in one brave and faithful ally, deeply injured in the common struggle, asking another to help him recover and get upon his feet," Churchill said. "Had the position been reversed, we would have done the same for them.

"Therefore, I supported the American loan and I will still support and justify further appeals to the United States provided that we are doing our best. That we are making the most of our resources, that we are determined to become a self-supporting nation and system at the earliest moment and

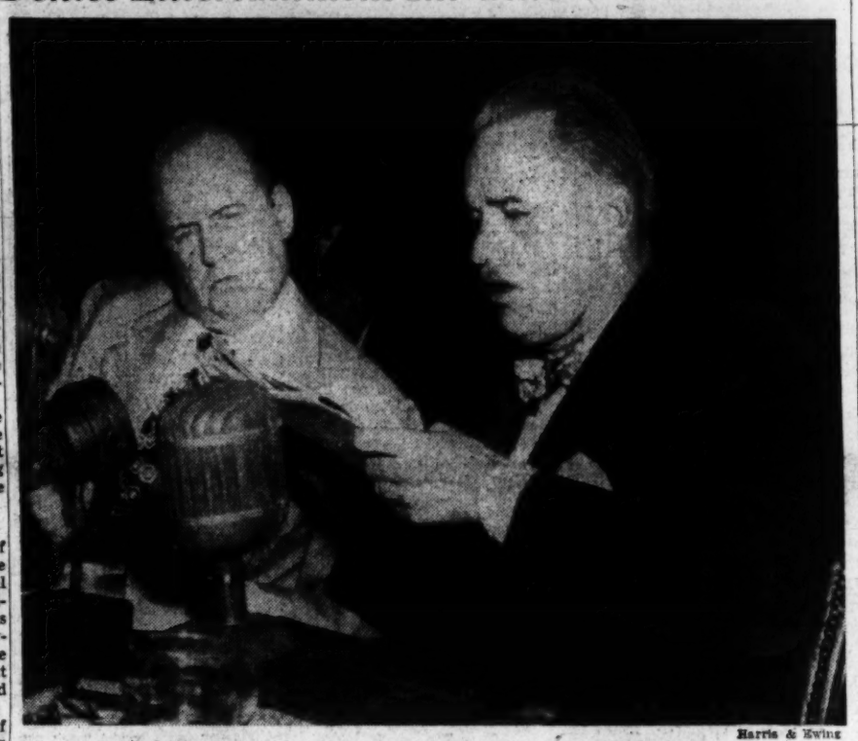
Elliott Roosevelt Challenges Meyer's Expense Accounts, Denies Nightlife Swayed Him

Denies Entertainment Influenced Contracts



Harris & Ewing

Hughes Hospitality Had no Influence On Plane Contracts, Senators Informed

By Marv Spargo
Post Reporter

Elliott Roosevelt flatly denied yesterday that he had been influenced to recommend the award of a 70-million-dollar wartime plane contract to Howard Hughes by lavish entertainment on the part of Hughes Aircraft Co.

Dramatically he confronted John W. Meyer, judgy Hughes' press agent, on the witness stand before the Senate War Investigating Committee, and challenged item after item in the publicity man's account books.

It was "complete nonsense," the son of the wartime President declared, for Meyer to say that the night club bills for Roosevelt and his friends were exclusively picked up by the Hughes Aircraft Co.

Sees Blow at Father

The tall, broad shouldered Elliott, second son of the late President, admitted he had accepted hospitality from the company both on the West Coast and in New York before he put in a recommendation which won Hughes a contract after the unanimous objections of Army Air Forces technical experts.

He said he did not think acceptance of this hospitality violated an order sent out by Gen. H. H. Arnold in 1942 cautioning all air officers to realize that acceptance "even of the most casual entertainment or insignificant gift," might compromise the Air Forces.

Politely but definitely, Roosevelt indicated it was his conviction that the inquiry would not have been launched except for the thought that his father was involved.

Caucus Room Filled

He denied that he had ever discussed the Hughes contract with his father. At the time, he said, President Roosevelt had "more important matters" to think about.

The historic marble Senate caucus room fairly bulged with spectators crowded along walls as Roosevelt took the stand. Long lines, of disappointed would-be spectators lined the stairs and hallways leading to the hearing room.

In the full glare of kleig lights for the movie cameras, Roosevelt and Meyer sat side by side disputing over those Hughes Aircraft expense vouchers. Still-cameramen crowded around as the two examined the records.

The husky former brigadier general and the press relations man who spent the war entertaining for Hughes were in sharp contrast as they took their turns at testifying.

The famous Roosevelt charm was never more in evidence, as Elliott politely addressed the members of the committee as "Sir" and remarked on his gratitude for being allowed to testify.

Obviously annoyed, Meyer continually reminded the committee he wasn't there to straighten out any disrepancies in accounts, that was the job of the committee, if it could.

Made General in 1945

Sitting in the background were two representatives from the Department of Justice, which frequently has observers on hand at hearings of the Senate War Investigating Committee. The department declined to state why it was interested in the hearings, but it is known it is interested in any discrepancies of testimony which might give rise to perjury charges.

When Roosevelt came to the stand he testified that he had been made a brigadier general in 1945, and added, "There was a considerable delay, I believe, but it was approved after certain strenuous objections."

Senator Owen Brewster (R., Me.) interrupted to state that he was one of 8 or 10 who then objected." Brewster informed Roosevelt that General Marshall had subsequently informed members of the Senate that he had "twice been compelled" to send back the nomination "because he didn't approve it and the third time let it go by."

Roosevelt led off his testimony by saying that he wanted to make it clear he had come voluntarily, not under subpena, and that it

World Flier Turns Back At Halifax

Engine Trouble Forces Odom to Halt Solo Flight

BULLETIN

Chicago, Aug. 4 (AP).—William (Bill) Odom, attempting a solo round the world flight, turned back tonight shortly after passing over Halifax, Nova Scotia, five and one-half hours after leaving Chicago.

Franklin Lamb, flight manager, said in Chicago he was informed by overseas telephone that Odom had turned back after his plane incurred mechanical and electrical troubles. He did not elborate.

Lamb said Odom would be back at Orchard Airport at about midnight (CDT).

Chicago, Aug. 4 (AP).—William P. Odom, 27, flew high and fast tonight in pursuit of his ambition to be the man who has gone around the world faster than anyone else "in a solo flight."

The former British Perry command pilot who lives in Roslyn, N. Y., left his pretty wife and two youngsters behind at Chicago's Orchard Airport as he lifted the heavily laden former Army A-26 bomber, the Reynolds Bombshell, off a runway at 2:31.50 p. m.

U. S. Citizen Flees Police In Budepest

Budapest, Aug. 4 (AP).—An American citizen arrested for making derogatory remarks about Hungarian Communists escaped Saturday night from three political policemen and fled in an American legation automobile, American officialls reported today.

Stephen Thuransky, 54, formerly a farmer living near Columbus, Ohio, knocked down one political policeman with his handcuffed fist, while his wife frenziedly clawded another from his side. Then Thuransky was knocked unconscious and sprawlled out in the rear seat of the parked American car. An American legation official who had been waiting to interview him thrust Mrs. Thuransky into the car behind her husband and drove both of them away.

Thuransky's escape was effected while the political police were transferring him from one jail to another.

In American cstody later, Thuransky said he had been beaten by the Hungarians police and had been threatened with shooting.

Interior Ministry Statement

The Hungarian Ministry of the Interior issued a press statement tonight saying Thuransky was being taken to the national defense department—another name for political police headquarters—"for a hearing" when "two unknown men and one one woman grabbed him and shoved him into a waiting vehicle bearing American license plates."

The statement said Thuransky had "reviled the Hungarian republic on the main street of Balassagyarmat," a town northeast of Budapest on the Czechoslovak border.

The American official involved in the escape said today he was inside the Marko jail waiting for prison officials to carry out their promise to bring Thuransky down from his cell for a conference when he heard a woman scream, "My God, Steve. They are taking you away!"

The American said he rushed outside and saw Thuransky lying half inside the parked sedan. He ran across the sidewalk, pushed the

Anti-Jewish Riots Spread in Great Britain

Liverpool Crowds Stone Windows and Threaten Synagogues

London, Aug. 4 (U.P.).—Police patrols were heavily strengthened in Great Britain's largest cities tonight after anti-Jewish outbreaks which had spread from England to Scotland and Wales.

Throughout the day crowds of August bank holiday celebrants ranged the streets of Liverpool, stoning windows of Jewish business establishments and attempting to fire synagogues. Some shops were looted, some wrecked.

Twenty persons were arrested as Liverpool mobs ranged the streets late into the night. Police who sought to scatter them reported that what started as anti-Jewish demonstrations had turned into general holliganism.

Since the rioting started Sunday night disorders had been reported in London, in Liverpool, Birmingham, Manchester, in Newcastle and in Glasgow, and Cardiff, Wales, among other cities.

Last week Irgun Zvai Leumi, Jewish terrorist organization, had murdered two British army sergeants. Now, thousands of miles away, loyal British Jews, some of whose family ties in this country extended back for many centuries, were suffering.

In many cases, Jews who were attacked personally or whose premises were attacked refused to prosecute because of their shame at the Palestine terrorism—which they bitterly resented—and their desire to be nothing but ordinary Britons.

Twenty-three persons were charged in police courts Monday in various cities with anti-Jewish terrorism.

Anti-Semitism in Germany

Seelisberg, Switzerland, Aug. 4 (AP).—Anti-Semitism is so widespread in Germany that "open conflict and the most severe violence" would develop between Jews and Germans if the occupying powers did not maintain order, a United States Army official said today.

Won Honors as Fighter Pilot

President Appoints Alison To Commerce Aeronautics Post

President Truman yesterday appointed John R. Alison, who downed six Japanese planes while an Army flier, to be Assistant Secretary of Commerce for Aeronautics.

Alison, a former Army Air Force colonel, is a resident of Gainesville, Fla., operating as an aviation consultant there and in New York. He served as a fighter group commander under Gen. Claire Chennault in China.

He succeeds William A. M. Burden, who resigned June 30.

He resigned from the Army Air Forces in 1946 with the following combat decorations: Distinguished Service Cross, Distinguished Flying Cross, Silver Star, Purple Heart, Legion of Merit, Air Medal and British Distinguished Service Order.

Alison's appointment will be subject to confirmation later by the Senate. "Assistant Secretary for Aeronautics" is a new title, soon to be ordered in accordance with a new law giving Commerce two assistant secretaries.

Born in Florida in 1912, Alison graduated from the University of Florida in 1936 in engineering and business administration.

Joining the Army Air Force in 1936, he was commissioned in the regular Army in 1937. He went to England in early 1941 as adviser to the Royal Air Force on operation and maintenance of American airplanes.

He accomppanied Harry Hopkins and Gen. Joseph T. McNarney to Russia in July, 1941, as adviser on American aircraft available for lend lease.

Va. Democrats to Nominate November Candidates Today

Virginia Democrats today will pick their party candidates to oppose Republican nominees in the November general elections.

In primary voting between the official voting hours of 6:30 a. m. to 7:30 p. m., Eastern Standard Time (7:30 a. m. to 8:30 p. m. Daylight Time), members of the State's dominant political party will choose State Legislature and local candidates.

Chief interest in nearby Virginia's Democratic primary centers in Arlington and Fairfax Counties, where several offices are being contested.

Yesterday brought a few last-minute campaign statements. Among these was comment by Malcolm D. Miller, candidate for Commonwealth's Attorney for Arlington, with Progressive Democratic backing.

Miller said his remarks on the private practice of law, should he receive the Government attorney post, had been misconstrued by several newspapers.

"I stated," he said, "that I would not engage in private practice before local courts. I would continue limited practice, however, in matters before Federal regulatory agencies to an extent not detrimental to public duties."

J. Maynard Magruder, Arlington candidate for reelection to the House of Delegates, in a talk before the Exchange Club, asked for improved health for the people of Virginia through correction of will put aside every impediment and labor long and hard."

Covering the whole range of world problems as they affect Britain, Churchill hailed United States Secretary of State Marshall's proposal for aid to Europe and expressed the hope it would further his own personel dream of a United States of Europe. He denied that he hoped to divide Europe into two camps.

"It is true that an iron curtain has descended across Europe from Stettin, on the Baltic, to Trieste on the Adriatic," Churchill said. "We do not wish the slightest ill to those who dwell on the east of that iron curtain.

"On the contrary, our prosperity and happiness will rise with theirs.

"Let there be sunshine on both sides of the iron curtain and if ever the sunshine should be equal on both sides, the curtain will be no more." . . .

Charges Extravagance

On Palestine, Churchill declared no British interest was involved in holding on to the mandate for the troubled Holy Land. He attacked the Labor Government for giving up India and Burma.

He also charged Attlee's government with "wild financial extravagance," including what he described as the pouring of immense sums into the British zone of Germany, where "victory is changing fast into a sullen hatred not unmingled with contempt."

Churchill declared the Laborites "misled the electorate" in Britain's general election two years ago with "a plethora of wild, lying promises and bribes and the creation of false illusions."

60,000 Listeners

He said:

"I saw without hesitation that there will be no recovery from our present misfortunes until the guilty men, whose crazy theories and personal incompetence have brought us down, have been driven from power by the voters of the nation."

It was estimated that 60,000 party members heard the speech delivered at Churchill's birthplace, the Duke of Marlborough's Blenheim Palace.

Around the World at 8 Years Is Aim of Air Line Mascot

TO FAR PLACES BY AIR—Marshall Meyers, 8, of 1827 Twenty-third st. nw., is having a summer vacation right out of the comic strips. The mascot of the Flying Tigers Airline, Marshall has just returned from a flight to London, Paris, Rome and Athens. Soon he'll fly the Pacific to the Indies. Here he shows his stopovers to his mother, Mrs. Norman L. Meyers

Jules Verne's "Around the World in 80 Days" is not only kid stuff, but mighty slow travel to 8-year-old Marshall Meyers.

Marshall, as mascot of the Flying Tiger airline, has just logged London, Paris, Rome, Athens and Newfoundland aboard one of the line's C-54. Now he's ready for more.

The son of Norman L. Meyers, 1827 23d st. nw., general counsel for the Flying Tiger Line, Marshall was a natural for the mascot-travel job.

His mother said the youngster has "at least 600 hours" flying time to his credit, a little of it at the controls.

Marshall's vocabulary is shot through with aviation lingo. "We had extreme thunderstorms and a terriffic front off England," he says, or "the pilot let 'er down easy." His diary records, in one place, "a smooth trip this far."

By the year's end, his mother says, he'll have hit the Pacific, the far East and likely will have been around the world by the time the bells at Sidwell Friends School sound the fall semester.

His "short-snorter" bill promises to be a whopper by then.

1. The United States sharply attacked the Communist-dominated governments in Hungary and Romania and expressed doubts that either of these former enemy countries qualified for membership in the U. N.

2. Council President Faris El Khoury said, "We may say that hostilities (in Indonesia) have now ceased." He announced replies from the governments of the Netherlands and Indonesia and took under advisement an Australian request that the U. The United States position on Hungary and Romania was stated in the Council's membership committee, where members voted down a Soviet move to block consideration of the applications from Austria, Hungary, Italy and Romania at this time.

The late Senator Robert L. Owen of Oklahoma left an estate of $235,000, it was learned yesterday, when a petition for probate was filed in District Court.

According to the willll, Senator Owen's daughter, Mrs. Dorothea Whitemore, and a grandson, Robert L. Owen, 3rd, are to share equally in the main portion of the estate. Both llive in Darien, Conn.

Mrs. Nettie Boykin, a house servant of Senator Owen, is provided $100 a month for life, according to the testiment.

The probate petition said debts of the estate were approximately $100,000.

The deceased who died here July 19 at the age of 91, served as a Senator from 1907 to 1925 and then practiced llaw. He lived at 2400 16tth st. nw.

CIO Steel Union Parley to Discuss 'Political Action'

Pittsburgh, Aug. 4 (AP).—The CIO-United Steel Workers of America, today announced a conference of 300 representatives from its 38 districts will be held here August 11 to discuss "political action."

The meeting will be the first organized move by a major unit of the CIO Political Action Committee to launch a national mass registration drive in preparation for the 1948 election.

"An outline of the aims of the PAC will be given at the meeting and the need for concerted action to rid Congress of the reactionaries responsible for the Taft-Hartley bill and other legislation unfair to labor, will be explained," said David J. McDonald, secretary-treasurer of both USWA and PAC.

The 875,000 USWA members make up the largest block of the five unions in the PAC. The others are the United Electrical Workers; Textile Workers; Amalgamated Clothing Workers, and the United Auto Workers.

Chicago Transit Offering Hits Snag

Chicago, Aug. 4 (AP).—An investment banking group which had planned to market 105 million dollars in Chicago Transit Authority bonds tomorrow announced today it was unable to underwrite the sale.

A statement by Harris Hall and Co., the First Boston Corp. and Blyth and Co. said that although their Chicago Transit Authority account had been dissolved, "we have not abandoned this business and hope to be able within a day or two" to develop "a workable plan for selling the bonds."

The statement released remaining members of the account from their commitments for purchases of the bonds.

Individual Lasalle Street dealers blamed the inability of the financial group to handle the second largest revenue bond offering in history on a current lack of enthusiasm by investors in traction type bonds.

The city of Cleveland last week failed to receive an offer at its scheduled offering of 22 million dollars in new transit bonds, and other tax-exempt revenue bonds offerings offered at competitive sale have met with difficulty lately.

teams locked horns again in a struggle that has gone on since May 5, the rank-and-file of the UAW-CIO went about the routine of setting up strike machinery unparalleled in the industry in 17 months.

Soup Kitchens Planned

Soup kitchens, picket details and other preliminaries were under consideration by union members who had been warned previously against any attempt to "jump the gun."

Henry Ford 2d, boyish, 29-year-old president of the big auto firm, cut short a Long Island vacation to fly home and stand by at the biggest crisis of his brief but much-publicized executive career.

But his last word, in a telegram to Leonard, was that he would not drop in at the bargaining conference itself, since, he said, he did not think his attendance "could add anything helpful."

Young Ford last week appealed in vain to CIO President Philip Murray to intervene in the situation, gravest in Detroit since the end of the General Motors Corp. strike March 13, 1946.

Meanwhile, the strike of 7000 employes of the Murray Corporation of America continued, an effort of the U. S. Labor Mediation Board to bring the corporation and the CIO United Auto Workers Union into agreement failed today.

To Study Proposals

The negotiating session wound up with both sides promising to study proposals on the issues at stake. No date was set for another meeting.

Murray employes are demanding contract protection from legal action for agreement violation under the Taft-Hartley Law. The corporation supplies bodies and parts to the automobile industry.

The Murray strike has made itself felt in other companies, with more than 18,000 already idled or facing layoffs this week at Studebaker Corp., Dodge and Ford plants.

Hartley Seeks Inquiry

By The Associated Press

Representative Hartley (R., N. J.) yesterday recommended an immediate congressional study of the strike situation at Ford Motor Co. to make sure the Taft-Hartley Labor Law is observed.

Hartley, vice chairman of a joint committee on labor-management relations, said in a statement:

"I am thoroughly convinced from the statements which have been issued on the threatened strike at the Ford Motor Co., that this is a matter which we must go into from the beginning of the negotiations."

Hartley, co-author with Senator Taft (R., Ohio) of the new Labor Management Act, said that in order "to be sure" the new law is followed "in accord with the intent of Congress, it is necessary that we determine if there is an organized effort on either side to by-pass any of its provisions."

Longsohremen Seek New Contract

New York, Aug. 4 (AP).—Joseph R. Ryan, president of the International Longshoremen's Association (AFL), said today the ILA would attempt to abrogate the present contract with the New York Shipping Association and enter a new one before the August 22 effective date of the Taft-Hartley bill.

The contract ordinarily would not expire until September 30.

Ryan said the move was being made because the union wished to retain existing preferential shop status, which he said would be outlawed by the Taft-Hartley bill.

He explained the preferential shop status as the present method of hiring under the contract, by which, he said, "we supply the men."

physical defects found among school children. This should be done, he said, by increasing funds for the Bureau of Industrial Safety of the Department of Labor, and by an enlargement of the Industrial Hygiene Bureau of the Health Department.

In Arlington, the principal contest is between Frank L. Ball, jr., and Charles R. Fenwick for the State Senate seat vacated by William D. Medley. Four men are in the race for two posts in the House of Delegates—Magruder, George Damm, C. Harrison Mann and Albert A. Caretta. Harry K. Green, incumbent, is opposed by James E. Rice, jr., for the post of Commissioner of Revenue. Denham T. Rucker is opposing Malcolm D. Miller for Commonwealth's Attorney.

A vote of between 7000 and 8000 is expected in the county. Radio Station WEAM has announced it will carry running results of the primary election in the State until midnight.

In Fairfax County, the most heated contest involves Delegate Edwin M. Lynch, seeking renomination for the legislature over former delegate Robert J. McCandlish, jr., whom he defeated in 1944.

Other Fairfax contests are the three-cornered race for sheriff, in which incumbent Eppa P. Kirby is opposed by John E. Taylor and Farmer L. Stubbs; Commissioner of Revenue, where John W. Ferguson, the incumbent, is opposed by Richard M. Smith; and Treasurer, where Lewis M. Coyner, the incumbent, is opposed by G. Wilson McClincy.

In Alexandria City, the only contest is for election of two Democratic members from the Sixth Ward. The seats are being sought by Miss Camille DeLane, incumbent; Mrs. Ernest Demaine and George Boteler.

In Loudoun County, Stirling M. Harrison and Albert F. Anderson are contending for the post of Commonwealth's Attorney. Karlton L. Monroe, former deputy treasurer, and S. Reed Galleher, former deputy commissioner of revenue, oppose each other for treasurer. There are contests in two supervisor posts.

In Prince William County, J. P. Kerlin is opposed by Wallace Partlow for sheriff. Frank P. Moncure is opposed by Edgar G. Parrish as Delegate to the Virginia House for Prince William and Stafford Counties.

Later that night, according to Dr. Alvin Sweeney, superintendent at Gallinger, Bunch had a convulsion and then began bleeding at the nose and ears. An immediate examination disclosed the basal skull fracture, well-covered by neck muscles, he indicated. An operation was performed and Bunch died at 7:30 a. m. yesterday.

The letter to Commissioner Young, dated August 2, said the family and relatives of the patient "have reasons to believe that the injuries sustained by the patient might have occurred during the period between the first medical examination . . . and his admission as a patient at 7:15 p. m. the same evening."

The letter also said Bunch had sustained "multiple fractures of the skull, face lacerations, and bodily bruises."

Dr. Rosenberg said a chemical analysis of the man's brain has been ordered and that no death certificate would be issued pending these tests.

Week's Steel Output To Hold Firm at 94.9%

New York, Aug. 4 (AP).—Steel operations for the current week are scheduled at 94.9 per cent of capacity or 1,660,700 net tons, an increase of 0.5 per cent over a week ago, the American Iron and Steel Institute estimated today.

Production last week was at the rate of 94.4 per cent of capacity or 1,651,900 tons. A month ago it was 78.9 per cent and 1,380,700 tons and a year ago 89 per cent and 1,566,500 tons.

Visible Grain Supply

Chicago, Aug. 4 (AP).—Visible supply of wheat increased 20,893,000 bushels to 86,619,000 bushels this year, the Chicago Board of Trade reported today. Corn increased 223,000 to 10,647,000 bushels. Oats increased 1,045,000 to 5,226,000. Barley decreased 443,000 to 4,069,000 and soybeans decreased 124,000 to 681,000.

Elliott Roosevelt Challenges Items in Meyer's Accounts

was the first time he had ever had an opportunity to answer publicly many charges that had been leveled against him.

He said he was aware that there were "some serious implications in the record."

"If it is true that, for the price of entertainment, I made recommendations which would have in any way endangered the lives of the men under me, defrauded the Government, or slowed up the war effort, the fact should be known to the people."

Pepper Hits Colleagues

Smiling earnestly Roosevelt added:

"I know I'm not big enough or important enough in the country or the military service to have been responsible for all the attention paid to me unless I happened to have a relationship with the Commander in Chief, who had the executive responsibility of carrying out the war."

Earlier in the day, Senator Claude Pepper (D., Fla.) had angrily accused his colleagues of choosing "this one case because the name Roosevelt is connected."

He called upon the committee to investigate the entertainment expenses of U. S. Steel, General Motors, Pan American, and other firms.

Others Less Lavish

Subcommittee Chairman Homer Ferguson (R., Mich.) countered that the committee had been unable to find any other company whose wartime entertainment was so lavish.

He put into the record a paragraph from a report by the General Accounting Office, stating that records of other aircraft companies in the same California area "disclosed nothing of the scope or lavishment of the entertaining reflected in the attached report (Hughes report)."

"Purely Political"

In a radio interview last night, Roosevelt again branded the investigation as "purely political."

"I believe that the past records of Senator Ferguson and Senator Brewster will bear me out in that they have spent a good proportion of their time since Franklin D. Roosevelt died in trying to smear him. I think that they did so in the hopes of building themselves politically."

Ferguson has contended that since the expenses listed by Meyer were charged to business overhead, the American taxpayers met at least 42 per cent of the bill for them, either through income taxes or allowances on renegotiation.

"Detached" to Casablanca

Roosevelt disclosed that he made the ntire reconnaissance airplane survey for which he was brought back from Europe and turned in his report within 20 days.

"We didn't have time to waste in those days," he declared.

Giving the background of the search for speedier photo reconnaissance planes, Roosevelt said that this country had adequate photo reconnaissance only for the invasion of Sicily.

He said he happened to have been on "detached duty" at Casablanca (with President Roosevelt) and learned of the coming invasion.

Immediately he set about getting supplies and equipment in readiness, even before War Department orders came through. Thus, he said, the ground forces had the use of some 3,500,000 photographs of the terrain and the enemy forces.

The Army Ground Forces and the Air Forces themselves, he said, had long been dissatisfied with the photo reconnaissance assistance.

The United States, he said, had no adequate plane to do the job and was out-maneuvered by the Germans and even Italians.

Because the American planes could not equal the enemy in gaining altitude he declared the losses were practically double those of the enemy.

Lost 91 in 2½ Months

He recalled that the squadron he commanded had been reduced from 92 planes to one plane in a 2½-month period.

Soon after the invasion of Sicily took place, Roosevelt testified, Robert Lovett, then Assistant Secretary of War for Air, visited the theater on an inspection tour.

Lovett, Roosevelt said, told him that he seemed to have been able to satisfy both the ground and air forces. The Secretary said he was going to order Roosevelt back and put him in charge of all photo reconnaissance.

Returned July 31, 1943

"I begged him not to do that. I said, 'I'm the son of the President. You would open him to criticism. You would give members of Congress who don't like President Roosevelt wonderful ammunition to smear him with.'

"He told me he was going to talk to Hap Arnold—he called him Hap. I called him General Arnold."

Later, Roosevelt said, Arnold sent for him to come back to the United States on temporary duty.

He returned on July 31, 1943, he said, and reported to Arnold on August 1.

That was the day, he said, that he first heard about Howard Hughes and the Hughes Aircraft Company and its plane.

(Later in his testimony he said he might have met John Meyer, as Meyer had testified, in 1942, but if so he didn't remember it.)

Ground Forces Disturbed

"General Arnold told me 'this whole reconnaissance picture is very bad.' He said the Ground Forces were raising a tremendous fuss—that's not his exact words, but I can't give them here—over lack of support," Roosevelt testified.

The Ground Forces, he told the committee, were so disturbed that they wanted to take over the whole reconnaissance program.

Roosevelt told the committee that Arnold directed him to look into the whole photo reconnaissance program.

He said it was Arnold and Lovett who spoke of Hughes to him and told him to look at the Hughes plane.

Ordered by Arnold

"Did General Arnold specifically order you to look at the Hughes plane?" queried Ferguson.

"Yes Sir," replied Roosevelt.

"Then Arnold and Lovett told you to go to California and look at the Hughes plane?" pressed Ferguson.

"Not only that one but several others," Roosevelt replied.

Flew to California

Arnold cautioned him he could not "pull apart the fighter program" in order to get photo reconnaissance.

Roosevelt testified that he went to Wright Field in Dayton, Ohio, and then he and his fellow members of the mission flew to California. They stayed in Burbank, he said, August 9 and 10, and on August 11 they flew to Harper's Lake, Cal., to see the Hughes plane.

Under questioning Ferguson brought out that the group stayed only from 4:20 in the afternoon to 5:40 p. m. and that the plane was in the hangar all the time with one engine down.

Meets Meyer in N. Y.

"If you know what you are looking for in a plane," Roosevelt replied, "that's plenty of time."

He added that the mission had spent hours in the factory looking at plans from the blueprints up.

He returned from "Washington on August 18, Roosevelt said, and then left for a weekend in New York where, he said, he met John Meyer.

Writes Favorable Report

Meanwhile, he had written the report stating that the Hughes plane, despite the unanimous objections of the Air Forces technical staff, was the only plane that would meet the requirements. The report was signed August 20, 1943.

Roosevelt stated he recommended the Hughes plane despite the fact it was built of wood because he had personal experience with the wooden British mosquito reconnaissance planes, which were far superior to anything this country had at the time.

Contradicts Meyer

Stating that Meyer was "nothing in my life," Roosevelt said the press agent was delegated by Hughes to take the reconnaissance mission around the plant on the visit to California.

Here came the first direct contradiction from the witness stand of testimony given by Meyer.

The publicity man testified he had paid the hotel bill for Roosevelt and his fellow officers.

Roosevelt said he had checked only last Sunday with Maj. W. R. Boyd, now with Cities Service Corporation in New York, and Boyd remembered as clearly as he did that the group had paid Meyer for the hotel bill.

Roy Sherwood, Hughes Company auditor, was called to show the company had paid the bill.

Memories Clouded

Roosevelt said both his recollection and that of Boyd was a "little cloudy" as to who actually handed the cash to Meyer.

"What do you say, Meyer?" shot Ferguson.

"My memory is awfully cloudy," replied the subdued Meyer. "I have no idea. I don't recall their paying me. That's my best judgment and my answer."

The press agent, who had started the committee, became visibly more disturbed as Roosevelt continued.

Wanted as Parent

His troubles increased as the evening went along. It became known in New York last night that he is wanted there as the father of the six-month-old son of a blonde night club cigarette girl.

Juan Trippe Silent

New York, Aug. 4 (AP).—Juan Trippe, president of Pan American World Airways, returned today from a Canadian fishing trip but declined comment on the present Senate investigation of airplane contracts to Howard Hughes and Henry J. Kaiser.

Tanned and smoking a cigar, Trippe did not answer when asked if he had anything to say to Hughes' charges that Senator Owen Brewster (R., Me.) had suggested calling off the Senate subcommittee probe if Hughes consented to a merger of Trans World Airlines with Pan-American.

Hughes is a major shareholder in TWA.

Quadruplets Reported Born Without Doctor

Cincinnati, Aug. 4 (AP).—Mrs. John T. Turner of Cincinnati said today she had been advised that her daughter, 17-year-old Mrs. Virginia andy, living on a farm near Langnau, Ky., had given birth to quadruplets without the aid of a physician.

Mrs. Turner said her daughter wrote her on July 30 that the children named Goldie, Christine, Grace and Daisy, were born "Monday." That would have been a week ago today.

Mrs. Turner said she did not believe her daughter was "kidding" about the births.

Mangled by Fish, Florida Youth Dies

St. Augustine, Fla. Aug. 4 (U.P.).—The bite of a voracious fish, believed to be a barracuda, proved fatal today to Ralph Rives, jr., University of Florida sophomore who failed to rally after amputation of his mangled left leg.

Huge quantities of whole blood had been transfused into Rives' veins but initial loss of blood and the shock of the attack and amputation defeated his chances of recovery, Flagler Hospital attendants said.

13-Month-Old Girl Dies in Iron Lung

Philadelphia, Aug. 4 (U.P.).—Thirteen-month-old Lolita McCauley, one of the youngest iron lung patients in medical history, today lost her fight against meningoencephalitis, a form of sleeping sickness.

Lolita died at St. Luke's and Children's Medical Center where physicians staved off the disease temporarily with minute injections of curare, a poison used by South American indians to tip arrowheads.

unconscious prisoner all the way in the car, pushed Mrs. Thuransky in beside him and drove off.

(The United Press reported that when the legation agent ran outside, he saw Thuranszky, handcuffed and in a fainting condition, and helped Mrs. Thuranszky pull him away from the police and push him into the back seat of the car.)

The agent said the three Hungarian policemen "just stood there and stared."

U. S. Minister Selden Chapin protested to Acting Foreign Minister Erno Mihalyfi about Thuransky's arrest.

A few hours later, Chapin received the Foreign Minister's answer. It was understood to be considered unsatisfactory.

Thuransky said he represented the International Harvester Co. in Hungary. He was arrested Friday night in Balassagyarmat on charges of making "undemocratic utterances"—unprintable remarks about the Communist Party and its leader, Deputy Premier Matyas Rakosi.

He said he was taken into the Marko jail cellar, where he was knocked down and large sandbags were dropped on his back. (An American doctor later said he had possible internal injuries.) Then he was taken out to the street by a passage from the cellar.

The legation's opinion is that the police were trying to slip Thuransky past the American official waiting inside the jail entrance and into the political police headquarters.

U. S. Observers Refused Sofia Trial Facilities

Sofia, Aug. 4 (U.P.).—The Foreign Office tonight informed both the British and American missions here that it would be impossible to provide facilities for their observers to attend the trial of opposition leader Nicolas Petkov.

Petkov, leader of the opposition Agrarian National Union Party was stripped of his parliamentary immunity and arrested last month on charges of promoting military conspiracies aimed at overthrowing the Communist-dominated government. His trial opens tomorrow.

Marshall to Address U. N. in September

Secretary of State Marshall plans a major address in mid-September before the United Nations Assembly, the State Department said yesterday.

Marshall has no other speech scheduled in the meantime, aside from what he may say at the inter-American defense conference at Río de Janeiro opening next week.

Brewster Takes Hughes Spat To Department of Justice

Senator Brewster (R., Me.) called the attention of Attorney General Clark yesterday to his running public controversy with Howard Hughes, involving what Brewster has described as "a blackmail charge" by Hughes.

Brewster, chairman of the Senate War Investigating Committee which is inquiring into Hughes' war contracts, sent Clark a copy of his press statement of last Friday. In it the Senator said: "I will welcome the most thorough exploration of this charge by the Attorney General in justice to all concerned."

Justice Department officials said the statement was received by the Attorney General yesterday morning. They said Brewster also sent a covering letter, but declined to disclose its content.

The "blackmail" reference was to Hughes' assertion in a public statement last week that Brewster had offered to call off the current investigation if Hughes would merge his Tran-World Airline with Pan American Airways.

Brewster's reply said, "If there were a word of truth in the charges, they should have been presented to the Attorney General last February at the time of the alleged proposal."

Hughes has also asked that the Justice Department investigate relations between Brewster and Pan American Airways.

CAA Reveals Federal-Aid Airport Plans

New plans for Federal-aid airport programs, made necessary by recent appropriation cuts by Congress, were announced by T. P. Wright, Civil Aeronautics administrator, yesterday.

Originally CAA asked 65 million dollars for the 1947-48 program. This was cut by Congress to $32,500,000. This sum, added to balances left from last year's 45-million-dollar appropriation, will provide Federal contributions of $66,569,590 for the national program.

No new funds are allocated to the District of Columbia. The District now has $132,964 left over from previous appropriations, for which no program has yet been announced.

Nearby Projects Listed

Appropriations for nearby States include:

Maryland, $2,080,600, of which $962,150 is allocated from Federal funds, to be matched by the local municipal or county sponsor. This is distributed as follows:

Cambridge, $55,000 Federal, $55,000 local, to build two landing strips, plane and auto parking areas, administration building, access roads, etc.

Frederick Municipal Airport, $126,350 Federal, $127,850 local, to buy seven acres of additional land, build administration building, auto parking area, lightin, etc.

Cumberland Municipal, $75,000 Federal, $75,000 local, to build administration building, etc.

Salisbury, Wicomico County Airport, $70,800 Federal, $70,800 local, to build administration building, roads and plane parking area.

Crisfield Municipal, $35,000 Federal, $39,800, to construct landing strip and purchase additional property.

Baltimore, $600,00 Federal, $750,000 local, to purchase land and rights, construct one landing field, etc.

Newport News, Patrick Henry Field, $200,000 Federal, $200,000 local, to build administration building, auto parking area and roads.

Norfolk Gets $200,000

Staunton Municipal, $200,000 Federal, $200,000 local, for grading and administration building.

Roanoke Municipal, $124,064 each from Federal and local funds, to extend runways and install lighting system.

Orange County Airport, $30,000 Federal, same local, grade east-west strips.

South Boston, Halifax County Airport, $60,000 Federal, same local, to build administration building and grade two strips.

West Virginia Projects

West Virginia, $1,654,100, to be used as follows:

Beckley, Raleigh County Airport, $291,855 Federal funds, same from local funds, to build two landing strips, pave one strip 3000 by 100 feet, administration building and plane and auto parking areas.

Charleston, Kanawha Airport, $450,000 Federal, $450,000 local, to build taxiways, roads, administration building, plane and auto parking areas etc.

Parkersburg, Wood County Airport, $85,200 federal, same local, to build administration building and plane parking area.

Greeks Seek Speed On U.S. Equipment To Increase Army

Athens, Aug. 4 (U.P.).—The cabinet decided today to ask the United States to speed up deliveries of arms and other equipment needed to increase the size of the Greek army, a government spokesman said.

He said a larger army was necessary "in order to restore order and thus serve international peace."

Press reports said 300 guerillas attacked Pyrgoes, in western Macedonia, and that a band from Bulgaria made a new foray on Greek villages.

The band from Bulgaria was said to have entered the villages of Marathies and Kastanies, looted food supplies and collected eight million drachmas in "taxes" before returning to Bulgaria.

Md. Girl, 8½, Striken by Polio, 12th Case of Year

An 8½-year-old Silver Spring, Md., girl has been admitted to Children's Hospital with polio, the twelfth case reported in the Greater Washington area this year.

She was reported "getting along very well" at Children's Hospital yesterday. She lives in the 10,000 block of Clinton ave., Silver Spring.

Montgomery County Health authorities also revealed a 5½-year-old Takoma Park, Md., boy was under observation at Children's Hospital for possible polio.

Previous cases reported this year include three each in the District and Montgomery County, two each in Prince Georges and Arlington Counties, and one in Alexandria. One of the Montgomery County cases resulted in death.

Ship Line to Resume Coast-to-Coast Run

San Francisco, Aug. 4 (A.P.).—The Panama Pacific Line said today it would resume private intercoastal operation with the sailing from Baltimore on August 23, and from New York on August 27 of the Green Bay Victory.

The ship will call at Los Angeles and San Francisco. The schedule for the coast-to-coast run is 13 days, with monthly calls.

Psalm Singing Brings Confession in Slaying

Las Vegas, Nev., Aug. 4 (A.P.).—An attractive, 21-year-old Connecticutt bride, crying "I want to make my peace with the Lord," broke down during a Psalm-singing jail service and, Sheriff Glen Jones announced today, acknowledged that she and her husband of four days lured a California man to his death in an isolated forest glen.

Jailed for Nevada County, Calif., where a murder charge was filed, were Joseph L. Hardy, jr., 24, of North Kittery, Me., and the blonde former Lois Hunt, a native of New London, Conn., and until recently a waitress in a Portsmouth, N. H., tea shop.

"People have always taken me for a sweet, innocent little girl," Sheriff Glen Jones quoted her in one of three signed statements. "If only they knew how I am on the inside, they would sing a different tune."

Shooting Described

Elsewhere in the statement, said the sheriff, she detailed how she and Hardy lured J. W. McLain, 48, Burbank, Calif., Veterans' Administration employe, off a highway between Reno and San Francisco and how, as they sat on a blanket, Hardy shot him. McLain's body, wrapped in a blanket, was found a few miles east of Truckee.

The pair had been held since Friday night for investigation, after Hardy fell asleep on the Boulder City highway south of here and crashed in a car Jones identified as McLain's.

Sunday, the Rev. R. Craig Willoughby and a prayer party from the Full Gospel Tabernacle visited the jail. In the midst of the services, Mrs. Hardy began to sob. Within an hour, the sheriff said, he had a stenographic statement which each signed.

Listed as Army AWOL

At Portsmouth, Hardy's family said, he left there three weeks ago for California. State police said he is still carried on their lists as AWOL from Camp Adair, Oreg., and officials of the State industrial school at Manchester said he was pardoned from there five years ago to join the Army.

In newspaper files was a story of his marriage two years ago to Virgina Baptiste, A Wac, at Camp Croft, S. C. Members of his family said they knew of no change in his martial status.

Sheriff Releases Statement

From the stenographic statement, which the sheriff said was signed jointly but dictated by Hardy, he released this account:

"Hitchhiking from Salt Lake City to Reno we were given a ride by J. W. McLain of Burbank, Calif. He talked too much and gave us the impression that he was just a rich bachelor and could be taken over very easily. His actions toward Miss Hunt were very vulgar, lewd and improper . . .

"At our insistence we started for a trip into the mountains of California . . . We all three walked back into the woods where McLain took Lois into his arms. I was trying to make up my mind to shoot him but I became nervous and would have backed out had not Lois encouraged me to carry out our plan. Lois and McLain seated themselves on a blanket and began kissing. Lois turned his head so that he could not see the gun. I then shot him through the left ear and he fell back on the ground.

"Lois then moved away from him and I could see that he was not dead, so I shot him two more times. He was still breathing strongly when Lois took his pulse so I hit him in the head with a large rock."

Russia Claims Idea Of Jet Propulsion

Moscow, Aug. 4 (U.P.).—Soviet Russia, through the official Communist newspaper Pravda, today laid claim to pioneering the theory of jet propulsion.

Pravda also revealed that in addition to the six Russian designers whose ultra-modern jet-propelled planes were unveiled at yesterday's annual air force exhibition day, a seventh jet plane had been created by Designer Gurevich.

Jewish Official Killed as Haifa Bank Is Robbed

Jerusalem, Aug. 4 (AP).—Seven youths and a girl, whom police identified as Jews, killed a Jewish bank official in a Haifa holdup today, wounded the bank's Jewish manager and fled with $5200.

Later in the day, the British army moved in on the Jewish colony of Vivat Shaul in the Jerusalem area and blew to bits a building where troops had found three days ago a large cache of illegal arms, ammunition, and raw materials for bombs. A law enacted last week authorized the razing of buildings used for underground purposes.

(More British soldiers will be executed by Irgun Zvai Leumi as soon as they are captured, a leader of the Jewish underground organization declared in Paris.

(He said Sergts. Clifford Martin and Mervin Paice, found hanged in Palestine last Thursday, were "known to be guilty of anti-espionage in civilian dress.")

Six of the young men participating in the Haifa raid guarded the entrance to Barclay's Bank, branch of a British institution, while the seventh and the girl entered. The official was killed while resisting them. The bank manager was beaten until he opened the money box.

The noonday crowd on the street outside the institution attempted to halt the robbers, but scattered after they fired into the air.

Meanwhile, a petition was filed with the Palestine Supreme Court asking three police officials and British Maj. Roy A. Farran to show cause why the body of Alexander Rubowitz, 16, a Jew, who disappeared May 6, should not be produced in court.

The petition was filed in the name of Rubowitz's parents. In addition to Farran it named Col. W. N. Gray, inspector general of the Palestine police; George Heddingham, superintendent of police for the Jerusalem district, now on leave in Britain, and Brig. Bernard Ferguson, on loan by the army to head the police antiterrorist division.

The Stern group, underground Jewish organization which claimed Rubowitz as a member, said the youth disappeared after being called to a car occupied by several men.

UN Unit Begins Work

Geneva, Aug. 4 (U.P.).—The United Nations special commission on Palestine began its first working session in Switzerland today with the problem of partition of the Holy Land standing out as a major point to be considered in finding and implementing a workable solution.

Members of the commission, which received tons of written evidence during its investigation in Palestine, have spent several days in unofficial attempts to find a common starting point for official sessions but none emerged.

Infantile Paralysis Vaccine Developed

By The Associated Press

Development of an infantile paralysis vaccine said to be capable of producing "a high degree of immunity" in a certain type of rats was described yesterday in the technical pournal Science.

The report, describing the work of a team of Stanford University researchers, contained no statement as to any significance of the studies with relation to the disease in human beings.

The virus used in preparing the vaccine was "inactivated" with formaldehyde—that is, its ability to cause infection was destroyed.

But it still had the ability to stimulate the production of "antibodies"—nature's own protective mechanism against the disease—in rats which were vaccinated.

Rebels Surge In Paraguay

Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, Aug. 4 (AP). Revitalized Paraguayan insurgent troops have captured a succession of important ports in their sweep down the Paraguay River toward the government-held capital of Asuncion, the Rebel radio said today.

The Brazilian news agency Asapalss quoted the insurgent radio as saying that 7000 Rebel infantrymen and 2000 cavalry troopers had captured Milagron, Ibapopo, San Pedro, Puerto Antequera, Puerto Rosario and Villa Hayes—the latter only 20 miles north of Asuncion.

The reports of revolutionist success in the five-month-old civil war came as diplomatic sources here said efforts of Brazil and Argentina to mediate the Paraguayan war had failed.

Negro Voters in Mississippi Primary Facing Ironic Oath

Jackson, Miss., Aug. 4 (AP).—Some 6000 Negroes expected to turn out for Mississippi's Democratic primary tomorrow will be asked to swear their dislike of Federal antilynch laws as a prerequisite to voting.

Adding perhaps to the irony of this situation—the initial test of a 1947 law designed to discourage Negro voting—the prospective Negro voters also will be required to swear accord "with the time-honored and cherished traditions of the South."

The new law decrees that all voters must certify agreement with party principles as set forth by the State Democratic Executive Committee. Those principles also embrace opposition to Federal antipoll tax legislation and to the Fair Employment Practices Commission.

In short, the Negroes who vote tomorrow would go on record as opposing several Federal instruments designed to help them gain more equality in the South. The Mississippi law demanding they do this was passed at a special session of the Legislature last March. In 1946 Negroes had voted throughout the State—in sizeable numbers—for the first time. At that time Senator Theodore G. Bilbo had urged the whites to keep the Negroes from the voting booths.

President T. B. Wilson of the Mississippi Progressive Voters' League estimated that this year around 6000 of the 12,000 Negroes registered in Mississippi will attempt to vote.

Said Wilson, a Negro:

"I don't know what obstacles may be met at the polls tomorrow. But our members are being advised to create no disturbance if their vote is challenged and they are turned away."

Vote May Total 350,000

Chairman Herbert Holmes of the State Democratic Executive Committee said at Senatobia that "color will be no bar to voting. Some whites are going to be challenged. We shall expect the law to be followed and for either whites or Negroes to be challenged if they do not meet all requirements of the law."

A Governor and a full ticket of State and county officers will be nominated in the primary in which the vote may run in the neighborhood of 350,000. Persons who have voted in the last three primary elections are exempted from the oath of accord.

Football Star Killed, 3 Hurt In Auto Crash

A 16-year-old Arlington High School football star was killed and three other youths hospitalized late Sunday night in a two-car collision at Sleepy Hollow and Ravenwod rds., near Falls Church, Va.

The victim was Lee Barber of 1019 N. McKinley rd., Arlington, Va., son of a Veterans' Administration official and a high school honor student.

Suffers Broken Neck

The Barber youth, son of Dr. and Mrs. Anson B. Barber, was riding in a car driven by Paul Middleton, 603 Great Falls, rd., Falls Church. An automobile in front of them driven by Alfred Cantwell, 17, of Fairfax County plunged into a ditch, then pulled out into the path of the one driven by Middleton, according to police. Barber suffered a broken neck when the Middleton car overturned several times and was dead on arrival at Arlington County Hospital.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. today at the Falls Church Presbyterian Church and burial will be in Fredericktown, Mo.

The victim had played center on the Falls Church football team for the last two seasons. He was a member of the school's honor society and an Eagle Scout. He is survived by his parents and a brother, Anson Richard Barber.

Treated at Hospital

The two other youths were treated at Arlington County Hospital and released.

Hugh Miller, 49, of 4409 Yuma st. nw., chief photographer for The Washington Post, suffered head cuts, possible fractured ribs and internal injuries in a two-car collison at 45th and Albemarle sts. nw. about 11 a. m. Driver of the other car was Hallowell W. Miller, 40, of 3909 S. 16th st., Arlington, Va.

Hugh Miller was taken to Emergency Hospital and released later in the day. Hallowell Miller was uninjured.

Paul Middleton said that Barber and Allison Glover, 17, of 39 Great Falls rd., were passengers in his car at the time the accident occurred. They had been trailing the car driven by Cantwell, who was alone. The youths had been having a "friendly get-together" at the home of a friend and were on their way home at about 11 o'clock when the accident occurred.

American Army Is Helping Revive German Movie Industry

The Army disclosed yesterday that the German motion picture industry soon will be ready to resume competition in the world film market.

Its announcement said U. S. occupation forces will supervise rebirth of the German industry to assure a "democratic basis in an independent, decartilized form . . . (with) high moral standards and a clean political bill of health."

New German films will be exported to help pay for food and critical raw material imports but a stiff embargo will be clamped on all films "produced prior to the occupation," the Army said.

Soviet, French and British film distributors will be permitted to send their films into the American zone when they agree to let American and German films appear in their own occupation zones.

Eric Johnston, president of the Motion Picture Association of America, approved the revival of the German industry and its renewal of competition in world markets.

RFC Head Urged B.&O. Report Delay

Goodloe Denies, However, That Pleas To Senate Subcommittee Was Unethical

John D. Goodloe, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, admitted yesterday that he had pleaded personally with members of a Senate subcommittee, urging them to delay action on a report criticizing his agency's 80 million dollars loan to the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, less than an hour before the subcommittee voted to shelve the report.

Goodloe vehemently denied, however, a charge by Senator Charles W. Tobey (R., N. H.), chairman of the Senate Banking Committee and of the subcommittee, that his action was "unethical."

Senator Tobey, who was not present when the group voted to withhold the report, made the charge last night in telegrams to the six other members of the subcommittee informing them that he intends to make the report public. He is expected to do so within a few days.

The RFC chairman likewise denied Senator Tobey's charge that he had "gained access" to the still "secret report," maintaining that it had not been seen by him or "anybody else" at the loan agency.

His attempt to block the report before he knew what it contained, he said, was based on the presumption that it would include the charges made by Senator Tobey during hearings on the disputed loan that it was illegal, improper and the result of "skullduggery" between RFC and B. & O. officials.

Va. Labor Bureau Blames Recession For Fewer Jobs

Richmond, Va., Aug. 4 (AP).—more and more peoplle employed in the socalled non-durablle industries in Virginia are losing their jobs because of what the State commissioner of labor terms a "business recession."

A report released by the State and U. S. Breau of Labor Statistics bames the slump in the non-durable goods trade on a business recession , tobacco and chemicall industries.

The recession in the clothing industry, the report continued, was caused by "nervous" retailers who made heavy cuts in their inventories because of "uncertain economic conditions."

The report noted, however, that employment in the durable goods industries actuallly was up 136 over the May figure.

Truman Returns to Washington, Signs 21 Bills

By the United Press

President Truman returned from a restful weekend at his mountain lodge yesterday to resume work on the pile of bills and appointments awaiting his attention.

He arrived in Washington at 12:45 p. m. During a busy afternoon, he:

1. Signed 21 bills, including one to life the minimum montly pay for on-the-job trainees with more than 30 per cent disability from $105 to $115 for single veterans and from $115 to $145 for married ex-servicemen.

2. Sent a message of sympathy to the government and people of Uruguay upon the death of President Thomas Berreta.

3. "Pocket-vetoed" two minor bills—one to compensaate a former Pearl Harbor shipyard worker and the other to re-imburse the District of Columbia for equipping the U. S. Park Police.

Mr. Truman's approval of the 20 bills left only about 50 awaiting action. The White House expects him to complete the job about the middle of this week.

The President and his White House staff drove to the mountain lodge "Shangri-La" a hide-away in Maryland's Catoctin Mountains, to obtain some rest after the rigors of the past few weeks.

He spent a quiet weekend, resting, hiking and swimming in the chilly waters of the pool. He left his retreat about 10 a. m. yesterday morning, pausing at Silver Spring, Md., to meet his wife upon her return by train from Independence, Mo.

The White House was uncertain on Mr. Truman's travel plans for the next month. It said that the President himself was uncertain whether he would attend the Inter-American Defense Conference at Rio de Janeiro, Brazil.

There has been some speculation in Brazilian circles that he might sail for Brazil aboard the giant battleship Missouri, now undergoing repairs at Norfolk, Va.

Ancient Skeltons Of Indians Found

Bristol, R. I. (U.P.).—What appears to be a burial ground of the Wampanoag Indians who roamed the wooded slopes here 300 years ago has been found by workmen digging into a gravel bank.

Clarence Davis found the frontal part of a skull, the jawbone and thighbone of a skeleton.

Thirty-two teeth in the jaw were intact.

Another worker uncovered two other skeletons and nearby were several arrowheads and the head of a tomahawk. The gravel bank is little more than a mile north of the spot where King Philip, sachem of the Wampanoags, was killed in 1676.

Prize Texas Tomatoes Fly North in Hurry

Moore Field, Tex. (U.P.).—Chicago and Detroit housewives are getting prize Texas tomatoes less than 24 hours after they are plucked from the vines.

The tomatoes are flown in daily flights of DC-4 planes to the Northern markets by the Rio Grande Corp., a firm streamlining the handling of tomatoes.

Pink and solid, the tomatoes are picked and hurried to a packing shed beside an airstrip. There they are sorted and wrapped in airtight cellophane boxes ready for the grocers' shelves.

Clements, Dummit Hold Leads in Key Governor Primary

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 4 (AP).—Representative Earle C. Clements, Morganfield Democrat, and Attorney General Elden S. Dummit, Lexington Republican, candidates for nominations for Governor, held firmly to their leads today as returns trickled in from Saturday's Kentucky primary elections.

Returns from 2493 of the State's 4045 precincts, gave Clements a lead of 16,448 votes over Harry Lee Waterfield of Clinton, Speaker of the State House of Representatives.

Returns from 2383 precincts gave Dummit a lead of 11,096 votes over John Fred Williams of Volga, State Superintendent of Public Instruction.

Martinsburg Man Held for Action Of Grand Jury

Hagerstown, Md., Aug. 4 (Spl.)—Roy William Ridenour, 32, Martinsburg, W. Va., charged by police with the slaying July 28 of Charles Taylor, was held tonight for grand jury action.

Ridenour, who is being held in Washington County jail, appeared before Magistrate John H. Hetzer in nearby Williamsport. The grand jury is scheduled to meet next in November.

A former Army warrant officer, Ridenour temporarily waived preliminary hearing.

Taylor, 52, wealthy Hagerstown resident, was found shot to death last Tuesday. He had left Martinsburg with Ridenour the night before with about $4000 in his pockets, police said.

Ridenour was arrested in Baltimore later in the day. He was reported by police as saying that Taylor had pulled a pistol on him during an argument about the money and that the gun went off accidentally during a struggle. The money has not been recovered.

Pedant's Wealth Locked in China

Syracuse, N. Y. (U.P.).—Dr. George B. Cressy is in a worse predicament than a man with a $1000 check after banking hours. He has received the first royalties on his textbook, a tidy sum of $2,055,900.

Unfortunately the money is in Chinese dollars. The royalties are on the Chinese translation of the book and are deposited for the professor in a Shanghai bank, drawing 40 per cent interest.

The Chinese government won't let him convert the money into American dollars or permit him to remove it from the country. Worst of all, the rate of exchange between Chinese and American dollars rose from 12,000 to 1 in late April to more than 50,000 to 1 today.

Rockville Daily Sold at Auction For $18,000

R. K. Edwards of Hagerstown, Md., who described himself as an "investor," yesterday purchased the Independent Standard, Montgomery County's only daily newspaper, for $18,000 at a Rockville auction sale.

With Auctioneer Brake R. Fraley of Derwood, Md., in charge, the bidding started at $9000 for the newspaper plant's equipment, which included one printing press and two linotype machines.

The sale followed foreclosure by the Citizens Bank of Takoma Park, following nonpayment of a $5000 note by the former publishers, J. W. and R. C. Musser.

Officials said a total of $23,000 plus a $1000 judgment was owed the bank on the property. Listed as coworker on the chattel mortgage was Eugene J. C. Raney of Kensington.

The buyer would not divulge his plans for the newspaper but said publication of a newspaper in Montgomery County would "probably" be started with the equipment.

A sheriff's sale of miscellaneous equipment following the action on the bank foreclosure netted $804. About 50 buyers attended the sale held at the newspaper plant at 207 East Montgomery ave., Rockville.

4 Men Killed at Anzio Opening Left-Over Mine

Anzio, Italy, Aug. 4 (U.P.).—Four men were blown to bits on Anzio beach yesterday when they tried to remove powder from a mine.

Authorities predicted mine casualties would increase now that the hunting season has opened. Many sportsmen obtain powder for homemade shotgun shells from mines, which still may be found in old battle areas.

State Trooper Sued in Death Of Trucke rin Salisbury Jail

Salisbury, Md., Aug. 4 (AP).—Survivors of Milton H. Jones today filed suits totaling $100,000 against John J. Harbaugh, 29-year-old State trooper who allegedly exchanged blows with Jones shortly before the latter's death July 26 at Wicomico County Jail.

Manslaughter charges have also been placed against Harbaugh and John W. Turner, 62-year-old jailer.

The suits were filed through State Senator Thomas J. Johnson and W. Edgar Porter, counsel for Jones' family.

Named as plaintiffs were "Doris Irene Jones and W. Edgar Porter, executors of the estate of Milton H. Jones" and "the State of Maryland to the use of Doris Irene Jones, widow, and William Bernard Jones and Dolores Mai Jones, infant children of Milton H. Jones, deceased."

Jones, a 31-year-old trucking operator and resident of Salisbury for several years, had been arrested by Harbaugh on a drunken driving charge shortly before the alleged scuffling. Harabaugh and Turner were each released on $10,000 bond after waiving a preliminary hearing.

Charlottesville Auto Accident Toll Rises to 4

Charlottesville, Va., Aug. 4 (Spl.).—Charles J. Thomas, 19, of Albemarle County, died here last night, bringing the death toll from a Saturday night auto accident to four.

Earlier victims were James Thomas, 55; Russell Early Cox, 19, and Eugene Pritchett, 18, all residents of Albemarle County. The car in which they were passengers ran into a parked cattle truck near Breezy Hill Farm.

In another accident Saturday night, Bernard Coates, 23, of Lynchburg, lost his life when thrown from the rear seat of a jeep on a new section of highway on Route 29, near Lynchburg.

447,309 Autos Registered in Md.

Baltimore, Aug. 4 (AP).—The department of motor vehicles said today there were 447,309 registered autos in Maryland.

This represents a 10.4 per cent increase over the total of 405,115 pleasure car licenses issued in the previous year, the agency said in its annual report. Figures cover the fiscal year 1947 which ended June 30.

The department said its revenues for the year amounted to $10,678,645.42—highest for any year in its history, and an increase of nearly 54 per cent over the previous 12 months.

Va. Welfare Dept. Begins 2d Week Under New Setup

Richmond, Va., Aug. 4 (AP).—The State Department of Public Welfare began its second week of operations today under a new organization and administration plan.

The new setup, announced by Commissioner Arthur W. James, became effective August 1.

Briefly, it reorganizes the department into three main divisions—handling of delinquents, local welfare services, and administration. James personally directs the Administration Division which includes accounts and fiscal control, actual operations of the bureau, personnel, research, statistics and publicity.

The division handling children will be under J. Luther Glass after September 1. He is now with the Federal Bureau of Investigation at Charlotte, N. C. Glass will supervise women delinquents, court services and treatment programs in schools.

Assistant Commissioner William L. Painter will head the local service division.

James appointed Paul Keve, a member of the Welfare Department, as director of the juvenile delinquency section of the Children's Bureau. The vacancy left by the resignation of Lois Benedict as director of the child welfare service, adoptions and licenses in the Children's Bureau, will be filled later, James said.

James said he believed the new department plan would result in better coordination of related department work, provide effective leadership and eliminate duplication of work.

Mother Sentenced, City Takes 2 Children

Baltimore, Aug. 4 (AP).—Two young children became public wards today when their 20-year-old mother was sentenced to two years in the State Reformatory for Females on charges of tying them to a bed in what police described as a filthy municipal housing project apartment.

Judge Charles E. Moylan meted out the sentence to Mrs. Mildred Chaplinski and ordered her 3-year-old son and 2-year-old daughter turned over to care of the Department of Welfare.

Town in Nova Scotia Marks 342d Birthday

Annapolis Royal, Nova Scotia, Aug. 4 (AP).—The oldest white man's settlement still inhabited in North America celebrated its 342d birthday today.

This small Nova Scotia town was founded in 1605 by the French. There were other settlements founded before Annapolis Royal but none of them is still inhabited.

The oldest service club on the continent, the Order of Good Cheer, still holds regular meetings here.

Bevin Insists On Socializing Ruhr Industry

London, Aug. 4 (AP).—Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin reiterated in the House of Commons tonight Britain's announced policy of public ownership of the mines and factories of Germany's Ruhr.

"Who is going to have these industries if the people do not?" he asked in a Commons debate on Germany. "Are they going back to the syndicates or to the Krupps?"

Bevin also declared his opposition to four-power control of the Ruhr as proposed by France.

"I have taken the view that I will not be a party to four-power control of the Ruhr unless there is four-power control of all German industry," he said.

The Foreign Secretary's statement of policy was the first from an official British source since the Anglo-American differences over planning for Germany were thrust into the open last month in a dispute over the scope of projected talks in Washington on coal production in the Ruhr.

Bevin replied to a warning by Harold MacMillan, principal Conservative speaker in the debate, against trying "to force nationalization of industry or any particular scheme or hobby you may like" upon the Germans.

Regarding Germany's level of industry, Bevin said his preference was for raising German steel production to about 11 million tons, which he said he thought would give "about the standard of life which existed in Germany prior to the Hitler regime and prior to preparations for war."

"But what are we faced with?" he asked. "We are faced with what was known as the Morgenthau policy of the United States. That policy was to pastoralize Germany and would have given industry a figure as low as 5.8 million tons."

Bevin did not refer to recent reports that the United States wants to postpone socialization of the coal mines for at least five years, perhaps more, while trying to raise production.

Attlee Comes To Grips With British Crisis

By Don Cook

London, Aug. 4.—In a series of all-day conferences, beginning with a meeting of the cabinet's defense committee and Britain's chiefs of staff, Prime Minister Clement R. Attlee today hammered out final details of the Labor government's economic crisis program.

Although the British people by now are fairly well prepared for the shock coming when the crisis program is announced on Wednesday, something of a holiday mood pervaded Downing Street. The first Monday of every August is always a national holiday.

The House of Commons also was meeting today in an effort to clean up legislative business so that it can recess on Friday for the rest of the summer. It was the first time Commons has met on a national holiday since 1940, when Winston Churchill completed formation of the wartime coalition government and delivered his famous "blood, toil, tears and sweat" oration.

Attlee is to preside over a final meeting of the full cabinet tomorrow before his own "toil, tears and sweat" speech in Commons Wednesday. The speech will outline a 25 per cent reduction in British imports which is likely to hit food imports the hardest.

Member Tells Commons He 'Leaked' to Paper

London, Aug. 4 (U.P.).—Laborite Evelyn Walkden, well known author of political articles, admitted to a hushed House of Commons today that he had disclosed inside information on secret parliamentary meetings to the newspaper Evening News.

Last week the Commons committee of privileges reported that the editor and diplomatic correspondent of the Evening News testified the newspaper paid $20 a week to a member of Parliament for information, but refused to divulge his name.

Walkden was the second MP to confess giving secret information to a newspaper. Laborite Garry Allighan last week admitted providing accounts of meetings to the Evening Standard.

Walkden, 54, World War I veteran and union organizer for 13 years, said he was making a frank statement to save any other members of the House from suspicion.

He said he had disclosed information to Stanley Hobson, political correspondent of the News, who was a friend of long standing.

Walkden denied he was paid for information. He said he had received money from the newspaper for the past eight months for working in "a purely advisory capacity" and that he had reported this income to tax officials.

After he left the chamber the House voted to refer the matter to the committee of privileges.

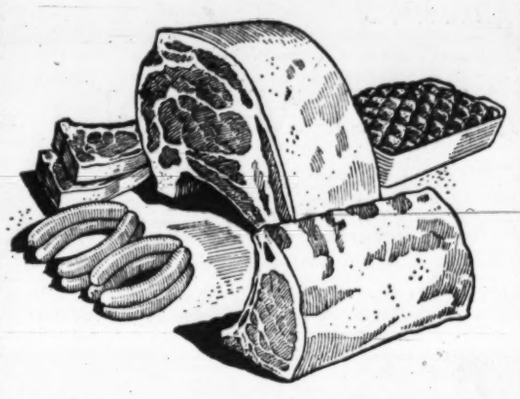
Gov. Lane Takes Plane To Crowning Ceremony

Annapolis, Md., Aug. 4 (AP).—Governor Lane took off from Lee Airport near here this afternoon on his first airplane flight since taking office last January.

He headed for Cumberland and one of the more pleasant tasks of a Chief Executive — crowning "Miss Maryland" after a contest of the State's prettiest eight girls tonight.

The Price of Meat



Meat prices, whether up or down, are determined by competition. Just as the more than 4,000 separate companies in the meat packing industry compete with each other in buying livestock and selling meat . . . so millions of shoppers select meat daily from the available supply.

And at retail, when meat cuts are in large supply, prices are lower than when they are in limited supply. The supply of one meat or another may change greatly from week to week or season to season. This results in meat prices going up or down.

Whether the price goes up or down, total net profits of the meat packing companies have practically no effect on the price you pay for a pound of meat.

As a matter of fact, the profit of the meat packing industry for buying livestock, processing it and getting it to your store actually amounts, after all expenses, to less than seven cents a week for an average family of four.

Blast Probers Ask Utility for Gas Line Maps

Harrisonburg, Va., Aug. 4 (AP).—The Consumers Utility Co., which supplies butane gas to Harrisonburg, has been ordered by the City Council to provide it with maps showing its lines, safety connections an dother installations, including the safety measures and other devices used by the company.

The company was ordered to supply this information after the hearing of a report from City Attorney George D. Conrad on the two-day investigation into the cause of the blast in the Pauline Beauty Shop and College, which caused the death of 11 persons and injured more than a score on July 29.

Technical reports on the explosion are not expected to be available for a week or 10 days. Mayor Bernard T. Denton and the city attorney were given authority to hire an expert to check all gas installations to prevent any further catastrophes.

Conrad said investigators have agreed that the blast occurred from an accumulation of gas ignited when Jesse James Mullen, shoveling coal in the basement, struck a match to light a cigarette. Mullen is in the hospital here in a critical condition, one of the 10 victims still hospitalized.

Hunter Stumbles, Charge Kills Boy Walking Ahead

Rawlings, Md., Aug. 4 (AP).—Charles P. Welsh, 16, was dead today as a result of what Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county coroner, described as a hunting accident.

Welsh was shot yesterday while walking along the tracks of the Western Maryland Railroad with two companions, State Trooper Thomas Zeditz reported.

Welsh was a few yards in front of Roy Winters, 16, of Cumberland, when Winters stumbled and accidentally pulled the trigger of his 12-gauge shotgun, Zeditz said the boys told him.

Md. Man Accused Of Running Down Farmer in Truck

Oakland, Md., Aug. 4 (AP).—James William Hoover, 28, Jennings, was ordered held without bond today on charges that he killed a Garrett County farmer by running him down with a truck.

Elzie F. Layman, 49, died Thursday morning in Miners Hospital, Frostburg, after he was found lying along Route 40. William Payton, a service station operator, told police his establishment had been the scene of an argument between the victim, Hoover, and a brother of Hoover shortly before Layman was found in the road.

Marlyand Farm Land Prices Exceed Peak in 1919-20 Boom

Farm land prices in Maryland have now exceeded the record peaks of the 1919-20 boom, and farmers should exercise care in buying land, Luther B. Bohanan, agricultural economist at the University of Maryland, said yesterday.

Bohanan said a study of farm sales conducted in Somerset, Queen Annes, Frederick, St. Marys and Harford Counties, showed farm land prices have nearly doubled in the past seven years.

He said skyrocketing prices resulted from:

1. High prices for farm produce.
2. Low interest rates on other types of investment.
3. Increased purchases for non-agricultural use.

The economist said the present situation "makes this a risky time in which to buy farm property," and urged farmers to "have appraisals made before purchasing land," basing appraisals on the normal value of the land.

Bohanan declared: "Farm incomes during the past few years have been three times the prewar avrage. Appraisals based on this income would be out of line with normal earning power of the farm."

The continued advance of farm land prices may be retarded by the expected decline in farm prices, the high labor cost and scarcity of farm machinery and the memory of the last "boom and bust" in farm land prices, he said.

BIG-CAR QUALITY AT LOWEST COST

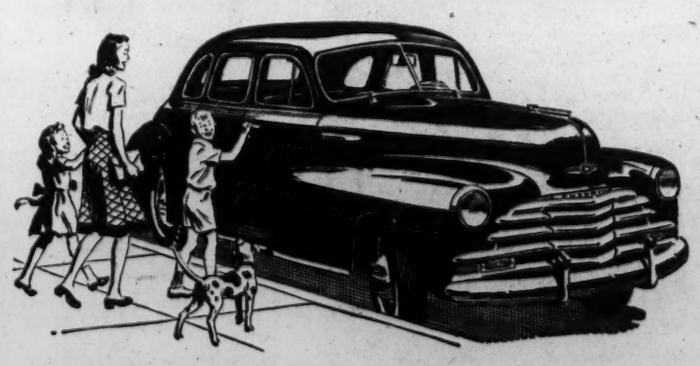
World's Champion Valve-in-Head Design!

The new Chevrolet is the lowest-priced motor car with a Valve-in-Head Engine—the type of car engine which holds all records for efficiency—for giving maximum power from every ounce of fuel. Moreover, Chevrolet's Valve-in-Head Engine is the "champion of champions" on all these counts: (1) Valve-in-Head performance at lowest prices; (2) billions of miles of service to owners; and (3) number of owners served. In fact, this sturdy Chevrolet Valve-in-Head Engine has delivered more miles, for more owners, over a longer period, than any other automotive engine built today, regardless of type, size or price!

CHEVROLET

In addition to giving you the outstanding performance-efficiency of a Valve-in-Head Thrift-Master Engine, Chevrolet gives you the BIG-CAR styling and luxury of a Unisteel Body by Fisher—the pattern of fine coachcraft—and, of course, "Body by Fisher" is exclusive to Chevrolet in the lowest-price range.

You and your family want real motoring safety—whenever and wherever you travel—and here again your choice is Chevrolet. It's soundly and sturdily built, with BIG-CAR QUALITY through and through, typified by Fisher Unisteel construction, the Knee-Action Ride and Positive-Action Hydraulic Brakes. That's a combination of safety factors found only in Chevrolet and higher-priced cars.



You can't match Chevrolet's BIG-CAR COMFORT at lowest cost, either, for it brings you the higher degree of riding-smoothness and road-steadiness imparted by the famous Knee-Action Gliding Ride—and this, too, is exclusive to Chevrolet in its price range.

Be wise! Keep your present car in good running condition by bringing it to us for skilled service, now and at regular intervals, until you secure delivery of your new Chevrolet. Come in—today!

U. S., British to Plan For More Ruhr Coal

Talks to Start Here Next Week on Increase Held Vital to Europe's Economic Recovery

By George Durno
International News Service Reporter

American and British officials yesterday scheduled a series of talks in Washington next week on means to step up Ruhr coal production by 50 per cent as a primary contribution to the Marshall Plan for European rehabilitation.

Both governments agree that Ruhr coal is vital to western Europe's economic recovery and the fullest exploitation of the area's coal mines will be their goal.

The State Department announced that the British delegation, headed by Sir William Strang, political adviser to the military governor of the British occupation zone in Germany, will arrive in Washington next Monday.

The British group will start discussions on August 12 with an American delegation headed by Assistant Secretary of State Willard Thorp, who is in charge of economic affairs.

The objective is an arrangement to push Ruhr coal production up to 300,000 tons daily in the next few months and to 350,000 tons by next January 1. Current output has sagged to a little over 200,000 tons.

The British, facing their greatest financial and economic crisis, are expected to suggest that the United States take over a portion of the burden of occupying the Ruhr, which lies completely in the British occupation zone. This would lessen Britain's costs and release much-needed manpower for home industries.

Secretary of State Marshall has said the United States will propose that German miners and executives with the "know-how" be put on the job under close supervision. This would involve releasing many who are now held prisoners in other zones doing other types of work.

The United States probably will be called upon to send food supplies into the Ruhr area. It is conceded that production has lagged because the miners are underfed.

The discussion of Ruhr coal will be only a segment of the over-all European picture which has American officials gravely concerned.

State Department spokesmen declined to comment on the British economic crisis and possible further United States aid pending the Wednesday pronouncement Prime Minister Clement Attlee will make before Commons.

Washington circles anticipated that Attlee would call for further British import restrictions, additional rationing and would plead with labor for more hours of work weekly.

Further import restrictions, designed to balance British trade and conserve dwindling dollar reserves, probably would hit such American exports as tobacco and movies.

Army Air Forces Exhibit Opens at National Museum

An Army Air Forces research and development exhibition was opened at the National Museum, 10th st. and Independence ave. sw. yesterday. The display will continue until August 31.

Brig. Gen. Edwin B. Lyon, president of the Air Forces Officers' Selection Board, officially opened the exhibit, which is in commemoration of the AAF's fortieth anniversary.

Highlights includes a B-25 nose with eight .50-caliber machine guns capable of firing 9600 rounds a minute, and a J-33 jet engine, the model which recently powered a P-80 to a world speed record of 624 m.p.h.

New Navy Jets Carry Menace Fore and Aft

By the United Press

The Navy is enthusiastic about its new carrier-based jet planes, but conceded yesterday that they have one major drawback:

They've added a new "don't" to the Navy's safety rules for fliers and mechanics—"Don't go near the tail."

The Navy long has warned its carrier personnel to stay away from propellers; that they can chop off a head or arm. But with the advent of the jet, the watchword has been—"Stay away from the air intake scoop and the hot tail exhaust."

A recent Navy flight bulletin said that a man crossing the stream of a jet exhaust can be seriously burned. He also can be tossed quite a distance by the force of the stream.

The opposite is true of the air-intake scoops. They can grab a man and hug him to the plane until the engine is turned off. Then, too, they are apt to snatch up any loose clothing or tools and grind them up in the engines.

Nebraska Protest Supplies Text of Vatican Editorial

Vatican City, Aug. 4 (AP).—A letter from Miss Florence Erickson of Omaha, Nebr., today furished Osservatore Romano a text for an editorial on the nature of charity.

Miss Erickson, the Vatican newspaper said, wrote to its editors protesting that Msgr. John Patrick Carroll was seeking financial aid in the United States for the Catholic-sponsored "boys" towns in Italy he helped found.

The writer was quoted as saying: "What would you say if an American Mason, to aid a boys' town organized by Masons in America, went around making collections in Italy, where there are boys' towns organized by Catholics?"

"Well, we would say first," Osservatore commented, "that Italy then would find herself in the condition of America, of being able to aid the poorer, and that would be, in truth, a great and beautiful thing, since there would then be valid for her, as today for happy America, the evangelic words directed to all the rich: 'Quod superest date pauperibus' (give of your surplus to the poor).

This Started Something!

YOU'RE LOOKING at the dawn of a new day in the history of the automobile.

8,000 welds join every piece of structure steel into one "pocket battleship" unit.

Engineers predict . . . this revolutionary construction is bound to come in all cars . . . it's the only right way to build them.

But a Nash "600" has it today—and that's why Nash is so far ahead, in every way!

You see it in Nash "600" gasoline mileage . . . 25 to 30 miles on a gallon . . . 500 to 600 on a tankful, at moderate highway speed!

You see it in the size of a Nash interior . . . extra head-room and leg-room . . . wider doors and seats . . . a rear compartment that can take a double Convertible Bed.

You feel it in the performance of a Nash.

In pickup . . . in quietness . . . in roadability . . . in steering that's amazingly easier!

You feel it in the cradled ride of Nash's deep coil springs cushioning all 4 wheels.

Yes—even the air is different with Nash Conditioned Air! Always fresh and pure . . . never cold, dusty, or drafty. It's automatic—the famous Weather-Eye System at work!

You get it all in a Nash . . . plus beauty . . . plus the rugged dependability of a Nash . . . and all at a price that compares with America's low-price cars!

Yes—this is the value that makes Nash the fastest growing car in popularity today.

It's the kind of value you want in your new 1947 automobile.

There's a new kind of automobile dealer in America today. There's where you'll find the new Nash "600" and new Nash Ambassador—The Pattern of Cars To Come!

Virginia Insurgents

In the otherwise dull and prosaic Virginia Democratic primary election today the fight in Arlington County stands out as a bright spot. Because of its heterogeneous population, Arlington has become in many ways the political maverick of the Old Dominion. There the opposition to the incumbents of the Byrd organization is more than just nominal. It is reported that Martin A. Hutchinson, the Richmond attorney who opposed Senator Byrd for reelection last year, is using Arlington as a testing ground for his effort to root out the Byrd forces on the precinct level. For this reason, doubtless, both Senator Byrd and Representative Howard Smith will view today's balloting with more than a modicum of interest. And whatever the outcome, the Arlington race is sure to have a healthy effect in putting the victors on their mettle.

The quarrel can hardly be said to be that of the "outs" versus the "ins," since for the last generation there have been virtually no "outs" in the sense of men who once were "ins." This is an indication of the deplorably low level to which Virginia politics have fallen, largely as a result of the public apathy that always accompanies one-party rule. Basically the issue in Arlington is between the old-line Democrats who often have taken the part of the conservative propertied interests and a new group known as the Progressive Democrats who insist that State and civic improvements are possible now. This is particularly the case in the contest for county offices. Incumbents generally point to the sad condition of county revenues as justification for the go-slow approach. The challengers assert that money can be found now for such long-delayed essentials as a county housing authority and a new incinerator. Meanwhile a lively fight has been in progress for posts on the county Democratic committee, with the old-line Democrats using every device to disqualify would-be newcomers.

The renewed interest in civic affairs which today's battle emphasizes is highly encouraging. While the real answer to many of Arlington's municipal problems can be found only through the establishment of genuine city government, many also are susceptible of a concerted attack by an awakened populace. This was particularly demonstrated by the successful effort to obtain a democratically elected school board last spring, an effort bitterly opposed by the old guard of county politics. Gradually the residents of Arlington, many of them new to the county within the last seven years, are learning that the only way to obtain modern administration that represents their interests is to register and vote. That, incidentally, is also the answer to the poll tax and the other evils clung to by the one-clique-of-one-party government in Virginia.

Naval Fliers

During the debate over unification determined protests by certain of the Navy's chieftains prevented naval aviation from becoming part of the new independent Air Force. Even while this concession was being granted, a number of captains and admirals made no secret of their disgruntlement over what they termed the muzzling of opposition to the merger, implying that naval officers were of virtually one accord in viewing with alarm the entire move toward integration. It would be interesting, therefore, to know their reaction to what seems to be a quasi-insurrection that reportedly has caused a "typhonic storm" in the Navy Department. It seems that a group of middle-ranking naval aviators have had the temerity to suggest that naval aviation would be better off under the separate Air Force. Furthermore, this group has stated that the same muzzle which allegedly prevented the opposition to the merger from making itself felt also blocked testimonials on behalf of a combined Air Force.

Actually, of course, the provision leaving naval aviation untouched was a deviation from the original merger plan and was a pure expedient to mollify the traditionalists and facilitate passage of the bill. There is nothing, we submit, that can be accomplished by naval aviation as a sort of bastard child of the sea forces that could not be done equally well or better by placing naval aviation in its proper place as a component of an integrated air arm. The trouble with the water-trained naval traditionalists is that they still tend to regard aviation as merely an adjunct of sea power rather than as a weapon in its own right. As long as this view prevails, naval aviation will be subordinated. Logic obviously calls for unity of all our air might. The Army, for instance, has as much need of air support as the Navy, but the Army has relinquished its monopoly in the interest of greater over-all effectiveness of air power both for support and as a striking force. The disclosure that all is not sweetness and light on this score within the Navy should provide fodder for possible future amendment of the merger act.

After The Dutch "Yes"

Fealty of the Dutch government to the principles underlying an international system based upon law and justice has hitherto been unquestionable. Among all the papers circulated for the guidance of the draftsmen of the Charter of the United Nations none was more highminded than that of the Netherlands. Its author is now Ambassador to Washington, Dr. Van Kleffens. Dr. Van Kleffens in a passage on the need for a standard of aggression wondered "whether a reference to those feelings of right and wrong, those moral principles which live in every normal human heart, would not be enough." All weekend The Hague government, faced with a cease-fire order from the United Nations, pondered the ethics as well as the expediency of its "limited police measures" in Indonesia. The upshot was a decision to obey the United Nations order.

The decision will go a long way to restore the moral position of the Dutch. Indubitably they were out of order in launching an attack on the Indonesians. Article 17 of the existing Dutch-Indonesian agreement provides for submission of matters in dispute to arbitration, and this agreement, by making the Indonesian government a de facto government, brought the issue within the four corners of the Charter of the United Nations. Dr. Van Kleffens argued with all his juridical skill to establish the thesis that the "limited police measures" undertaken by the Dutch were none of the United Nations business. His thesis is still upheld in the note from The Hague government bowing to the United Nations order. But it falls to the ground, it seems to us, against the background of the prevailing Dutch-Indonesian agreement.

The case for the United Nations is furthermore strengthened by the wording of the Charter. To be sure, Article 2 says that "nothing contained in the present Charter shall authorize the United Nations to intervene in matters which are essentially within the domestic jurisdiction of any state or shall require the members to submit such matters to settlement under the present Charter." But the article goes on to say that "this principle shall not prejudice the application of enforcement measures." And these are to be laid down by the Security Council after the Council has determined the existence of any threat to the peace or act of aggression. The aggressive measures undertaken by the Dutch had rocked the Eastern world to such an extent that there was no difficulty in establishing a threat to the general peace.

Without a doubt the Dutch have had immense provocation in their dealings with the Indonesians. Vexatious delays in working out the agreement formally to set up the United States of Indonesia, hoarding of raw materials on which the economy of the Netherlands—perhaps the success of the Marshall Plan—depend, irresponsibility on the part of the Indonesian representatives, constant firing upon the Dutch—these things had exasperated the Dutch beyond all containment. The incitement may be judged from the fact that such an ordinarily level-headed and progressive man as the Dutch lieutenant governor, Dr. H. J. Van Mook, set the punitive measures in motion.

Perhaps the introduction of the United Nations into Indonesia will promote some sense of responsibility. It would seem to us that the best way to handle the follow-up is to clothe the United States with authority to report to the United Nations. For the United States has offered a mediatory service. Such good offices should bring light to a murky situation and apply an impetus to the realization of the Dutch-Indonesian agreement. In the meantime we may all rejoice (the Dutch included) in the prestige that the United Nations has won with its first cease-fire order. The precedent will have great value in coping with the Russian-inspired forces that are now putting the Balkans and the Middle East in turmoil.

Security Inventory

One cannot help wishing that international relations were as simple—as susceptible of reduction to an arithmetical formula—as Senator McMahon makes them seem. The Senator has called for a "security inventory" of the world—as a supplement to Secretary Marshall's proposal for an inventory of Europe's economic needs and resources. This inventory would detail what each nation "considers from the vantage point of its own security to be the requirements of a workable peace."

Security, of course, is a variable. And one nation's security is very likely to be another nation's threat of external aggression. Here in the United States we tend to some extent to rely, for example, upon the possession of an atomic bomb secret for our security. Yet it is this very secret, we suppose, which tends to make the Russians, say, feel somewhat insecure. And the very possibility of trouble between the Russians on one side of the globe and the Americans on the other breeds a formidable sense of insecurity among all the nations whose position in between the two might make them a tragic battleground.

We doubt that military staffs in any country will be able to state the requirements of their own security. For the military mind is always, quite properly, looking to the worst contingency and preparing to repel attack from the least expected quarter. Even if we should achieve a federal union of the earth, the combined chiefs of staff, we fancy, would be looking apprehensively at the other planets, wondering if some diabolical plot were not afoot in the outer region of the solar system designed to let some infernal machine loose among us.

But perhaps the effort suggested by Senator McMahon is worth making if only for the sake of demonstrating its futility. When all the security demands are toted up, he says, they "would show general agreement on the great principle that world peace cannot be created and maintained without adequate machinery to enforce peace." This, if we understand the Senator, is another way of saying that in an integrated world no nation can achieve security alone. Security, like peace, is altogether indivisible.

Dalton's Shinwell

The astonishing lack of prudence on the part of the British government in landing the British people into the coal emergency last winter is again demonstrated in the case of the emergency of the pound sterling. As a cover-up British officialdom is blaming our Mr. William L. Clayton. "Weeks have gone by," says the London correspondent of the New York Times, "and nothing has come of the strong case for relief put up to Mr. Clayton." The relief referred to had to do with postponing the coming into effect of the clause in the Anglo-American loan agreement providing for the return to convertibility into dollars of the pound sterling on July 15. Actually the shoe was on the other foot. Our officialdom had foreseen that a return to convertibility would add to the shortage of dollars in British possession, and Mr. Clayton went to London prepared to suggest a waiver. But he found the British without fear about July 15. This confidence was part of the general independence voiced by Chancellor of the Exchequer Dalton and others of further aid from America.

That Chancellor Dalton's lack of fear was due to his ignorance of the underlying situation is confirmed in the New York Times dispatch. The question is being asked in London, it is said, as to how Britain has got into its exchange crisis. Evidently there are two camps on the subject. One is critical of Chancellor Dalton "for having underestimated the effect that making sterling convertible would have on dollar credit." The Dalton defenders retort he was unaware of the dollar shortage existing in other countries—a shortage which would make them draw on the British store in exchange for the sterling owed them on trade account with Britain. The defense does not palliate the imprudence of Dr. Dalton; it adds to it. For he must have had his eyes shut these 12 months past if he did not realize the general dollar famine outside the United States. The effort to unload the fault on Mr. Clayton will not enable Dr. Dalton to escape blame as the Shinwell of the foreign exchange crisis.

Turning On The Screws

The "shirtless" (descamisados) of Spain whose shirtlessness was praised by Signora Peron on her state visit to Generalissimo Franco are becoming more and more breadless as well. And this is due, ironically enough, to a rise in the price that Argentina charges for her wheat. This in turn has put up the price of bread to the Spanish people, who, even without this extra burden, were engaged in a desperate struggle for a bare livelihood. Of course, Generalissimo Franco could not very well criticize General Peron for this boost in wheat prices. He puts the responsibility upon "the countries which furnish the wheat imported into Spain," but he meant the Argentine, which ignores the world price and charges its customers all that the traffic will bear. Argentina sells wheat to hungry Europe at around $5.50 a bushel, or about twice the American price.

There cannot be a country in history which has so outrageously profiteered out of world famine as has Argentina. World attention has been called to the Argentine hold-up by the International Emergency Food Council. "A very important factor contributing to the difficult position in this quarter and the succeeding quarter," it says, "is the shortfall in shipments from the Argentine." In other words, the Argentines—we should say the Peron coterie running the government in Argentina—have been holding back supplies in order to make a bigger killing. To be sure, the Peron government had been treating Spain less harshly than other countries. Evidently, however, cash is triumphing over ideology. Maybe General Peron was simply waiting till his wife had collected some decorations in Madrid and at the Vatican for his friendliness and beneficence before jumping the ante. Whatever the cause, Generalissimo Franco must be privately regretting the lavishness of the entertainment he laid out for Signora Peron. As for the shirtless and the breadless, they are, naturally, kept in ignorance of the responsibility for this latest twist in the screws that are grinding them down in dire distress.

FLOOD TOWN

The blood mounts to the brain,
The blind, unsubtle blood,
In love . . . or wine . . . or war,
And every delicate tower
That thought had labored for:
Measure of loss and gain,
Measure of evil and good,
Goes roaring down that hour,
Is levelled in that flood.

Bevin's Blunders

It is not our habit to wash our dirty linen in public, but when a person who, for the moment, occupies the great position of British Foreign Secretary stigmatizes the American people as "money-lenders," it is the duty of every decent Englishman to make his protest and offer an humble apology.

We are nearing the end of our third and last disastrous experiment in Socialist government and that Ernest Bevin should return to type and resume his career of wild and irresponsible tub-thumping is perhaps the best evidence of impending change. As he still ranks as good copy and his speech, to the Northumberland miners at Morpeth, has been cabled to all quarters of the globe, it is important that our American cousins should know that this utterance brings as much chagrin to us as disgust to them.

The simple story carries its own conviction. Here is a man who spent his life teaching laborers to do less work for more money. Having risen to the top by his success in appealing to the worst instincts of the bottom, he has, at long last, discovered the nature of his own fraud. Now he goes to a rally of pampered miners, whose only fault is that they have followed his advice, and has the face to "call on you workmen to turn the stuff out to keep us out of the money-lenders' hands."

Bevin's inability to understand money is only equalled by his total ignorance of the meaning and purpose of work. The present danger is that he may be thought to be representative of British opinion, but discerning Americans will not fail to notice that even the miners, very naturally, ignore his deathbed appeals.

In the past we British have rendered great service to the whole world by freely lending from our surplus. Being no longer in a position to serve mankind in that way we rejoice to think that the other branch of the Anglo-Saxon family may be able to continue a vital service to civilization. We therefore apologize for the vulgarity of our Foreign Secretary and promise to get rid of him as soon as we can.

Religion In The Schools

It is saddening, but I suppose inevitable. Even The Washington Post, in which many progressive Christian folk have so much confidence, reveals a shallow spirit in its efforts to be neutral when it comes to religion. The old Christian axiom that you cannot serve God and Mammon, but you must serve one or the other, is apparently just as much double-talk to The Washington Post as it is to the secular intellectuals of the day. I admire you much and shall continue to cheer for your general convictions, but in return please ponder this, It is not possible not to teach religion in schools.

Every prevailing attitude behind every course in any educational system is instructing children, deliberately, or unwittingly by default, as to the existence and nature of God, the destiny of man and the relations of God and man on earth. Say nothing about God, and you have taught the very positive doctrine that other things in life come first. Relegate God to the churches on Sundays and once-a-week ethics involves.

I honor every family's right to follow its religious convictions, but somebody has just got to stand up and make plain to this generation that every man is already committed to a religion (chaotic though it may be) and that no man can ever on earth be a religious neutral. There is no more possibility of religious neutrality in education than there is of political neutrality if we stand by and watch Greece fall to Russia.

This is not an argument for required courses in Christianity in our public schools, nor is it a blanket approval of the released-time method which of course will offend people who think a religious vacuum possible. I guess this is just a plea that in our debate on this matter we do not pretend that when ethical and religious alternatives summon us we can just back away and watch from the sidelines.

As to your pathetic remark in your June 8 editorial about separating the mind and spirit, you are not only selling out every modern psychological insight into the unity of the human personality, but you are also taking sides with the ancient cynicism which denies that man's intellectual quest for truth is grounded on the eternal invitation of transcendent Truth—the foundation Spirit which has kinship with the spirit of man.

I'm not angry, just a little sad, and tired of seeing the mighty ignorance of otherwise informed people about the religious history and insights of humanity.

Starling Social Life

Look straight up into the sky, around 6 o'clock any of these summer mornings, and discover something surprising, about the generally reviled, selfish English starling.

In morning flight westward from downtown Washington and the lights that keep predatory owls away from these roosting birds, the starlings travel at an altitude of between 100 and 200 feet. They move rapidly, generally in single file groups of 5 to 25.

The manner of flight with night-long lightened bodies is remarkable. Each starling is now faring forth to farm and open areas for another 85-hour workweek quest for food. He beats his wings rapidly in about 5 to 15 strokes, and, with momentum so created, then smoothly and beautifully glides horizontally onward 50 to 600 feet before applying wing power again.

As Washington's estimated 4,000 starlings return at sunset to reoccupy their downtown roosts, they come in large, high-flying flocks of some 200 to 500 birds, wave after wave of them. They never go directly to their habitual perching places but swoop about as though undecided strangers.

Their most spectacular perchings are all along the east side of the Treasury Building and on ledges on the Capitol Theater. Wherever they are, some bird is being attacked and most of the others continue incessantly and audibly complaining for about two hours before they all become reasonably quiet.

The social life of the starling seems almost primitively human.

American Aid To China

On July 25 you printed a letter from Mr. H. S. Chen to the effect that "China needs a democratic constitutional government" and that "the Chinese people will welcome" the help of America "only after the government has been reformed and democratized."

Mr. Chen apparently has not kept sufficiently in touch with events in his homeland to realize that since April this year the Chinese government has been reorganized with Dr. Sun Fo as Vice President, General Chang Chun as Premier, and the former general manager of the commercial press, Mr. Wang Yun-wu, as Vice Premier. It is recognized in this country as well as in China that these three men have progressive ideas and are known for their integrity.

Under the new coalition government of China, there are now 17 Kuomintang members in the State Council, 4 members of the Young China Party, 4 members of the Democratic Socialist Party and 4 members without any party affiliation, while the 11 seats reserved for the Communists are still vacant. In the Executive Yuan (or cabinet, which includes ministers and ministers without portfolio) there are 14 Koumintang members, 3 members of the Young China Party, 3 members of the Democratic Socialist Party and 4 Independents.

Also under the new constitution, which will come into force on December 25 this year, members of the National Assembly, the Legislative Yuan and the Control Yuan are to be elected. Anybody who takes the trouble to study the constitution without any bias will agree that it is indeed very liberal because "the people have the right of election, recall, initiative and referendum."

Mr. Chen also states that the "only solution is to stop the civil war immediately." That is the hope of every patriotic Chinese, but it is indisputable that the Communists have slammed the door to peace. It is also common knowledge that the Chinese Communists are supported by Russia, and the internal strife in China is actually an international issue.

In your editorial of July 8, "Chiang and China", which created so much controversy among your readers, you stated in unminced words: "Chiang Kai-shek is really appealing to the United States, trying to inflame the commiphobia in our midst with the hope of winning all-out American aid for China. It is to be hoped he will not succeed. . . . All-out aid for China against the Communists would mean that China would absorb energies and dollars of ours which we must now conserve to reconstruct our Western civilization." The scientific teachings of Western civilization cannot be so narrow in concept, for this world has become so small with the development of modern means of communication that no nation can revert to an isolationist philosophy of ignoring what is going on elsewhere.

In your July 8 editorial you adopted the stand that "the Russians have more sense than to get involved again in China," while on July 15 you said editorially that the Russians, "far from living up to their pledge" in Manchuria, "have constantly ignored it," and you stated quite correctly that "they are hanging on to Port Arthur and Dairen."

I would like to point out that the Sino-Soviet Pact of 1945, mentioned in your editorial "Wedemeyer in China," on July 15, was the price China paid for Russia's entry into the war against Japan, under the terms of the Yalta Agreement of February 11, 1945, recently made public. It does not require much imagination to realize that without Soviet assistance in more ways than one, the Chinese Communists would not now be in such a favorable position in the vast stretch of territory known as Manchuria.

It seems logical that the only solution is to help China economically now, even if it is only in recognition of her incalculable sacrifices as a result of her eight years of resistance against Japanese agression, begun in 1937, practically unaided for the first few years.

Washington Calling

By Marquis Childs

Seeds of War

A GROUP of men are sitting at luncheon around a conference table in the State Department. The group includes the policymakers and veteran experts who in recent years have followed at first hand the sweep of world events. One of the veterans says:

'I don't think I've ever seen anything like the past two weeks. Not even in the years that led up to the war. This beats everything."

Around the table there was general agreement. Rarely, if ever, have so many hurricane warnings gone up at once in so many different places. Never has there been the same urgency to try to deflect the storm, if possible, and, failing that, to batten down what can be saved. As usual, the Ship of State is undermanned and the able members of the crew are badly overworked.

It would be hard to say which crisis has top priority. Each one touches the roots of American foreign policy and, deeper than that, American security. Each one demands urgent attention and effort.

Number one in its immediate effect is the United Nations struggle over Greece. The Russian veto of the Balkan Border Commission was long expected, and yet some small hope persisted that the Soviet Union might merely abstain. The veto is taken as an unmistakable sign that the Soviets mean to continue to try to destroy the government and bring Greece within the iron curtain.

The Greek crisis is the three-alarm fire on the European horizon. What is happening in Indonesia is like a conflagration deep in the earth, spreading insidiously and promising to flame into the open on an unprecedented scale.

THE POTENTIALITIES for ultimate disaster are far greater in Indonesia than in Greece. The immediate results are bad enough. The smoke of burning plantations thick in the air means the destruction of food and drugs desperately needed throughout Asia.

More serious is the long-term result. We in this hemisphere can hardly begin to appreciate the reaction in Asia. The effort of the Dutch to restore colonialism will be passionately and profoundly resented wherever colonial peoples are struggling for independence.

The tragedy is that it will tend to nullify the magnificent performance of the British in helping the people of India achieve statehood. The stubbornness of the Dutch, in the face of pleading and warning from the United States and Britain, will be credited to "white imperialism" without regard to nationality. It is a handsome gift to the Communists, who will make full use of it in their drive to annex Asia's millions.

The resentment in Australia is just as great as it is in India and China. Seven million Australians constitute a tiny island in a world of color, and they know it. This realization is behind the action of the Australian delegation at Lake Success in urging immediate action by the United Nations to bring about a truce in Indonesia.

WE FORGET so quickly. About a year before the war in the Pacific ended, Japanese propaganda throughout Asia underwent a subtle change. The Japs began to hint that they would be compelled to withdraw from the areas they had taken by force. It had been a mistake, they intimated, to enslave the local populations. But, they added, we will come back as partners and together we will sweep the old colonialism off the face of the earth.

What is happening in Indonesia, in Palestine, in Greece, in Germany, is taking place against the background of the squeeze in London. The Attlee government is trying frantically to slash expenditures. The gloomy prophets who have said that England could not possibly afford to maintain such a large military establishment seem to have been right.

As Britain cuts down, our responsibility increases. We must learn quickly what that means. Beyond collapse and chaos, the jackal of totalitarian communism waits to take over.

The big headlines in our newspapers tell of mistakes that were made in the conduct of the war. If we can learn something from our mistakes—and there were plenty of them—then well and good. But we do not have time to gloat over the blunders of the immediate past. After all, we did win the war. We have not yet won the peace.

Abuse Of The Veto

The United Nations would send a commission to the borders of the Balkan states, but Gromyko vetoes the proposal because the principle of sovereignty would be violated. That is like saying that one's liberty is violated when he may not take what does not belong to him.

Let's tear off the mask and not be fooled. The veto is fast defeating the purpose of the U. N. What is the use of having regulations for a society if one big bully is able to override all that the society does?

The world is losing heart once more. It is now clear that the U. N. must be able to assert itself effectively against aggressor nations or it will not be worth maintaining. As an alternative the United States will be driven again into a policy of isolationism—with war in the offing.

Sugar Joker

By Sumner Welles

Blow To Good Neighbor Policy

THE SUGAR Act of 1948 is a travesty of the original Jones-Costigan Act of 1934, which was one of the most liberal and constructive pieces of legislation of recent times. The new act disregards the interests of the American consumer. It reflects the influence of the sugar lobby by giving the subsidized domestic producers a share of this market larger than the total they have ever priviously produced in any one year. It cuts down the amount of sugar that Peru and the Dominican Republic can sell in the United States. It offers Cuba a quota which will be less than one half of the maximum amount Cuba has recently sold us.

Cuba is still largely a one-crop country. The prosperity of the Cuban people depends upon their securing a reasonable price for their sugar and an equitable share of the American market. As a result of the dislocation caused by the war, the Cuban sugar crop has been indispensable to this country. Cuba could readily have taken advantage of our predicament by charging exorbitant prices. Yet Cuba sold us her 1947 crop at a price far lower than that offered her in other markets. She treated us not only fairly, but even generously.

THE NEW sugar act is a poor return for Cuba's friendship and cooperation. It is also singularly shortsighted. Cuba is one of our greatest foreign markets. Such a blow at Cuba's economy as this act is equally a blow directed against our own exporters of agricultural products such as lard and rice, and of a host of manufactured goods.

The worst feature of the act is its section 202 (E). This section provides that "if the Secretary of State finds that any foreign country denies fair and equitable treatment to the nationals of the United States, its commerce, navigation or industry, and so notifies the Secretary (of Agriculture), the Secretary shall have authority to withhold or withdraw any increase in the share of the domestic consumption requirements provided for such country by this act as compared with the share allowed under section 202 (B) of the Sugar Act of 1937."

TO THE casual reader this paragraph may seem to be intended merely to secure fair treatment for our nationals in foreign countries. Actually it is a vicious joker solely intended to coerce the Cuban government. What it realy means is that unless the Cuban government satisfies private claims held by large American corporations, the State Department can prevent Cuba from benefiting from the expected increase in sugar consumption in this country.

This provision vests in the hands of State Department officials the power to prejudice the national economy of the Republic of Cuba if these claims are not paid. It represents a return to those discredited policies of the unhappy past when the United States undertook by force or coercion to collect the private claims of its nationals against the weaker countries of this hemisphere. It violates the enlightened principles of the Drago doctrine. The underlying issue was clearly set forth in the recent warning of The Washington Post that such a club in the sugar bill was "a reversion of the Big Stick Policy toward our continental neighbors."

Not the least shocking revelation brought out in the Senate debate upon the act was Senator Millikin's announcement that "the State Department initiated the inclusion of this paragraph in the bill." The only bright spot is that several of those departmental officials chiefly responsible have since been replaced.

In the same debate, during which Senator Chavez's attempt to eliminate this section was defeated by two votes, such other outstanding supporters of the good neighbor policy as Senators Vandenberg, Connally, Pepper, and Fulbright unfortunately failed to make a majority of their colleagues see that such a provision flouted those inter-American agreements that provide honorable and just methods for the solution of all controversies arising between the American republics.

EVERY SHADE of opinion in Cuba regards the act as a violation of Cuba's sovereignty. Rising popular indignation is rapidly undermining the very real friendship that has been growing up between the two countries in recent years. So staunch a defender of Cuban-American cooperation as Cuba's progressive statesman Senator Martinez Saenz has declared that the sugar act is even more offensive to the national dignity of the republic than the Platt amendment.

In view of the increasingly dangerous world situation we confront, hemispheric solidarity is more than ever essential to our own security and to that of our neighbors. Yet such a provision as this, which will be bitterly resented throughout the Americas, and which will destroy confidence in the good faith of the United States, was adopted on the very eve of the Rio de Janeiro Conference where the American foreign ministers must try to agree upon a treaty for hemispheric defense.

This is surely a moment when American public opinion should make itself felt. There should be a concerted demand on the part of all citizens who believe that the good neighbor policy is essential to our own welfare, and to the successful growth of the United Nations, that their Senators and Representatives vote for the elimination of this disgraceful provision of the Sugar Act of 1948 at the outset of the next session of the Congress.

Marshall Meets Amvets Group

Secretary of State George C. Marshall and 11 representatives of the American Veterans of World War II discussed foreign policy yesterday at an hour-long off-the-record conference.

The group represented the Amvets' National peace and preparedness committee assigned to draft a foreign policy platform for world peace to be submitted to the organization's National convention in Columbus, Ohio, in October. It was headed by Dr. Caleb Gates, chancellor of the University of Denver.

Work Stoppage Ends In Costa Rica

San Jose, Aug. 4 (AP).—Business life returned to normal in this capital today when an agreement on guarantees to prevail at presidential elections next February brought an end to a two-week general work stoppage that practically paralyzed Costa Rica commercial and industrial activity.

The opposition National Union Party had called the strike, charging the government of President Teodoro Picado with partiality in the election campaign and demanding guarantees. Picado denied the charges.

U. N. Triumph?

By Barnet Nover

Fighting Ended In Indonesia

THERE IS GREAT and justified rejoicing over the speedy and successful outcome of the effort initiated by the United Nations Security Council to end the fighting in Indonesia.

NOVER

The development is being hailed as a major triumph for the U. N., a milestone in the history of that organization.

Events alone can prove whether this jubilation is justified. Certainly, it is to be fervently hoped that this demonstration by the Security Council of its authority and influence will turn out to be no mere flash in the pan.

Should action taken by the Council in the Indonesian affair set a binding precedent that will be followed every time the peace has been breached or is threatened with a breach, the high hopes placed in the United Nations will be fulfilled. A brighter, happier, more peaceful world will then come into being.

IN THE INTERESTS of sober realism, however, the point must be stressed that the Security Council's successful handling of the Indonesian question was the result of a very special set of circumstances:

1. While the Council moved with unexampled dispatch—only two days elapsed from the time the Indonesian problem was brought up to the time when the cease fire resolution was approved—the latter had already been overtaken by events. The Dutch had by that time practically completed their "police operation" in Java.

2. On this Indonesian issue the respective attitudes of Russia and the United States were roughly similar instead of being, as they usually are, radically divergent.

3. The legal problem whether the Council had the right to intervene was sidetracked by the majority of members.

4. Two nations—Great Britain and France—which, given the danger that the settlement of the Indonesian problem through U. N. action might create a dangerous precedent in their own colonies, might have been tempted to veto the cease fire resolution, did not do so. Instead, they abstained from voting. So did Belgium, another colonial power. The resolution was then approved, 8 to 0.

THESE SPECIAL circumstances indicate the kind of an organization the U. N. could be if all its members were always willing to act in the light of the principles and purposes of the Charter.

Great Britain, France and the Netherlands did so act. They are democracies whose governments are keenly responsive to public opinion both at home and abroad. They want the United Nations to succeed because they regard it as the indispensable instrument of world order.

Had they been moved purely by power considerations alone they would have done what Russia has so frequently done in the United Nations, namely, blocked discussion of the Indonesian problem or carried on a prolonged filibuster to prevent the matter from coming to a vote. As a last resort, Great Britain and France could have employed their veto to prevent action. They did nothing of the sort.

THE FACT must also be recognized that the cease fire order, which both the Dutch and Indonesians have agreed to carry out, does not in itself bring the Indonesian problem any nearer solution.

The primary reason advanced by the Dutch for employing military action against the Indonesians is that the latter never made any serious effort to live up to the Cheribon agreement. Indeed, Premier Louis J. M. Beel of the Netherlands insists that there have been no fewer than a thousand violations of that pact by the Indonesians.

In this connection, much depends on how successful the United States will be in getting the two parties together.

The Dutch government has accepted this country's offer to mediate. So far the Indonesian republic has not done the same. In its reply to the Security Council it insists that arbitration be conducted not by one country but by several named by the Council and operating under its supervision.

Its purpose in making this demand is obviously to achieve immediate international recognition as both the de facto and de jure government of Indonesia. In other words, it would have the United Nations prejudge and decide the very issue that was at the bottom of the dispute that led to the fighting in Indonesia.

If the United Nations were a world government it would have the authority to do such things. It is not that at all, only a collection of sovereign powers some of whom—the Big Five—have the power to block the U. N. efforts to preserve the peace by exercising their veto.

The real test whether the Council's action in the Indonesian dispute does, in fact, mark a real milestone in U. N. history will be whether the example set by Great Britain, France and the Netherlands is followed by Russia and her satellites. That is a very large assumption as things stand today.

3 Italian Plants Granted Loans Of 23 Million

By The Associated Press

The Export-Import Bank of Washington yesterday announced the granting of 23 million dollars in loans to three large Italian industrial concerns, the credit to be guaranteed by the Italian government.

The credits are the first to be granted under an understanding by which the bank has earmarked 100 million dollars for restoration and expansion of Italy's industrial markets and for improvement of the dollar position of the country.

The three loans are:

Ten million dollars for Fiat, Societa per Azioni, producer of automobiles and marine engines.

Nine million dollars for Montecatini, Societa Generale per L'Industria Mineraria e Chemica, Anonima, a mineral and chemical firm.

Four million dollars for Pirelli, Societa per Azoni, manufacturer of tires, telegraph cable and rubber articles.

The funds must be spent for United States equipment and materials.

Announcement of the three credits came two days after Secretary of State Marshall told the non-Communist Italian government in a message that the United States would do all in its power to help restore Italy to its democratic self.

Release of first installments of the 100 million dollars apparently means that the bank's board of directors is convinced that stable economic conditions now exist in Italy.

This was a prerequisite to releasing any part of the loan and held up distribution of the credit until now.

Mental Clinic To Be Headed By Dr. Morris

Appointment of Dr. Robert Morris as head of the Montgomery County Mental Hygiene Clinic was announced yesterday by Mrs. Dexter Bullard, president of the clinic's board of directors.

Dr. Morris will succeed Dr. Mabel Wilkin, who announced her resignation last May with the charge that the clinic is hampered by a small budget and limited staff and facilities, as well as public apathy.

Working with the clinic on a part-time basis for the past year, Dr. Morris is also associated with the U. S. Naval Hospital, Bethesda, St. Elizabeths Hospital and the Washington School of Psychiatry.

When she disclosed her resignation from the clinic, Dr. Wilkin said that although the clinic, now in its fourth year, is solidly established in the community, it is dependent on a meager budget, the size of which is determined by public response to the Community Chest.

The clinic's staff consists of a half-time psychiatrist, a half-time psychologist, a full-time psychiatric social worker and a half-time psychiatric social worker.

'Brazen' Girls Stripped

Livorno, Italy, Aug. 4 (AP).—A group of young Livorno men, complaining that some of the city's girls were too brazen, stripped several in the main square last night and paraded them through the principal streets. Italian police and United States military police finally ended the incident.

RFC Files Overcharge Suit

Baltimore, Aug. 4 (AP).—Alleging wartime overcharges for industrial alcohol in excess of OPA ceilings, the Reconstruction Finance Corporation filed today a treble damage suit for $164,548.41 against the Sherwood Distillery Co. of Westminster, Md.

May Explain Seals

Clemency Pleas Kept Lincoln Busy

Plans for clemency from courts-martial and for non-combat military assignments in the Civil War may have caused Robert Todd Lincoln to seal his father's papers from immediate posterity.

A number of such appeals have been found in the recently opened files of President Lincoln's private papers, officials of the Library of Congress disclosed yesterday.

They include formal petitions of generals whose military reverses brought courts-martial and congressional investigation, and telegrams from wives, parents and friends of soldiers condemned to death for desertion or for sleeping on sentry duty.

The parents of one Union soldier requested special Army duty for him lest he meet and be forced to kill his own brother in Confederate uniform. There was no notation to show what action Lincoln took.

The wife of a deserter appealed directly to Lincoln that her husband enlisted while drunk and consequently was not responsible for his actions. He had received only his uniform and no pay or bounty before he quit to resume business.

Lincoln's notation on the petition read:

"Upon a good man being furnished . . . and mustered into the service for the term of three years said . . . (soldier) . . . is fully pardoned for any supposed desertion.—A. Lincoln, May 2, 1864."

Nor was Lincoln always indulgent. To a wife who asked that her imprisoned husband be especially selected for prisoner-of-war exchange, he noted:

"The President sympathizes deeply with Mrs. Knight & her husband, and the many others in like condition—but he is sure she does not appreciate the difficulty of what she asks."

Schoville Family Makes Room for 18th Child—a Girl

Soldiers Grove, Wis., Aug. 4 (AP). There's always room for one more at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Schoville. It's a good thing, too, because the Schovilles have just had their 18th child.

Mrs. Schoville, who looks younger than her 37 years, gave birth to a 9-pound 12-ounce daughter Saturday.

That brings the Schoville score to 12 girls and six boys. One child died in infancy and another has married and moved away. All the others live at home. Another married daughter has left her husband and moved back home with her own 4-year-old child.

There are no twins or triplets in the Schoville family.

The Schovilles were married 22 years ago, when she was 14 and he was 18.

Fourth Boy Dies In Clubhouse Blast

Danville, Ill., Aug. 4 (AP).—A fourth youth died today from burns received early yesterday when a backyard clubhouse was destroyed by a series of explosions and fire.

Paul Phelps, 17, of nearby Tilton, was the fourth fatality. The others, charred beyond recognition, were Paul's brother, Howard, 16; Harry Culp, 18, and John L. Hinner, 17, all residents of Tilton, two miles southwest of Danville. The tragedy occurred in Tilton.

Ferguson, Bridges, Knowland Ask Visas for Trip to Russia

By The Associated Press

Undeterred by Moscow's flat "no" to a trio of House members, three Republican Senators sought yesterday to get their own peek inside Russia.

Senator Ferguson (Mich.) said he and Senator Bridges (N. H.) and Knowland (Calif.) have asked the State Department to try to get visas for them to visit the Soviet Union and the countries within the Russian orbit during an October trip abroad.

Ferguson said the trio, members of the Appropriations Committee, want to get a first-hand look at what the Soviet Union is doing before they are called upon to vote for funds to carry out the Marshall Plan for European recovery.

"We want to find out something about the cost of this proposed help for Europe, what the needs are there and how our efforts to bolster Greece and Turkey against threatened communism are progressing," Ferguson told a reporter.

Seek Information on "Voice"

He added that the three also want to get information on the operations of the State Department's cultural information program, including the "Voice of America" shortwave broadcasts beamed at Russia and other countries.

Pending Moscow's response to their request, Ferguson had nothing to say about the turn-down encountered by Representatives Kersten (R., Wis.), Owens (R., Ill.) and Kennedy (D., Mass.) 10 days ago.

Members of a House education and labor subcommittee designated to study conditions in the Soviet Union, that group got passports from the State Department, but no visas from the Kremlin.

The reason, Yuri M. Bruslov, chief of the consular division of the Soviet Embassy here, told Kersten was that "trips of foreign tourists are not yet possible" because of "lack of hotel accommodations and some other shortages caused by the war."

Would Visit Satellites

The House members—lashing out at what Kersten called "diplomatic deterrents"—promptly canceled their trip. But Ferguson said that if he and his Senatorial colleagues can't get Russian visas they will try to pick up information about the Soviet Union in adjacent countries.

What Bridges, who heads the Appropriations Committee, Ferguson and Knowland find in Europe may have a direct bearing on the attitude of Senate Republicans toward the expenditures involved in the Marshall Plan when it is presented to Congress.

Senator Taft of Ohio, chairman of the Senate GOP Policy Committee, already has said he wants American help to Europe limited to the furnishing of goods to these nations to "help them restore their own productive ability."

Curley, 109,000 Bostonians Seek Reduction in Jail Term

James M. Curley, Mayor of Boston, now serving six to 18 months for mail fraud conspiracy, petitioned District Court yesterday for a reduced sentence.

Curley, who is now in the Danbury, Conn., penitentiary, stated that Justice James M. Proctor acted on misinformation when he imposed sentence. Justice Proctor stated at the time that Curley was not deserving of a suspended sentence since had twice been convicted of a felony. The earlier conviction for conspiracy in taking a civil service exam was a misdemeanor when it occurred in 1903, Curley said. It was not changed to a felony until 1910, the petition contends.

The petition further states that a fine or reduced sentence is warranted since Curley must attend to official duties of the mayoralty he holds. Also, Curley contends that his youngest son is now so ill he is hovering between life and death and is adversely affected by his father's incarceration.

After the conviction, Curley obtained the signatures of 109,000 Bostonians who sought his release.

Pro-Government Chinese Claim Local War Gains

Nanking, Aug. 4 (AP).—Pro-government press dispatches reported continuing local advantages for nationalist armies in Shantung province and Manchuria today, but there was little indication of definite progress by either side in the civil war.

A Tsinan account, by the government's Central News Agency said the government's recent victory at Linchu in Shantung was "contributing" to the breakup of a system of Communist bases which had been under construction for eight years and that government operations in western Shantung would force the Communists to flee back across the Yellow River.

U. S. Ambassador J. Leighton Stuart and Canadian Ambassador T. C. Davis flew to Tsinan today for inspection of that Shantung capital on invitation of the governor, Wang Yao-Wu. Tsinan, a center of the government war effort in central China, has been practically isolated by land for the past year by Communist forces.

Future Officers To Stage Mock Combat Landings

Annapolis, Md., Aug. 4 (AP).—More than 1300 of the Nation's future officers will stage mock combat landings against an "enemy held" coast of the lower Chesapeake Bay in operation Camid 2, beginning next Tuesday.

The amphibious operation drew its name from the combination of West Point cadets, of whom there will be about 600, and Annapolis midshipmen—some 780 strong—and the fact this is the second time the two academies have included such joint maneuvers in their summer training.

A Navy spokesman said today the operation would take place near Little Creek and Camp Pendleton, not far from Norfolk, Va.

The Navy contingent will arrive at Hampton Roads, Va., August 12 and transfer to ships of the Atlantic Fleet amphibious force. Their West Point counterparts are sailing to the scene of the operation.

New Alexandria Manager Will Be 'Outsider'

A three-man subcommittee of Alexandria's city council will meet tonight to start action toward acquiring a new city manager.

Mayor William T. Wilkins, Councilmen John Ewald and Col. Everett A. Hellmuth, who constitute the subcommittee, said they would concentrate on finding an experienced outsider. Wilkins felt that the interests of the city "can best be served by new blood."

He said they would ask for names from the Virginia League of Municipalities and the International City Managers Association. Wilkins stated that the committee would be "extra cautious" and that no permanent appointment should be expected immediately.

Comenting on a recently disclosed financial report which showed the city had delved into its $1,500,000 bond issue for about $500,000 worth of general improvements, the mayor said, "The city's finances are on a sound basis. This is merely a matter of bookkeeping which can be easily corrected."

Meanwhile, Joseph M. Pancoast, city manager pro tem, spent his day scurring between city hall and police court while he tried to find someone to take over temporarily his duties of city attorney. He will serve as city manager until the council names a permanent successor to Budwesky.

Pancoast would make no comment on the financial statement nor on the investigation which he is conducting of last week's drowning at Alexandria's municipal swimming pool. He said he would present results of the investigation to the city council.

Byrd to Address Turkey Growers

Harrisonburg, Va., Aug. 4 (AP).—The Virginia Turkey Growers Association starts its fourth in a series of regional meetings here tomorrow with Senator Harry F. Byrd slated to be the featured speaker at the opening day turkey banquet.

Charles W. Wampler, sr., whose family introduced to Virginia the large scale production of turkey production, will be honored at the two-day gathering. His Sunny Slope Farm and that of his son, Charles W. Wampler, jr.—Willow Lane Poultry Farm—will be the locations of the Wednesday sessions.

India Is Declared Great Opportunity Of Missions Today

Buffalo, N. Y., Aug. 4 (AP).—Christian missions face their greatest opportunity with the creation of a new and independent India, the third world convention of the Churches of Christ was told tonight.

"The greatest hour of Christian missions has now come," E. Stanley Jones, missionary from Lucknow, said in an address before about 5000 convention delegates.

"If the missionaries come as the servants of the people, and not spiritual overlords, then they will be welcomed and loved in this new India," he added.

Earlier, a message from President Truman declaring that "ours is the solemn duty to preserve" freedom of worship was read to the convention.

Chicago Grain

Chicago, Aug. 4 (AP).—An 8-cent advance, limit permitted in a single session, sent corn to a new all-time high on the Board of Trade today.

The September corn contract reached 2.22⅝, beating the previous record high established last month. Opening sales were made at that level, after which the market sold off a few cents. But at the close the price was back to the peak, with unsatisfied bids in the pit.

Deferred corn contracts also advanced the 8-cent limit. All oats deliveries set new seasonal peaks. September soarings to 1.00⅜@1.00⅝, on gains of 4 to 4¾ cents. This contract is still below the 1.07 peak of the year made by the July contract on July 23.

In the inflationary atmosphere, wheat also made substantial advances. However, gains were not as spectacular as in the feed grains and at times the cereal had to absorb Southwestern hedging pressure. Final prices were 2¾-3½ higher, September 2.34¼@2.34.

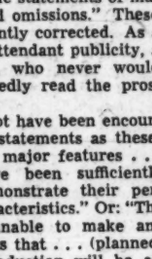
MINDING YOUR BUSINESS

Second Thoughts On Tucker

TUCKER, the "surprise car of the year," has not taken American speculators, investors and stock plungers by surprise. Yet, it hasn't done too badly either. About 2,300,000 shares have been sold at $5 each. That's no mean feat—raising $11,500,000 on a car that's still to be tested. Of that amount, Tucker Corp. nets $9,890,000—$4.30 per share. But it's not enough.



Livingston

Tucker Corp. must have $15,000,000 cash by November 1, or it won't hold on to its War Assets Administration lease on its Chicago plant. So, another 1,100,000 shares must be sold. True, Floyd D. Cerf Co., Chicago underwriting firm, has three months more, but time in this case may be a liability as well as an asset.

Already the stock has been quoted below the offering price—at 4¾. That means that some purchasers, having subscribed, have been smitten by second thoughts. In speculative offerings like this, the first day is what counts. If the offering's a sellout, if it shoots up above the offering price—like Kaiser-Frazer — then whee, the world wants it. But if it meets hard going, then people say it didn't go over.

CERF HAS FACED numerous obstacles in selling the stock, not the least of which was that the Tucker Torpedo was mostly a dream car—that models were still to be produced and distributed. Second hurdle was the SEC. When the company first registered its shares, the SEC disapproved—because of "untrue statements of material facts and omissions." These were subsequently corrected. As a result of the attendant publicity, a lot of people, who never would have, undoubtedly read the prospectus.

They may not have been encouraged by such statements as these: "Some of the major features . . . may not have been sufficiently tested to demonstrate their performance characteristics." Or: "The company is unable to make any representations that . . . (planned) volume of production will be attained or that facilities needed for fabrication will be delivered on schedule."

The Nation's largest stock exchange firm, Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Beane, added to Cerf's woes. As a matter of policy, it decided not to take orders for Tucker stock. When would-be plungers go to Merrill Lynch and are told that the firm is not dealing in the stock, they begin giving the Tucker prospectus the twice and maybe the three times over.

THEN LAST WEEK the State of California banned the stock. That means that the California resident who wants to bet on Tucker has to go to an out-of-State broker. That's more trouble than most persons will go to. California, home of the gold rush, has always been receptive to new stock ventures. It has been suggested it was good for half a million shares. No wonder Tucker decided to contest the ban. What's more, the stock is not registered in Michigan, home of automobile fortunes.

And yet, to my way of thinking, the greatest hurdle was two other guys—Henry J. Kaiser and Andrew J. Higgins. After a war, the public will have its fling. Kaiser and Higgins apparently knew it. Kaiser, amid great ballyhoo, organized the Kaiser-Frazer Corp. In September, 1945, Otis & Co. sold 1,700,000 shares at $10. In January, 1946, another 1,800,000 shares were sold—this time at 20½. It reached 22 and now sells around 7½. The public paid $53,450,000 for the invitation to see what a cargo-ship builder could do with automobiles.

Higgins capitalized on his reputation as a builder of landing boats. To be sure, after the war he quit business, dramatically accusing the labor unions of driving him out. But then he reconsidered, opened his plants, and took the public in. He sold 900,000 shares of stock at $11 a share. The stock now sells for 2¼.

WHEN KAISER-FRAZER and Higgins stock went down, the faith of the faithful was sorely tested. Yet, people still hope. People come into brokers' offices and say: "I want $125 worth of Tucker." You can be sure they've not bought stock before, else they'd say: "I want 25 shares." They're taxi-drivers, Government clerks, school teachers, mechanics. They have a little money and they say to themselves, "If the car goes over, I'm made." Indeed, many a wealthier, more experienced person probably rationalizes his bet the same way. Why not take a long chance once in a lifetime?

The venturers may not remember the long list of unsuccessful predecessors of Tucker: The Stutz, Locomobile, Stanley Steamer, Auburn, Durant, Franklin, Marmon, Pierce-Arrow, Winton, Peerless, Duryea, and others. All great names in their day, all victims of competition. Thus Tucker and Cerf are racing against recollection rather than November 1. People may begin thinking back; they may try to sell or even to cancel orders. Legally, they may not have the right to withdraw, but some brokers won't argue too much about it. After all, subscriptions don't become final—the stock won't be issued—until 15 million dollars in cash is in the Tucker treasury. That's clearly set forth in the prospectus.

Have YOU the Heart To Turn Her Away From Your Doorstep?

She has survived a nightmare of cruelty and terror. If she stood on your doorstep—struggling for life against starvation and disease, sick and weary almost unto death, her haunted eyes despairing—could you find it in your heart to turn her away? Or would you in your generosity and mercy find some way—do something—to bring the light of life and hope into her eyes.

There Is A Way To Help SAVE Her Life!

The shadow of war and oppression is deep and hard to erase. Today, in the spirit of Christian Charity, the Christian Community of America and locally in Washington, looks into its heart. And it finds there the love of humanity and the will to solace, comfort and aid the million and a half Jews of Europe as they face another crisis in their bitter struggle to survive.

Whether they live or die is squarely up to us, to all Americans . . . to all Christians . . . and our conscience. Because the task of mercy is so great, the Christian Committee of Greater Washington organized this year is asking for $200,000—a sum that can be raised only through the active support of every Christian in the community.

In Mercy's Name, Give All You Can

Banks Warned On 'Too-Easy' Credit Terms

By S. Oliver Goodman

Washington bankers engaged in consumer installment lending yesterday studied a guide to keep loans on a sound basis.

Compiled by the consumer credit committee of the American Bankers Association, the guide contains a schedule of down payments and maturities for suggested use when Government credit controls end November 1.

Carl M. Flora, committee chairman, warned bankers that "excessive debt should not be made attractive and merchandised in easy payments."

The committee recommended that auto loans require a minimum 33 1-3 per cent down payment on new cars and not more than 24 monthly payments. For used cars it was advised that 40 per cent down payment be required with 15 months.

For television sets it recommended 25 per cent down payment and 18 months terms, and for refrigerators, washing machines and stoves 20 per cent down and 36 months to pay.

On other household appliances a minimum down payment of $15 and minimum monthly payments of $7.50 were advised.

"Consumer credit has created mass markets and made possible mass distribution of durable goods," Flora stated. "This credit will necessarily play a leading role in maintaining our economy on a high level."

He warned, however, that "the days of a dollar-down-and-a-dollar-a-week should not return."

PURELY LOCAL: Yesterday marked discontinuance by Agriculture Department of daily Washington wholesale produce price reports. Lack of funds blamed. . . . Exdividend yesterday on Washington Stock Exchange: Norfolk & Washington Steamboat; Washington Gas $4.25 and $4.50 preferreds. . . . New common stock of Potomac Electric Power Co. is expected to pay annual dividend of 85 or 90 cents. . . . Current over-counter market in Washington Railway & Electric units, which will be exchanged for new Pepco common on one-for-one basis, 17¾ bid and 19¼ asked. . . . A special meeting of Pepco stockholders will be held September 3 to vote on the recapitalization plan. Inasmuch as Pepco is 100 per cent stock-owned by W. R. & E. there is little doubt of an affirmative vote.

ODD LOTS: Eastern Air Lines adopted pension plan for 7200 employes which will cost firm more than $2,500,000 . . . Charles Pfizer & Co., Inc., to buy Citro Chemical Co. from Emerson Drug Co. of Baltimore . . . May hourly earnings average 1.329, up to 1.9 per cent from April, and 12.6 from May, 1946, according to National Industrial Conference Board . . . Melville Shoe Corp., sales this year to July 26 soared 13.7 per cent to $38,109,821 as against $33,527,794 for the same 1946 period . . . Pan American World Airways flew 446,252,000 passenger miles in second quarter, up 58 per cent over same 1946 period.

BULLS AND BEARS: Average price of 200 real estate bonds in Amott-Baker Index stood at $752 per $1000 bond on July 31, near record high of June, 1946. . . . Steel stocks currently selling at 5.8 times their estimated 1947 earnings and 11 per cent below this year's highs are considered in "buying position" by E. F. Hutton & Co. . . Attracting interest was statement by Senator Reed (Republican) of Kansas that he is "ready to impeach" Interstate Commerce Commission if necessary for what he described as "legalized robbery" in some reorganization proceedings.

PERSONNEL: Hermann G. Place, former Chase National Bank officer, elected president of General Precision Equipment Corp. . . Randolph W. Hyde named treasurer of Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corp. . . . Lawrence H. Hoffman promoted to assistant general traffic manager of Pennsylvania Greyhound Lines. Rhoda B. Raidler appointed radio director for Alvin Epstein Advertising Agency here.

EARNINGS: Atlantic Refining Co. and subsidiaries reported for six months ended June 30 net earnings of $6,294,865, or $2.07 a common share, compared with $5,146,327, or $1.75 a common share in that period last year. Other income reports yesterday included:

Bratton KOs Herbie Jones in Eighth

This Morning

—With Shirley Povich

THAT NICKEL WORLD SERIES they were talking about last week is now no certainty. The subways from Yankee Stadium to Ebbets Field may not get the business. Nothing except a locust swarm can keep the Yankees out of the series, but the Dodgers still have the Cardinals to contend with after the events of the weekend which were distinctly in the Cards' favor.

POVICH

Four days ago, the Dodgers had a 10-game lead and, like the Yankees, appeared unstoppable. But, now look. Brooklyn blew three in a row, the dogged Cardinals won four straight and the Brooklyn lead on August 4 was a mere 6½ games. Ordinarily that is a nice lead at this point of the season, but not when it's the Dodgers who are in front and the Cardinals who are putting on the heat.

A 6½-game lead for the Dodgers on August 4 could be prophetic, in favor of the Cardinals. Last year on the same date, the Brooklyn club led the Cards by 7½ games and didn't win the pennant. The Cardinals did. Traditionally, the Dodgers have come to no good when the Cards are breathing on their necks. In 1945 they were in front by 3½ games and lost to the Cardinals, and back in 1942, they blew a 10-game lead to the Cardinals.

LARRY MacPHAIL was running the Dodgers in '42, when the Brooklyn players' wives were already mulling their World Series' shares in terms of fur coats, what with the Dodgers having a 10-game lead. MacPhail was the first to sound the alarm at the Dodgers' smugness when he walked into the clubhouse and told the players "you're too well satisfied with yourselves; you're going to lose the pennant." They did.

If the Dodgers do blow their lead this year, it would not necessarily presage the return of Leo Durocher as manager, supplanting Burt Shotton who has the club out in front. Branch Rickey is out from under the hefty $85,000 salary he has been in the habit of paying Durocher, including all the attendance bonus arrangements, and he may feel no call to replace the $20,000-a-year Shotton, who has been making money for the club.

The Dodgers' failure to get into the World Series would not leave Rickey exactly woebegone. A club makes precious little money out of a World Series unless it goes six games, and most of the profits are wiped out by the greater salary demands of the players the next season. Rickey, without a 1947 pennant, would not be so vulnerable to those salary arguments.

IN THE AMERICAN LEAGUE, the Yankees have nothing like the Cardinals to contend with. Bucky Harris has his team 13½ games out in front of a lot of bad ball clubs. The Red Sox, who are closest, don't stack up as any threat, and the fact that they are the best of the rest of the league is the tip-off on the stumbling outfits who are behind the Yankees.

No pennant-winning club ever had such a soft touch as the Yankees. They are not one of the great Yankee teams, but they don't have much to lick. The Red Sox, pennant winners of last year, have collapsed. Their pitching has gone sour, they never did have an acceptable third baseman last year, Dom DiMaggio isn't hitting, and Joe Cronin is the most harried manager in the league.

The tip-off on the Red Sox is that they're only 3½ games ahead of the fourth-place Athletics, and a mere half game ahead of the Tigers. The state of the league is best exemplified, perhaps, by the fact that the Tigers are in third place. They're a club with an outfielder playing first base, the worst infield in the league, and no power, yet they're in third place.

BACK IN FLORIDA last spring, Bucky Harris surveyed the rest of the league realistically, and predicted that the Yankees would win the pennant. "I don't see that we've got a whole lot to beat," said Harris, "and we look like the best thing in the league." But the club that Harris has out in front spread-eagling the rest of the league isn't the team he thought he was going to win with.

He doesn't have Charley Keller in there. Keller, hospitalized for a back ailment, hasn't played for two months and may not get into the World Series. Harris presumed that his right fielder would be Yogi Berra, and Berra has ended up as his first-string catcher. Harris thought his third baseman would be Rookie Bobbie Brown, and Bill Johnson is playing third. He presumed Tommy Henrich would play first base after George McQuinn bogged down, but McQuinn has been the steadiest guy on the club..

His pitching star, Harris predicted, would be Rookie Don Johnson. Johnson didn't make good, but the fellow's roommate, Frank Shea, is the league's leading pitcher. Almost all down the line, Harris was mistaken about his ballplayers in the spring, and he's happy about the whole thing.

Williams Wins Title by Kayo in 6th

BULLETIN

Philadelphia, Aug. 4.—Ike Williams of Trenton, N. J., tonight won the lightweight championship of the world by knocking out Bob Montgomery in 2 minutes 37 seconds of the sixth round.

ROUND ONE

There was a slight delay while the gloves were adjusted. Williams pecked with a left jab as Montgomery went into a crouch. Monty bounced a left into the body. In a half-clinch Montgomery drove both hands into the body. They traded body bloms at blose quarters. Williams was outjabbing Bob three to one. Montgomery bounced his right off the body in a half-clinch. Williams ripped a hard right to the ribs. They exchanged rights to the body then Williams fired a right high on the head. Williams connected with a short right and a hook to the chin. Williams' round.

ROUND TWO:

Williams continued his jabbing tactics as Montgomery was wild with a right. Williams drove a right-hand to the ribs, and Montgomery threw both hands at close quarters. Williams drove two rights to the body and took a right to the head in return. Williams smashed two lefts to the head as Montgomery pegged away at the body. Williams straightened Montgomery up with a smashing right to the mouth but Bob came back swinging. Williams half spun Montgomery around with a right. Williams drilled two rights to the mid-section. Montgobery dug his right deep into the body. They pegged away at the body at the bell. Williams' round.

ROUND THREE

ROUND FOUR

Williams had suffered a slight cut along his left eye just before the third round ended. Williams drove a right to the body but Montgomery was on top of him with both hand to the mid-section. They traded hard rights to the body and then switched the attack to the head with right hands. Williams landed a stiff left hook on the chin and a right to the head as Bob worked over his body. Williams bounced two rights off the head and dug a right into the ribs. Montgomery worked over Ike's body with both hands. Williams' jabs had raised a lump over Bob's left eye at the bell. Williams' round.

ROUND FIVE

Montgomery pawed away with a left hand to the face. Montgomery drove left and right into body. Montgomery landed a short right uppercut to the head and half spun Williams with a right to the body. Williams chopped a right to the jaw. Williams landed a short right to the ear. In close, Montgomery had the better of the body punching. Ike's left eye was bleeding again. Montgomery drove a short right to the head. Montgomery almost doubled Williams up with a right under the heart. Williams bounced a right off the face at the bell. Montgomery's round.

ROUND SIX

Williams jabbed to the face four times. Williams bounced a right off the chin. Montgomery landed with a hard right to the face. Montgomery bounced his right into the ripped two hooks to the face and a body at close quarters. Williams right high on the head. Montgomery dropped a short right to the head. Williams floored Montgomery with a right cross for a count of nine. Williams floored Montgomery with a barrage of punches and Bob was counted out at 2 minutes 37 seconds of the sixth round.

Local Boy Had Edge for Six Rounds

By Morris Siegel

Johnny (Honeyboy) Bratton, of Chicago, knocked out Herbie (Biff) Jones, of Washington, in the eighth round of their scheduled ten-rounder last night at Griffith Stadium.

Bratton weighed 135½, Jones, 132¼.

Jones, taking the play away from highly-touted Chicagoan for six rounds, ran into a welter of blows from the free-wheeling Bratton in the seventh round and was dropped for counts of eight twice.

Bratton needing a kayo to win, rushed out for the kill in the opening seconds of the eighth round and caught Herbie with a right to the jaw and left to the head on the ropes.

A crowd of 4180 persons paid $10,325 to see the card.

Barney Welsh, Leavens Win

Barney Welsh and Don Leavens, ranked second and fifth respectively, coasted to straight set victories in third round play of the Middle Atlantic Tennis Tournament yesterday at the Columbia Country Club.

Welsh downed G. Amsden, 6—2, 6—4, while Leavens was impressive 6—1, in a second round encounter and Bill Helfrich, 6—0, 6—0, in his third round match.

Malcolm Fox of Baltimore, and Kahl Spriggs had a tough battle before Fox came through, 8—6, 6—2. Another hard fought match was won by Charlie Channing, as he outlasted B. Davis in three sets, 6—3, 3—6, 6—3.

Two of the leading favorites to win the women's title, Willie Herbert and Charlotte Decker, won their matches as play in their division got under way.

Miss Herbert defeated Sosie Gergosian, 7—5, 6—2, while Miss Decker had less trouble downing Clare Okey, 6—1, 6—1.

Adelman Joins 'Skins Practice

Los Angeles, Calif., Aug. 4.—Harry Adelman, first-string end on the Southern California Rose Bowl team that was beaten by Alabama on New Years Day 1946, joined the Washington Redskins squad yesterday at Occidental College when Coach Turk Edwards put his squad through their first paces.

The 190-pound end joined such other Trojans as Don Avery, regular tackle with the Redskins last year; Mike Garzoni, guard; Bob Musick, halfback, and Eddie Saenz, halfback and Billy Gray, center, who spent part of their intercollegiate life at Southern California.

Turk put the squad through two brisk sessions yesterday.

Sam Baugh was extremely sharp for an opening practice session and indicated he wiuld be as great as ever. For a gent who is starting his tenth year in the National League, Baugh gave no indication his 33 years were going to hang heavily on his shoulders this year.

Charles (Ki) Aldrich took the tackles and guards aside to give them their own starting activities while Wilbur Moore and Clark Shaughnessy was showing the backs how to go through their passing paces. Wayne Milner had an extremely large array of ends in tow.

17-Hit Attack

Cards Take 4th in Row, Beat Cubs, 8-1

Chicago, Aug. 4 (AP).—The Cardinals made it four straight on their newest drive for a pennant recovery today by lambasting five Cub pitchers for 17 hits and a 8-1 victory before a crowd of 20,215 sweltering in 97 degree temperature.

Howie Pollet held the Cubs in check with 10 well-spaced hits to register his seventh victory of the season.

The Cubs, fresh from a three-game sweep of the Brooklyn series, counted their lone run in the third on straight singles by Eddie Waitkus, Andy Pafko and Phil Cavarretta. Pollet shut off their every scoring threat thereafter.

The Cardinals rolled the winning total into a string of four two-run innings, beginning with starter Bob Chipman in the fourth with a walk and successive singles by Terry Moore, Marty Marion and Del Rice. They added two more off Emil Kush in the fifth on three hits, including Marion's two-run single, and kept up the pace in the sixth on singles by Pollet and Erv Dusak and a triple by Whitey Kurowski.

Stan Musial's homer over the right field wall started the Cardinal scoring in the eighth off Russ Meers, and they added another run on two singles off Meers and they added another run on two singles off Meers and a pair of walks off Reliefer Hank Wyse.

Cambria Says He'll Be Ready For Hearing

Miami, Fla., Aug. 4 (AP).—Joseph Cambria, secretary-treasurer of the Havana Cubans of the Florida International League, will appear before league president Judge Wayne Allen Thursday to explain why $9000 for scouting expenses" are entered on the baseball team's books.

Judge Allen said that Cambria, one-fourth owner of the Havana team and a scout fo rthe Washington Senators of the merican League, called him by telephone from Havana earlier today and promised that he would be "up on Thursday."

Allen said that he was now making an investigation of the class C baseball club's books—on orders from Minor League President George T. Trautman—and that so far he had foun dthat Cambria had "entered scouting expenses which amount to about $9000.

Cambria also is scout for the Washington Nationals.

Yesterday at a meeting of the league's eight members in Fort Lauderdale, the directors demanded that Cambria appear before Allen or be expelled from the club.

The demand followed an investigation ordered by Trautman into alleged "under the table" salary payments by the Havana Club to members of its team.

Branch Rickey sr., and Mel Jones, of the Brooklyn Dodgers, filed charges that three Havana players — Pitchers Rafael Rivas and Ray Martinez and Catcher Mario—whom Brooklyn bought to play with its Montreal farm team, reportedly claimed that the $250 salary Montreal offered wasn't as much as they could get in Havana.

Allen said he had conducted a "quiet investigation" but found nothing against Merita Acosta, president of the Havana Club.

Ought to Be Ashamed

Lewis, Spence Batting Like Tired Old Men in Nats' Slump

"Consarn it, they ain't hittin'."

Clark Griffith, who can be more grammatical when he doesn't choose to be more expressive, put the finger on the troubles of his ball club yesterday with the above complaint.

He didn't name Outfielders Stan Spence and Buddy Lewis specifically, but inferentially he singled them out as two reasons for the Nats' slump.

"They're not even swinging like they can. They act like they're tired, or something. They ought to be ashamed of themselves," he said.

Spence and Lewis who were among the .300 hitters in June had sloughed off to .275 and .260, respectively. At a time when Mickey Vernon is lifting his own average to a respectable .282 with a recent batting surge, Spence and Lewis have bogged down and the Nats have lost three games by 2-1 scores in little more than a week.

Tonight, the Nats open a three-game series with the second-place Boston Red Sox, against whom they've had respectable success this season. They've beaten Boston in 5 of the 11 games between the two clubs.

Walter Masterson, who has been pitching good ball ad getting precious little encouragement from the Nats' hitters, will be trying for his ninth victory tonight.

Manager Ossie Bluege, agreeing with Griffith, confesses that the Nats are a weak-looking ball club at bat. "I feel like grabbing a bat myself sometimes and walking up there, bad as my eyesight is. We take more called strikes than any ball club in history."

Seats for Armory Will Cost At Least $150,000, Cox Says

By Bus Ham
Post Reporter

It will cost at least $150,000 to install the "type of seats we want" for sports events in the Armory, Brig. Gen. Albert L. Cox of the National Guard said yesterday.

Five companies have entered bids "on various types of seating proposals," Cox told The Washington Post, and a contract for about 9,000 seats probably will be let within 30 days.

It probably will be January or February before the seats are available and some of the firms bidding for the contract have asked for 12 to 18 months in which to install them because of the steel shortage.

May Rent Bleachers

"But we're going right ahead with plans to have basketball in the Armory next season," Cox said. "Temporarily, we may have to rent bleachers. On this basis, we may be able to use the type of bleachers that the Washington Redskins have for football games at Griffith Stadium."

On a permanent basis, Cox said that "we want the theater type of seat with a back for greater comfort."

Estimated costs run about $8 per seat. This figure does not include the cost of risers, ramps and other installations.

In addition to temporary bleachers or the permanent seats, when installed, approximately 3600 persons can be accommodated in the gallery. Thus the maximum seating capacity would be about 12,600.

It may be that only the temporary bleacher seats will be available when Georgetown and George Washington universities begin a series of eight collegiate basketball double-headers in January and February.

Friday for Schools

This also would apply to the District high schools. They have made reservations for regular Friday night play in the big hall.

A bill introduced in the House just before Congress adjourned provides for the District Commissioners to have charge of the Armory, and this condition "makes it exceedingly difficult to proceed with definite plans," Cox said.

"The guard is in charge of the building now," Cox said. "It probably will be spring before Congress gets around to holding hearings on the Commissioners' bill.

"But I am not going to wait on congressional action. To do so might delay for a year or two the actual use of the Armory for big events, and Washington urgently needs the building right now."

Date Only Thing In Way of Armed, Assault Match

Chicago, Aug. 4 (AP).—A $100,000 winner-take-all match race between Assault and Armed will be held during the current Washington Park meeting, if a date can be agreed upon, it was announced today by Benjamin F. Lindheimer, executive director at the track.

Lindheimer said that in a telephone conversation with Max Hirsch, trainer for Robert F. Kleberg's King Ranch, the latter agreed to run Assault in the proposed race at a mile and a quarter. Assault now is quartered at Saratoga.

Owner Warren Wright previously had said Armed was ready for the match.

Assault, second behind Stymie in all-time money winning, has not raced since his defeat by Stymie in the Empire City Gold Cup feature on July 19, the day Armed won the Arlington Handicap.

Ferrier's 68 Beats Haas

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 4 (AP).—Cool and efficient, Jim Ferrier of Chicago shot a four-under-par 68 today to win the St. Paul Open golf title and the $2000 first money in a play-off with Fred Haas, jr., of New Orleans, who shot a 71.

Haas, who got $1400 for second place, and Ferrier were sent into the play-off by finishing the scheduled 72 holes tied at 272 Sunday. At the end of today's round, Ferrier had 340 strokes to 343 for Haas.

Ferrier, playing every shot with virtually the same stance, was never over par today while Haas went one stroke over on each of three holes.

Ferrier scored birdies on the second, sixth, eleventh and sixteenth for his four-under-par 68. Haas dropped the same number of birdies but his difficulty on the three holes cancelled out all but one of them.

Ferrier counted his first birdie on the second hole, getting a three to Haas' four. Ferrier added to his advantage on the 10th, taking a par four to Haas' five.

Massillon Has Ideal Coaching Setup and Community Backing

Paul Brown Made Ohio School Famous

By Herb Heft
Post Reporter

MASSILLON, Ohio., Aug. 4.—This peaceful little community of 26,000 people, without a college or professional team, is one of the most rabid football towns in the Nation.

The object of the adoration of its citizens is the high school eleven, which during the past 12 years has amassed the amazing record of 100 victories, seven losses and six ties.

Go into any gasoline station or drug store, and the attendants will reel off the individual record of any member of the school team as quickly as any 12-year-old in Washington will tell you what Mickey Vernon batted last season.

There's a big reason for the football-consciousness of this town. Its football heritage dates back to the early 1900's when Massillon and nearby Canton provided some of the hottest rivalry of the embyronic National Professional League. Such gridiron greats as Knute Rockne, Gus Dorais and Jim Thorpe performed their heroics on Massillon's fields.

Then the big cities moved in and took the professional game away. Now the rabid grid fans support the high school team., A progressive board of education was sympathetic to the clamoring for a good high school team. The educators themselves had become hot fans.

BY 1935, the time was ripe. Paul Brown, a former Massillon high school gridder, was named coach and piloted the team through seven consecutive undefeated seasons.

That accomplishment earned Brown direct promotion to the head coaching post at Ohio State University. Last year he moved to the Cleveland Browns of the All-American Conference and guided the Browns to the championship. Brown's name is "sacred" in Massillon.

Brown's successor at the high school is 35-year-old William G. (Bud) Houghton, also a former Massillon athlete, who, served seven years as Brown's assistant. Since '41 his teams have lost only seven games. He's a modest fellow though, and admits that the success of the team is due not to his tutoring, but to the support of the board of education and townspeople, who have paid for the new stadium at the school which seats 22,000 fans.

Last year's attendance figures for the seven Massillon High home games make the figures of the Washington, D. C., universities pale by comparison.

More than 138,000 turned out, two crowds of 17,000 were the low points. The 1945 Ohio public highs championship game bedral Latin High at Cleveland 52,000.

The board of education has provided the head coach with a manpower and finanical setup that is hard to top. In the Nation's Capital, the District public highs are struggling for extra bonuses for their after-hours work and are asking for one assastant at easch school. Here is what Houghton has to work with:

* * * * *

ONE assistant coaching at each of the three junior high schools. Each junior high has a varsity and junior varsity football team that plays a regular schedule.

Each of the junior high coaches receives a $500 bonus i naddition to his regular salary as a physical education and hygiene instructor.

At the senior high, Houghton has two assistant line coaches and two assistant backfield coaches, each receiving $500 bonuses. Houghton therefore has seven assistants. He himself gets what he calls a bonus of "much more than $500."

Busman's Holiday

Post Reporter Herb Heft stopped off in Massillon, Ohio, during his vacation and was so impressed with the football setup in the Ohio steeltown that he took a few moments of his own time to write his impressions of the football phenomenon he saw there.

Out Fishing

TO SAY that Chesapeake Bay fishing is going through the 'dog days' stage, is putting it mildly.

Fishing over the weekend with Harry Sollers, J. Wallace Shope, and Ben Ault, we floated live soft crab bait across Point Patience, and moving with the change of tide, floated our bait over the "rock pile" without a single strike from striped bass.

The sum total of our combined effort was three weakfish and one small bluefish.

Fishing for striped bass off Tall Timbers in the Potomac, H. T. Townes, 319 S. Wayne st., Arlington, Va., caught a drum fish weighing 79 pounds 15 ounces, with a girth of 38 inches and length of 50½ inches. He worked 42 minutes to boat the huge fish.

Aboard the "20 Grand" skippered by Bill Goldsborough, Mr. and Mrs. Townes and Bill and Robert Gimbles caught 11 stripers averaging 4½ pounds.

A slump in striper fishing is reported from Eastern Bay, where until a week ago, consistent catches were reported.

Rowboat fishermen off Benedict on the Putuxent river, are making fair catches of small white perch, weakfish, croakers and an occasional small bluefish.

PROTESTS by Maryland sportsmen of the game and fish commission's conservation measure to restrict hunting and fishing has reached a new high.

The powerful Maryland State Game and Fish Protective Association has voted it's objection to a cut in the rail bird shooting season, by half.

The commission sought to curb illegal duck shooting. Rail bird hunting has always been popular with Maryland and local sportsmen.

"The commission's proposal to restrict dove shooting to the afternoon hours," Ernest A. Vaughn, State Game Warden said, "is a conservation measure to discourage out-of-State hunters from hunting in Eastern Shore counties and hogging the sport."

Green Bay Coach High On 'Skins

Green Bay, Wis., Aug. 4 (AP).—The old college try will pay off in professional football this year, Earl L. Lambeau, who's been around the National Football League for 28 years, said today.

Lambeau, better known throughout the senior pro circuit as "Curly," was preparing to open his twenty-ninth consecutive season at the helm of the Green Bay Packers.

"Everybody in the league will have plenty," he declared. "There will be so little to choose between teams from the standpoint of manpower and talent that the difference on any given day will have to be mental attitude.

Lambeau, who today took 42 Packer candidates to Rockwood Lodge, the club's year-round training camp several miles north of here, said he figured the Detroit Lions and the Boston Yanks would have a lot to say in their respective divisions this fall.

In the Eastern division, Lambeau said he liked the chances of the Pittsburgh Steelers and the Washington Redskins. In the Western half, in which his Packers perform, he had no comment beyond a request for "about three months to think it over."

Of his own club, he admitted "great possibilities," adding, "Now if we just have some luck."

A three-titled man in the Packer organization, Lambeau also got in a word for each.

As coach, he summed up by declaring all clubs would be stronger. As vice president he forecast crowds would be larger, adding, as general manager:

Joe Louis Still Says He'll Retire After 1948 Fight

Pittsburgh, Aug. 4 (AP).—Joe Louis, heavyweight champion of the world, said today he plans to retire from the ring in 1948 if "I am still undefeated."

Joe made the announcement while playing golf here. He is in town in connection with Frog Week festivities which are sponsored by a Negro social group.

Louis outlined his ring plans thus:

1. He will fight Jersey Joe Wolcott in a 10-round nontitle bout in New York November 14.

2. In March he will meet the winner of the Ezzard Charles-Ollie Tandberg fight scheduled for December. It will be a 10-round nontitle event.

3. The opponent to make the best showing against him will be given a crack at the title in a 15-round championship bout in New York next summer.

Maryland Racing Transfers Today to Hagerstown Track

Hagerstown, Md., Aug. 4 (AP).—Maryland horse racing swings to Hagerstown tomorrow after opening of the half-mile racing season at Bel Air followed the trend of a drop in betting.

Hagerstown's 10-day meeting starts daily at 2 p. m. No program will be held next Monday in order to conclude the session on Saturday, August 16.

Two leading riders at Bel Air, Jimmy Baird and Sammy Palumbo, carry their feud to Hagerstown. Baird's 14 wins topped Palumbo by one for laurels at Bel Air.

The Bel Air betting fell off $277,777 from the 1946 "take" of $4,017,202 which set a record for half-mile tracks in Maryland.

Baltimore Also 'Shifted'

Caps Learn East Isn't East; Grouped in 'Western Division'

"EAST is East and West is West and never the twain shall meet . . ." Horsefeathers!

East isn't East any longer and the West isn't where your geography teacher told you, either.

This momentous discovery was uncovered yesterday in a press release from the Basketball Association of America, which has just rearranged its eight-team pro circuit.

Washington and Baltimore, generally regarded as Eastern cities, are now in the league's Western Division.

The Caps and the Bullets join the Chicago Stags and the St. Louis Bombers, two legitimate Midwestern precincts, in the new "Western Division."

* * * *

THE new setup becomes more ludicrous when one remembers that the Washington Caps won the Eastern Division championship last year. Now they won't be able to defend their title.

The league's amateur cartographers were unable to do anything about changing the geographical division of such Eastern seaboard outlets as New York and Boston and decided to allow them to remain in the Eastern Division. Providence and Philadelphia, two "borderline" cities, complete the Eastern bracket.

The league did do something constructive, however. It lopped 12 games off of last year's 60-game schedule, awarding each team 24 home dates and 24 road games.

Excluding the playoffs, the pro court season now will end before the major baseball leagues open next spring.

Special Films For Net Class

Boys and girls in The Washington Post Tennis School, conducted by the D. C. Recreation Department each Saturday morning at more than a score of tennis grounds, are in for a movie treat Thursday night.

Promptly at 7:30 o'clock in the Department of Interior auditorium at 18th and C sts. nw., special films will be shown demonstrating tennis as the experts play it.

And "special" is the word for these films. They were just rushed here from England, where they were on loan by the United States Lawn Tennis Association for exhibition at British clubs and universities. Clearing the customs delayed their arrivall, but now they are in The Washington Post's custody.

On the program—free to all the tennis students—will be scenes from the United States national championships and the Davis Cup matches. Then Don Budge illustrates various shots, hand grips, tactics and footwork, rhythm and timing—much of it in slow motion.

Bill Shreve, tennis school commissioner, will be on hand to officiate.

No tickets are needed. The show is free and the attendance of each student in The Washington Post Tennis School is expected as part of the school's curriculum.

Colts Sign Castiglia

Hershey, Pa., Aug. 4.—Jim Castiglia, Georgetown University star in 1940 and 1941, today signed for the 1947 season with the Baltimore Colts of the All-America Conference.

Castiglia was one of the Philadelphia Eagles' better fullbacks in the National League last season. He obtained an outright release from the Eagles before signing with the Colts.

Castiglia will compete with Harry Hopp, University of Nebraska product, and Don Reece, from the University of Missouri.

Castiglia weighs 210 pounds, is 5 feet 11 inches tall, and reported to the Colts today.

In a move to bolster their quarterbacking, the Colts have converted "Doc" Savage, backfield coach at George Washington University last season, into a signal caller. In his college days, Savage was All-Eastern halfback at Brown.

Quarter Horse Beats 'Blueblood' In $100,000 Duel

Inglewood, Calif., Aug. 4 (AP).—Barbara B, Arizona-owned quarter horse, decisively whipped Fair Truckle, a thoroughbred, in a quarter-mile winner-take-all match race for a reported $100,000 purse before several thousand horse fans at Hollywood Park today.

Barbara B, owned by Roy Gill of Tucson, Ariz., broke from the inside position of the starting gate, promptly took a good lead, and held on as the two sprinted to the finish wire. Fair Truckle, owned by wealthy Charles S. Howard, made a run at the midway mark and for a moment it seemed the Irish importation might pull alongside.

But the Arizona bush league quarter horse added another burst of speed and won by more than a length, as hundreds of admirers from the ranch country of Arizona cheered wildly from the stands.

The time was not immediately available, as most of Hollywood Park's facilities were shut down.

Civil Service Job Tests Scheduled This Month

EXAMINATIONS: If you're one of the many thousands waiting for Civil Service to announce an examination you can qualify for—then you'll be interested in this report. Civil Service will announce tests on a Nation-wide basis this month for these jobs:

All types and grades of telephone operators; various grades and options for engineering aid; general staff nurse and head nurse, and student dietitian.

In the month of September these examinations will be opened:

All grades and options of economist, cartographer, and psychologist, social worker in the District government, and substitute railway mail clerk.

Civil Service today announced examinations for patent examiner and veterinarian. The patent jobs, open in the Patent Office here, will pay $2644 to start. To qualify, applicants must pass a written test. Also, they must either have education or experience in engineering, techology, or physics.

The veterinarian jobs will pay from $2644 to $3397 for openings in Agriculture's Bureau of Animal Industry. No written test. Applicants will be graded on education and experience.

SECRETARIAL TEST? Thousands of girls here want to know when Civil Service will announce its long-planned test for Grade 5, 6, and 7 secretarial jobs. It had been planned to open the test this summer. Now, however, it has been postponed. Frankly, Civil Service officials don't know when it will be given.

Officials say they will wait until a census is made of all Federal jobs before the secretarial and many more pending exams are announced. The census, being made as of August 1, will show the need of future tests. It will show the status, qualifications, and detailed job description of each Federal worker.

If the census shows, for example, that there is a sufficient number of qualified permanent employes to fill the secretarial jobs—then no test will be given. That's unlikely, however. But the same standard will be applied to all other pending tests. In other words, the entire examining schedule will be revised once the census is complete and the need is determined.

Primarily, the census is being made to give the commission the facts on war service and temporary employes. Civil Service will use the information to force the firings of some of these people to open up jobs for qualified laid-off career employes and veterans.

NAVY: It's making a study of the salaries paid to its 200,000 per diem employes. The Navy Wage Board is certain to recommend higher wages to keep pace with those paid by private industry. That's good news for 10,000 or so of these people in this area.

But this is bad news for them. Any increase must be paid out of current appropriations. Every additional cent-an-hour jumps up to four million dollars on an annual basis. And four million dollars pays the annual salaries of 1500 per diem employes.

If the Wage Board should recommend an across-the-board 15 per cent increase, like many industries, Navy would be forced to fire 22,500 employes on an annual basis to offset the higher cost.

However, the wage survey won't be completed for about six weeks and an increase won't become effective until around October 1. If a 15-cent boost is ordered at that time, about 15,000 per diems must be laid off in order for the Navy to balance its books by next June 30.

The Navy already has been warned by congressional leaders that no new money will be appropriated during the 1948 fiscal year to take care of any wage increase.

NLRBR: Two officials yesterday resigned from the National Labor Relations Board. They were: Oscar Smith, chief of the field division, and John P. Chapman, his assistant. The field division was abolished and merged with the general counsel's office under the Taft-Hartley Act.

INTERIOR: These wide-awake employes here have been awarded money and certificates for their suggestions to improve Government service:

Harvey A. Drennon, chief of the file section; Freda W. Taylor, Bureau of Mines voucher clerk; Raymond L. Stevens, park policeman; Cleveland E. Dennis, Bureau of Mines carpenter; Howard F. Carl, a Mines physicist, and Charles Grossman, James F. Kelly, and Edward Loud, jr., all Geological Survey engineers.

INTERNES: Twenty-one internes from 10 agencies have been selected on the basis of their administrative ability for five months of intensive Government training. The successful candidates are all World War II veterans. They are:

Moses Adkins, William Isaacs, Conrad Kreps, Paul Kunberger, and James Wright of NAVY; Paul Huber and Vincent Timm of AGRICULTURE; James Brown and Holt Watts of CIVIL SERVICE; Stephen Budney, Fred Diemer, Leo Kudej, Ernest Kvam, and Wadean Wroten of COMMERCE; Edward Bridge, and Edward Grove of WAR; Edward Drucker of VA; William Boswell of STATE; Daniel Kilkenny of FEDERAL WORKS; Herman Bretch of FSA, and Emmett Galloway of PANAMA CANAL.

Sen. O'Daniel Passing Out Apartments, $10,000 Up

They're the Same Ones From Which He Evicted Tenants After Court Fight

By Robert J. Bruskin
Post Reporter

Senator W. Lee (Pappy) O'Daniel is passing out apartments this time—at $10,000 to $13,000 each.

They're the same apartments from which he evicted 11 tenants after court battles in 1945 and 1946. Senator O'Daniel, at the time, explained then, "We're not used to being fenced in down in Texas" and he needed all 40 rooms, 14 kitchens and 14 bathtubs for his own family.

The house at 115 2d st. ne. has been turned over to Senate Apartments, Inc., which is selling them to owners as a cooperative, he said.

The Texas Democrat, who parlayed biscuit flour and a mellow tenor into the Governor's chair and Senate, said he's fixin' to find himself another house in the vicinity of the Hill.

O'Daniel's term expires in 1948 and he hasn't announced yet if he'll get out the biscuits and tenor and take to the hustings for another term.

"I like it fine in Washington," he said. "And I like to live near my work. So I'm going to find me another place near the Senate."

O'Daniel said he paid $52,500 for the apartment house during the war. Since then he's "fixed things up" to take care of high-class tenants, he said.

An amateur mathematician figured that the cooperative sale of the apartments will bring in at least $150,000.

All But Three Sold

There are 14 apartments, some with one bedroom and some with two. The one-bedroom places, with living room, dinette, kitchen and bath, sell for $10,000 when they're located with one window in the back. Two windows raise the ante to $11,000. There are also windows along the side.

Two bedroom apartments, with a single exposure on the front, cost $12,000 and an extra window out front raises the cost to $13,000.

All but three apartments have been sold, said former Representative Victor Wickersham, now a real estate broker.

O'Daniel explained while the long-time tenants were being tossed out of the ancient apartment house that he needed the place for his personal use because his family was coming to live with him.

"The war is over now," he said yesterday." My daughter and her two children were coming here but they're now out on a ranch. My son got out of the service and got married. He moved to California. My mother-in-law had a heart attack in Colorado and can't travel.

"Yes suh," he said, "there sure have been a lot of changes in the last 2½ years."

Firemen Pick Speakers

Ocean City, Md., Aug. 4 (AP).—Charles R. Stallings, jr., of Pikesville, president of the Maryland State Firemen's Association, will be among the principal speakers when the Worcester County Association of Volunteer Firemen holds its annual convention here Wednesday.

Other speakers who have been invited to attend include Governor Lane, Representative Edward T. Miller (R., Md.) and Curtis C. Larrimore, senior instructor of the fire service extension of the University of Maryland.

Arsenate for Bagworms

A lead arsenate spray was recommended yesterday by T. L. Bissell, University of Maryland extension entomologist, to kill bagworms on lawn evergreens.

Bissell said the bigworms have been especially destructive this summer to junipers and other evergreens in Maryland. The spray, he said, should be mixed five pounds of lead arsenate to 100 gallons of water, with a few pounds of casein or flour added to make the spray stick.

Tribute Paid Dead as Elks Are Welcomed

Memorial services and speeches of welcome yesterday highlighted the twenty-seventh annual convention of the Maryland, Delaware and Washington Elks Association in the second day of its session here.

Dr. Chandler M. Stith, executive secretary of the District Baptists Convention, paid triubte to the 101 members of 16 Elks lodges who have died during the past year.

Eulogizes 'Living'

Dr. Stith eulogized the "living who have died" and told "the living who are alive" that each is erecting his own memorial by the deeds he does every day.

L. Martin Smith, secretary of the Washington Lodge, said more than 500 delegates, wives and guests of an expected 2000 had registered at the Elks' Club, 919 H st. nw., by late afternoon yesterday.

Earlier, delegates were greeted by Chester W. McLaughlin, exalted ruler of Washington lodge No. 15, which is host to the convention, and R. Herbert Ricketts, president of the Association, made the response.

On Moonlight Cruise

Joseph C. McGarraghy, past president of the Board of Trade and chairman of the Greater National Capital Committee, welcomed the delegates in behalf of Washington.

Last night the visiting Elks heard a concert by the Elks Boys' Band at the Wilson Line pier before going aboard the S.S. Mount Vernon for a moonlight cruise.

Officials Go to School

Eighty-four Maryland State and city government officials registered yesterday for the second annual School for Assessing Officers at the University of Maryland.

Classes were arranged under the joint sponsorship of the Maryland Association of Assessing Officers, the National Association of Assessing Officers, the Maryland State Tax Commission, the State Department of Education, and the University of Maryland. This year's school, specializing in advanced land appraisal, will continue through Thursday.

Parakeets on the Loose

The home of Frank B. Bushby at 4705 Oliver st., Riverdale, became a "Bureau of Missing Parakeets" yesterday when 35 persons called to inquire about the bird being sheltered by Bushby pending the arrival of its owner.

Mrs. William H. Sarton of 6300 44th ave., University Park, finally won the bird by arriving with an identical twin. She said the parakeet had forced its way through the bars of its cage Friday.

Contracts Let For Sewers, Water Lines

The Commissioners yesterday awarded contracts for more than $100,000 worth of sewer and water line installations in the District.

Harold Kemp, director of sanitary engineering, said it would take "at least three weeks" to execute and sign the contracts and begin work. Projects include:

Stormwater and sanitary sewers to be installed prior to paving Riggs rd. ne. between Chillum pl. and Eastern ave. Awarded to M. Cain Co., Inc., 3315 8th st. ne., for $46,858. It will take two and one-half months to complete.

2 Months to Finish

Stormwater sewers prior to paving Weaver st. nw. between MacArthur blvd. and Loughboro rd. Awarded to Ahl Brothers Construction Co., 7734 Frederick rd., West Lanham Hills, Hyattsville, Md. for $40,914. It will take two months to finish.

Extension of service sewers and water mains to serve new stores on So. Capitol st. between Brandywine and Atlantic sts. sw. Awarded to M. Cain Co., Inc., for $12,499. It will take about two months to complete.

Service sewer and watermain extensions to new housing on Alton pl. nw from 43d to 44th sts. Awarded to Vinton Construction Co., 908 Gist ave., Silver Spring, Md., for $9073. It will require nearly two months to finish.

The Commissioners also awarded a $8650 contract for installing asphalt tile flooring in Western High School halls to Sanitary Floors Corp., 601 S. Capitol st.

Road Network to Affect Only 3 Maryland Cities

Baltimore, Aug. 4 (AP).—While the Federal Government's projected super-network of roads will affect only three Maryland cities, Robert M. Reindollar, chairman of the State Roads Commission, today assured other sections of the State they are not being neglected in building plans.

The commission chairman disclosed plans for spending 163 million dollars on roads in Maryland and linking them with the Federal superhighways, which will be in the vicinity of Baltimore, Frederick and Hagerstown.

The Federal plan announced Saturday omitted mention of the Eastern Shore or Western Maryland. But Reindollar promised these sections will get new roads at the same time a program of integrating systems in the urban sections is undertaken.

$180,000 Increase

'Shop Silver Spring Week' Big Success

"Shop Silver Spring Week has jumped community business as much as 300 to 500 per cent in some cases, merchants reported yesterday.

Sales volume jumped $180,000 Saturday and yesterday, according to Charles Kopeland, campaign public relations official, who said his estimate was based on the increased bank receipts over the previous Monday.

Speaking for the retail division of the Silver Spring Board of Trade, sponsors of the project, William M. Wright, division chairman, said the promotion "has been very satisfactory to all concerned." He said that in some stores the sales volume was "phenomenal."

Rain Blamed Yesterday

The merchants agreed that business tapered off yesterday but blamed much of the drop on the intermittent rainfall during the day. A few used the lull to replenish depleted stocks and prepare for the expected rush this weekend.

Lee H. Robinston, proprietor of a men's clothing shop, declared 500 per cent increase over usual that Saturday's business showed a Saturday sales.

"We've been rushed to death and the crowds are staying right with us," Robinson said.

Radar Safety Device Studied by Railroads

Boston (U.P.).—The Nation's railroads may be equipped with radar as an accident-preventive measure.

Dr. Phillips Thomas, research engineer of the Westinghouse Electric Corp., revealed at a meeting of the New England Railroad Club that experiments with radar safety devices are being conducted for the railroads.

The chief obstacle encountered in the experiments has been the failure to adjust the light rays of the radar beam with the speed of railroad locomotives.

The outcome of the experiments, Dr. Thomas said, may not be known for many months.

'Hopper's Number Up—It's 1068

Moscow, Idaho (U.P.)—The grasshopper's number is up—and it's "1068."

H. C. Manis, head entomologist at the University of Idaho, says "1068" is by far the most powerful weapon against grasshoppers that has been found. Dusted over fields, it kills from 95 to 98 per cent of them in a few days.

Fire Captain To Face Blast Trial Monday

Suspended Fire Capt. W. V. James will appear before the Fire Department Trial Board next Monday to answer charges arising from an engine house explosion which injured four firemen July 17.

Datee for the trial, to be held at Engine Company No. 16 headquarters, 1018 13th st. nw., was announced yesterday by Assistant Corporation Counsel Edward A. Beard, who will be in charge of prosecution.

Copies of charges against him were served on Captain James last Friday, Beard said.

Captain James said last night he'd been conferring with attorneys, but had not yet selected his defense counsel. He declined to comment on the forthcoming trial.

Fire Chief Clement Murphy suspended Captain James July 18 after a preliminary investigation of the blast at No. 18 Engine Company, 414 8th st. se. Investigators reported the explosion occurred while firemen were cleaning a boiler with a mixture of gasoline and oil.

The Commissioners ordered the trial board hearing after receiving a report on the blast from a special inquiry board July 22.

Members of the trial board will be Assistant Corporation Counsel Irving Bryan, chairman, Assistant District Auditor R. L. Mudd and Battalion Chief N. E. Bowen.

Physicist Lack Is Retarding Atom Program

Most critical handicap to the United States atomic energy program is a shortage of nuclear physicists, two Atomic Energy Commission officials said here yesterday.

They were Capt. James S. Russel, USN, acting AEC director for military application, and Edward R. Trapnell, AEC public relations director.

They urged the National eace and Preparedness Committee of American Veterans of World War II to help encourage promising students to enter the nuclear energy field.

See Marshall, Forrestal

The Amvet committee, preparing policy recommendations for the national Amvet convention October 2-5 in Columbus, Ohio, also conferred with Secretary of State Marshall and Secretary of National Defense Forrestal.

Russell, who attributed the shortage of nuclear physicists to newness of the field and the relatively high intelligence and protracted study required, said youth must be shown that here is a field "as interesting as aviation used to be."

Trapnell also told the committee the AEC is facing the problem of exploding the "comic page" and "Buck Rogers" conceptions of atomic energy built up after the Hiroshima and Nagasaki bombings.

The Marshall and Forrestal conference were closed to newsmen.

Marshall Urges Peace Work

The six Amvet committee members said, however, Marshall urged the 120,000-member veterans organization to help mobilize public opinion for peace.

The committee members present for the all-day conference at the Statler and in Marshall's and Forrestal's offices were: Dr. Caleb Gates, chancellor of the University of Denver; Miss Frances Rich, Smith College public relations director; Harry F. Byrd, jr., Winchester, Va., publisher; Dr. Frank H. Jonas, University of Utah professor; John McKiernan, Rhode Island lieutenant-governor; and Arthur H. Vandenberg, jr., son and secretary to the senator.

Ray Sawyer, Amvets national commander, said an announcement of policy agreed to by the committee probably would be announced today.

Wife Faces Charge Of Manslaughter After Fatal Attack On Mother-in-Law

A 36-year-old housewife was indicted yesterday for manslaughter in the death of her 74-year-old mother-in-law.

This was among 28 indictments returned in District Court by the District grand jury. Others included eight men charged with draft evasion and three additional homicide cases.

Indicted in the mother-in-law case was Mrs. Irma Trego, 2235 Prout st. se. The deceased is Mrs. Annie Trego.

According to evidence at the coroner's inquest, the mother-in-law was in bed April 9, while her son and Mrs. Irma Trego were having an argument. Following it, the husband left the house, and the wife set upon the mother-in-law.

Woman Died June 9

The elderly woman suffered a broken leg and other injuries. She died June 9.

The draft evasion cases involved men whose present addresses are unknown. Charged with various violations of the Selective Training and Service Act were Chee Young Lee, 40; Leslie V. Irwin, 28; Mascho E. Carter, 40; Anthony J. Ruedi, 31; Martin Rodriguez, 22; Willard A. Rice, 42; Samuel Lee Crosson, jr., 38, and Frank T. Moy, 25.

Charged with second-degree murder was Mrs. Margaret Lewis, 31, 1010 1st st. se. The indictment charges her with the felonious shooting of John H. Easton, 51, 622 K st. se.

The shooting occurred after Easton poured beer in Mrs. Lewis' hair and otherwise abused her, according to charges.

Face Manslaughter Charges

David Dorden, jr., 30, 119 P st. nw., for the fatal shooting of James C. Smith, 38, 1536 Columbia st. nw., and Leroy Marshall, 49, 1843 7th st. nw., who allegedly used a brick to slay Jesse Holcomb, 63, 436 S st. nw.

Leslie S. Page, 24, 639 Keefer pl. nw., was charged with assaulting Police Pvt. William J. Sartain, with a meat cleaver. The charges included assault with a dangerous weapon, assault with intent to kill and assault on a policeman. Page was also charged with burglarizing a restaurant at 6525 Georgia ave of the meat cleaver and $250.

2 Slav Fliers Will Become Citizens Today

Two Yugoslav aviators will be admitted to American citizenship today in District Court by virtue of a special act of Congress.

They are First Lieut Zivko T. Miloykovich, 33, and Second Lieut. Momchilo M. Markovich, both now stationed with the Army Air Forces at Bolling Field.

Both fliers were orginally members of the Yugoslaw Royal Air Force. When their country was invaded by Germany they fled to Cairo where they were attached to a Special Yugoslaw contingent operating under direction of the United States Army.

The men applied for citizenship here soon after the war was over under a provision easing requirements for foreigners serving with our Army. However, since they had actually been members of the Yugoslav army, although serving with this Nation, they did not meet the requirements. They were denied citizenship here last year.

President Truman, however, signed Private Law No. 102, Chapter 373 on July 30 granting the right of citizenship to the two fliers.

Chinese-American Youth Wins Presidency of Boys' State

A 16-year-old Chinese-American youth yesterday was elected president of the mythical Boys' State in balloting here by delegates to the American Legion-sponsored Boys Forum of National Government.

Edmond Gong of Miami, Fla., who headed the forum's Federalist Party, won the presidency on the first ballot, 60 to 42, over Thomas W. Bush, 17, of Huntington Park, Calif.

The winning party's platform included national support of the United Nations, sufficient foreign aid to provide necessities of life for inhabitants of foreign countries, and a speedy solution to American housing problems.

The Nationalists, headed by Bush, placed its main emphasis on international peace, and plugged hard for broadening the forum programs. Party speakers urged that the government forums sponsored annually be made international in scope, and asked formation of an alumni association of delegates.

Before yesterday's electioneering got hot and heavy, the more than 100 youths toured Washington and vicinity. They first visited the Treasury Department where Secretary John W. Snyder explained how Uncle Sam handles finances (in a general way, of course).

From there, the youths went to the Pentagon, across the Potomac, to meet high-ranking Army officers. And in the afternoon they visited with Secretary of Commerce William Averell Harriman, Attorney General Tom Clark, and Postoffice officials.

Highlights of the forum last night was a dinner at the National Press Club, where newspapermen explained news coverage of the Nation's Capital. Speakers included Relman Morin, chief of the Associated Press bureau here; G. B. Parker, editor-in-chief of the Scripps-Howard Newspaper Alliance; Earl Godwin, ABC commentator, and Richard Harkness, NBC commentator.

Families Identify 2 Canoeists Drowned in Potomac Branch

Harbor Patrol police yesterday recovered the bodies of two young men who drowned Sunday afternoon while canoeing in Little River, off Theodore Roosevelt Island here.

They were identified by family members as Wallace Nathan Phelps, 23, of 2203 Evarts st. ne., and Norman Matlow, 20, of 1345 Saratoga ave. ne. Phelps was a good swimmer but his partner couldn't swim a stroke, their families said.

The tragedy was discovered when another canoeist, Paul Anderson, of 3900 Cathedral ave. nw., reported to police that a canoe was drifting upside down near the Potomac River island. A checkback with the canoe owner, Raymond Wanner, of Wanner's boathouse, 17th and K sts. nw., showed it was rented earlier to the two.

The bodies were recovered near the scene, in 11 feet of water some 175 feet south of Rocky Run's entrance into Little River.

Harbor police continued to drag the Potomac for a third victim reported drowned Sunday. He was identified as James B. Hendrix, 62, of 1363 Pennslyvania ave. se.

John M. Crandall of 518 14th st. se. told police Hendrix fell overboard from his (Crandall's) 33-foot motor cruiser when he leaned overside. Crandall said he jumped in after his friend but the victim slipped from his grasp and disappeared.

Phelps, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard B. Phelps, with whom he lived, was employed as an architectural draftsman at his father's stone company. A graduate of McKinley High School and George Washington University, he leaves his parents, two brothers and four sisters.

Matlow, a senior in mechanical engineering at George Washington University and a graduate of McKinley High School, leaves his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Matlow, of the Saratoga ave. address, and two brothers and two sisters.

Dr. Christopher J. Murphy, deputy coroner, yesterday issued certificates of accidental death by drowning for the two.

Amvets Object

Baltimore, Aug. 4 (AP).—A letter expressing dissatisfaction with the membership of the State Veterans Housing Commission has been sent to Governor Lane by the American Veterans Committee, it was disclosed yesterday.

The letter, signed by William Boucher 3d, said positions on the recently appointed commission should have been given to persons who have established their interest in alleviating the shortage of homes for veterans.

Goat Vs. Auto: A Draw

Martinsburg, W. Va., Aug. 4.—Nanny goats are no respecters of public officials' vehicles—even those of Circuit Court judges. The car of Judge D. H. Rodgers took a buffeting last week when a goat held for auction at the Courthouse spotted her reflection in the judge's car and kept butting at it for most of the morning.

Eventually the shadow boxer was sold to W. H. Holmes of Riverton for $4.

Gov. Tuck Has Light Week

Richmond, Va., Aug. 4 (AP).—Governor Tuck has only one out-of-town engagement on his calendar for this week, his office said today.

On Friday, the governor is to fly to the Eastern Shore, and then go by boat to Tangier Island for homecoming ceremonies there. He will return to Richmond Saturday and take part in the American Legion convention program Sunday. Admiral William F. Halsey and A. A. Vandegrift, principal speakers at the convention, will be his guests at the mansion Sunday night.

On Monday the governor will begin a vacation which will keep him away from his office until the first of September.

Ship Line Gets Permit

The Interstate Commerce Commission in Washington yesterday granted authority to H. E. Savage, jr., to operate common carrier vessels between Norfolk, Va., and Baltimore, Md., for the transportation of motor truck trailers, loaded or emptied.

An operating certificate, the commission said, will be issued when the applicant has acquired vessels. Service is projected to start about the end of the year.

2 Saved From Drowning

Virginia Beach, Va., Aug. 4 (AP). Two teen-age swimmers were saved from drowning yesterday after they became exhausted while swimming near Virginia Beach.

Coast Guardsmen identified the two as Mary White, 16, and Gregory Morrisette, 17, both of this town. The girl was caught by a backwash and swept into water over her head, and Mirrisette became exhausted when he tried to save her. Three youths nearby in a boat saw the boy and girl were able to take them from the water.

Inmate Held in Death

Martinsburg, W. Va., Aug. 4.—Andy Reedy, inmate of the Pendleton County Parish Farm near Franklin, is being held in the County Jail today, after the death of Mike Price, another inmate of the farm.

County officials said Reedy had struck Price, who, in falling, hit his head on a doorknob. Price died from a cerebral hemorrhage without regaining consciousness, officials said.

'Miss Highland' Chosen

Monterey, Va., Aug. 4.—Miss Jean Jones of Doe Hill will reign as "Miss Highland" over the Highland County centennial parade and pageant to be held here on August 30. The queen was president of the student body of Madison College in Harrisonburg in 1944 and before that was senior class president of McDowell High School.

Maryland 4-H Clubs Gather At University

Old Jupiter Pluvius cooperated with 4-H members yesterday and "let it shine" for the opening of their twenty-fifth annual Boys and Girls 4-H Club week at University of Maryland.

"Let it shine" is the motto of the meeting, which will continue until Friday. More than 1100 boys and girls from all over Maryland were arriving yesterday by bus, train, jalopy and in the family car.

Most of the day was taken in registering and finding the rooms assigned to the delegates. There was no difficulty in finding the mess hall.

Tours of the campus were held each hour to get the visitors acquainted with their home for the week. Groups were given names of Indian tribes that once roamed the Greater Washington area. Many of the activities will be based upon tribal competition.

Boys and girls will attend assemblies today at which the traditions of Club Week will be explained and they will "learn how you can shine."

Herd Experts to Meet

Staunton, Va., Aug. 4.—Dairy Herd Improvement Association supervisors will hold a district conference here tomorrow to consider current operating problems and suggestions for improvement of the DHIA program.

Capital's Loss, Too

Doctor's Orders Costing AAF a Potential Boss

By Mary Van Rensselaer Thayer

ANY DAY NOW the War Department will announce the retirement of Maj. Gen. Fred Anderson of the Army Air Forces. The news will be a blow to the AAF, not only because Fred Anderson is unusually popular but because he's been regarded as potential commanding general who would step into General Spaatz's boots come the day "Tooey" retires.

General Anderson is leaving the Army solely on account of health. Some years ago he was forced to bail out over San Francisco Bay. He floated in the chilly waters a long time and never fully recovered from the immersion.

During the war he conceived and executed the Big Week against Germany during which the Luftwaffe suffered catastrophic losses. Though the general's health can't stand up to Army strain, it is rumored that he has been offered a flattering commercial job.

Mountbatten's Young Boswell

DESPITE BRITAIN'S dearth of paper, the London Sunday Express is running a series of articles on Viscount Mountbatten, the Viceroy of India, authored by Ray Murphy. Ray is the younger son of Dr. Jim Murphy, the New York cancer expert; and a nephew of the first Mrs. Sumner Welles (now Mrs. Joseph J.) Kerrigan).

Ray is only 24, but he's had considerable journalistic experience in OWI and working for a wartime ghost writing bureau which whipped up speeches for a number of our less inspired Senators and other tongue-tied politicos. Young Ray, fortunately well heeled, trailed the then Lord Louis Mountbatten from Singapore headquarters, stuffed with Siamese cats and turbaned servitors, to a Park Lane penthouse equipped with rocket-like elevators which once ran away with visiting Queen Mary.

There's a giddy, Perils-of-Pauline quality to Ray's writing, Mountbatten's acts of derring-do being well overlarded with port, expensive cigars, special planes, decorative whimsies such as a bedroom copied from a ship's cabin, and his personal passion for zippers. But among the adjectives there's a genealogical plum explaining the confusing Mountbatten family.

Viscount Mountbatten's grandfather, Prince Alexander of Hesse, contracted a morganatic marriage which barred his children from the Hesse succession. They were provided with the name Battenberg, after a town in the upper part of the Hesse duchy. The Viscount's father, Prince Louis of Battenberg, became a British citizen, joined the navy. He achieved a niche in history when, as member of the Admiralty, he personally kept the British fleet, then on the verge of being dispersed after maneuvers, mobilized over the 1914 June weekend when the First World War broke out.

Three years later, when the royal family changed their name from Guelph to Windsor, Prince Louis became the Marquis of Milford Haven, his elder son became the Earl of Medina and the younger son became Lord Louis Mountbatten, which is not only the literal translation of Battenberg but also the name of some crown property near the Port of Plymouth.

The Dean's New Curriculum

DEAN OF HUMANITIES is a lovely, spiritual-sounding title and, next to Professor of Celestial Mechanics, this department's favorite. But Richard McKeon, former Dean of Humanities at Chicago, is neither lovely nor visibly spiritual. He's an attractive, common sense gent whose present job is alternate to Milton Eisenhower on the executive board of UNESCO.

Mr. McKeon just stepped off a plane from Paris. UNESCO, it seems, is really beginning to jell. On the lighter side, there's been a round table conference of international theater experts. They've been making a "kind of" charter for the world's theaters and are setting up, but not under UNESCO aegis, an international theater to facilitate the swapping of theatrical works.

In more weighty vein UNESCO's biggest task is to write an intellectual history of human rights—many of the most provocative and enduring ideas being culled from various national constitutions promulgated in the eighteenth century. In addition, UNESCO has collected 54 essays on human rights written by authors from as many countries—including an absorbing opus by Gandhi.

On the Capital Club Front—

Washington Society for the Hard of Hearing, a Community Chest agency, yesterday inaugurated a course for pre-school age deaf children and their mothers at the society's headquarters, 2431 14th st. nw. Eight youngsters, between the ages of 37 and 57 months, were selected for the experiment.

They will receive informal training Monday, through Friday, in August from 10 a. m. to noon. The instructor will be Miss Stella Lutz, formerly a teacher at the Reinhardt School for Little Deaf Children in Kensington, and at the Lexington School for the Deaf in New York. She is regularly engaged as an itinerant teacher in lip reading and speech in the D. C. public schools.

The society is conducting the four weeks' course as an experiment in the training of residual hearing. Many of the youngsters have a small amount of hearing which they never made use of because they have not been trained to listen. They cannot speak well because they cannot hear well.

Mothers of the tots will be required to attend the sessions to learn methods of continuing the children training at home. Assisting in the auditory training will be Miss Rose V. Feilbach, executive secretary of the society.

Committee Plans Luncheons at Warrenton Show

There'll be good eats galore for equestrians and spectactors when Warrenton holds its forty-eighth annual horseshow, August 30-September 1. The T.B. Inter-American Group to Meet In Guatemala

Guatemala City will be the scene of the Inter-American Congress of Women, slated for August 21 to 27. Delegates from approximately 53 women's organizations in 18 countries will attend the six day conclave.

Miss Heloise Brainerd of Washington, general secretary of the organizing committee of the congress, which was initiated last year by the United Statess ection of the Women's League for Peace and Freedom, already has departed for Guatemala to set the Congress in motion. She said that the purpose of the congress is to "establish position of women of this hemisphere in relation to international and inter-American problems vital to the maintenance of peace and democracy; to determine the most effective means of coopperation and to strengthen the ties of friendship and understanding between the women of the Americas

Such well known women as Senorita Gabriela Mistral, Chilean poet who received the Nobel prize for literature in 1945; Senora Isabel Pinto de Vidal, a member of the Uruguayan Senate and delegate to the San Francisco Conference of the United Nations, and Senora Victoria Ocampo of Argentina, author and editor of the literary magazine, Sur, are sponsoring the congress. Another sponsor is Senora Isabel de Palencia, former minister to Sweden of the Spanish Republican Government, now living in exile in Mexico.

Members of the United States delegation to the congress will include Mrs. Alexander Stewart of this city and Chicago, president of the United States section of WILPF.

Highlight of the opening session will be an address by the First Lady of Guatemala, Senora Elisa Martinez de Arevalo.

Well-Liked Businessman Frowns on Social Life for His Daughter, 18; Recently He Squired Her to and From All-Girl Luncheon

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: My father, well known and well liked in this city, is said to be most generous and kind in his business dealings, and he is a swell person, but he just doesn't understand his children.

I'll be 18 in September and I've never had a date, nor am I allowed to go out with a group of girls. If I mention a boy's name in father's hearing, he starts up and shouts that girls who even look at a boy will come to no good. My sister, 15, and I must go to bed at 8 p. m. in winter and 9 p. m. in summer and wouldn't dare ask to stay up later.

Recently one of my best girl friends was given a luncheon at a leading hotel. I had to beg father's permission for a month in advance and arise that day at 6 a. m. to mow the front and back lawns to get to go. I didn't mind, because I'd never been anywhere before and looked forward to the luncheon with the greatest anticipation a girl ever had.

She Wants Job; Father Forbids

I WAS supposed to go with a group of girls, but the day was ruined when father decided to escort me. That was awful, but worse yet, he waited around until the luncheon was over and took me home. If your parents don't trust you, who will?

I graduated last term with high hopes of getting a good job, as I had made good marks and completed the secretarial course with honors. But father says girls shouldn't work in the same office with men; therefore I cannot work. He says he can support me and that's just what he wants to do.

How can I make him understand that I want to work and have my own money, and that it's not good for my sister and me to keep us locked up this way? Maybe there's no hope for me, but I'd like my sister to have the things I missed in life. Please answer soon.

Father's Attitude Is Self Revealing

DEAR V. C.: By way of throwing you a lifeline, the best I can do is to set down a few remarks for your father's benefit, in the hope of showing him how immoral his attitude is.

If I can open his eyes to that plain fact, that painful truth about himself, perhaps he will come sensibly to grips with his rigid neurotic sin-fearing trend, and espouse a new policy of treating his children as the decent young people they really are and want to be.

According to Scriptures, "As a man thinketh in his heart, so is he." Alexander Pope said it another way, "All seems infected that the infected spy, as all looks yellow to the jaundiced eye."

Your father's jaundiced estimate of human nature means that he personally feels—or once felt—terribly susceptible to the sins of the flesh, and just barely able to keep a respectable front. Either he sowed wild oats in his youth or, from his viewpoint, fought the devil tooth-and-nail to keep a clean slate.

He Is Fighting His Subconscious

INDEED, maybe he still fancies he sees temptation rearing its ugly head at every turn. In any event, it seems he has never glimpsed the eternal truth that a man's manner of thinking about others merely reveals the state of his own soul. The man who anticipates crookedness, wickedness, etc., around every corner, is chockful of such potentials himself.

Obviously your father came up through warping experiences. Like a punch-drunk fighter, he is still swinging at phantoms out of his past in ordaining a cloistered regime for his daughters. His policy is just short of crazy and so is the evil-thinking attitude which animates it.

Thus if I had your father's ear, I'd advise him to take his shortcomings to the Lord in quiet prayer, and then sit down with wife and daughters to draft a reasonable pattern of social concessions for the girls—to help you build up self respect and a backlog of common sense in judging people, since these qualities constitute your most dependable long-term insurance against indignity. Your Questions on Homemaking

What is the best way to remove colored candle wax drippings from a white tablecloth?
C. R.

Scrape away as much of the wax as possible with a dull knife. Then place the stain between clean, white blotters, cleansing tissue, or paper towels, and press with a warm iron. Change blotters as they become soiled. Then sponge with cleaning fluid. If a color stain remains, sponge with liquid made of 1 cup denatured alcohol and 2 cups water.

I am planning a christening party—strictly informal—to be given on a Sunday afternoon. About 10 guests will be invited. (1) Would invitation by telephone be acceptable? (2) Can you suggest what refreshments might be served? D. N. S.

1. Invitations to a christening are usually telephoned, or else friends are asked when seen.

2. Traditional refreshments for a christening party are cake and "caudle." The christening cake is usually a white cake, elaborately iced, sometimes with the baby's initials and garlands of (pink sugar) roses. The caudle usually served is a hot eggnog. However, since that's not very appropriate this time of year, how about serving milk punch with a scoop of ice cream in it, or fruit punch cooled with orange ice?

Sponging the stain well with acetone or a commercial nail polish remover should remove the polish. If any of the red color remains, sponge with clear water first, then with a solution of 1 teaspoon sodium perborate and 1 pint hydrogen peroxide. (Test this treatment on a corner of the spread first to be sure it will not remove the colors.) Rinse out with clear water.

I have some shoes that I have been wearing constantly without hose. They now have a disagreeable odor. I have washed the inside and allowed them to air in the sun to no avail. What would you suggest?
M. O. D.

Powdered pepsin is effective in removing perspiration odors from clothing, so it might be worth trying on your shoes. First sponge the shoes out with warm water to which a few drops of vinegar have been added. Sprinkle powdered pepsin (obtainable in drug stores) liberally inside the shoes. Let it remain from one to two hours, moistening it occasionally. Then let the powder dry, brush it out thoroughly, wipe out the shoes with a damp cloth, and dry in the sun.

While on a fishing trip, my husband got some khaki cotton trousers stained with slime from fish. Will ordinary washing remove these stains, or should I treat them in some special way before laundering?
W. M. N.

Soak or sponge the stains with a solution of ½ cup salt, 1 cup vinegar, and 2 quarts water. Rinse well with clear water, then wash in warm soapsuds.

I over-starched a yellow cotton chambray dress. In spite of repeated soakings in water, it remains too stiff to wear. How can I remove the starch?
B. S. D.

Wash the dress several times in water as hot as your hands can stand and plenty of soap. This should remove the extra starch.

PETUNIA

There's nothing that gives me
Such galloping jitters
As a generous serving
Of underdone fritters!

Yes indeed, Petunia. And even without a thermometer, you can test your deep fat with a one-inch cube of bread. If it browns in one minute, your fat is ready to fry raw dough mixtures.

Market Memo
By Lucia Brown

FRESH meat prices have edged several cents higher . . . veal's about the best buy of the lot. Poultry hasn't gone up . . . in spite of great demand. Frying chickens selling at 39c to 41c . . . ducks around 33c. Large turkeys a good bet . . . the price is lower per pound than for small ones . . . and there's more meat to the bone. Wonderful for sandwiches and salads.

Fine blueberries on sale . . . coming in from New England now. A few blackberries seen on the local market. Succulent home-grown watermelons and cantaloupes . . . pears, peaches, and apples. Tomatoes and beans still bargain leaders among the vegetables. Corn, okra, and onions plentiful . . . as well as lettuce, cabbage, and cucumbers.

Luxury items from overseas are reappearing here: French marrons . . . those delicious French chestnuts packed in heavy syrup . . . to pour over ice cream or use in other deserts. Canned goose liver . . . imported from Belgium . . . where they force-feed geese to produce extra fine livers. French truffles . . . delicacies that taste a little like mushrooms . . . grow undergrown . . . and have to be rooted up by the pigs because people can't find them.

Carrying Pie or Cake

When taking a pie or cake with whipped cream or meringue on top to a person and you wish to cover it with a piece of waxed paper but do not want the paper to spoil the top of the article place two or three cocktail toothpicks in the meringe or whipped cream, standing up like flagpoles. Now spear the waxed paper onto the top of the toothpicks, tucking the edges around the bottom of the plate, but leaving enough space between the filling and the paper so it cannot stick to it or spoil it in any way.

Introducing—

MABELE PERRY EDWARDS
. . . Washington sculptress

A Sculptress Who Uses Chisel, Brush Or Garden Hoe With Equal Dexterity

(This is another in a series of articles introducing the club presidents of Washington and vicinity.)

By Genevieve Reynolds

IF YOU WOULD like your children to be able to choose clothes and a home and live in a natural environment of refinement and good taste, teach them design and color. This is the advice of versatile Mabele Perry Edwards, newly elected president of the Washington chapter, National Society of Arts and Letters.

The nationally known sculptress and artist insists "every child should be taught color and design and given lessons of good art and literature as a starter."

Studied in Chicago

FOLLOWING the death of her husband, Charles H. Perry, she moved to Evanston with her small son and studied at the Art Institute of Chicago from 1929 to 1933. While there she won several coveted prizes, including the Hart, Schaffner & Marx award for her bas relief of Alexander cutting the Gordian knot, plus the Rosenthal China Corp. national award. This work, "The African Deer," is owned by Mrs. John D. Rockefeller, jr., and Screen Star Gloria Swanson.

Then she walked off with the Evanston Woman's Club prizes in 1931, '33 and '37. Her portrait in bronze of L. L. Valentine, Chicago art patron, won her the Mr. and Mrs. Frank Logan $500 award in 1938.

"Jungle Mother" took the Chicago Galleries Award of $50. Her "Jeff," statuette in bronze, won for her a rating by the Children's Museum, Art Institute of Chicago. This is a distinction coveted by all artists and sculptors.

Among "Jeff's" prominent owners were the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt, the late Jean Harlow, L. L. Valentine, Harold B. Stokes and Gladys Adair.

Had Many Exhibits

MRS. EDWARDS has done about 300 portraits in bronze and other mediums, and has exhibited all over the United States, including the Pennsylvania Academy, Gump's in San Francisco, Kenneybunkport, Me., the National Academy of Design in New York and the Corcoran Art Gallery here.

After her marriage to Col. William W. Edwards in 1939, the two came to the Nation's Capital in 1940. Colonel Edwards, now retired, is busily completing his book on the last phase of the American Revolution.

Talented Maybelle recently began using water colors for her medium. "Surprisingly, I've sold all," she smiles.

Horses are her favorite subjects for both painting and sculpturing. Born on a ranch near Boise, Idaho, Mrs. Edwards is a skillful horsewoman, but has had little opportunity to ride lately. A whiz at swimming, tennis, sailing, golf and other sports, she also has a special yen for music and interior decorating. When she puts aside the chisel or brush, she often can be seen gardening at her home, 7077 Greenville st. nw.

1886 Maids in Mufti Employed By War Department in Tokyo

TOKYO.—The feminine advance guard of eight former Wacs who arrived on the heels of the occupation forces in October, 1945 has increased to an army of 2011 women employes of the War Department in Tokyo alone, civilian personnal records reveal.

Statistics show that 1886 are single girls who have been recruited from virtually every State in the Union to fill positions ranging from file clerks to international economists.

Like Army

"THIS is the Army, Miss Jones," the girls are informed upon arrival and thereupon billeted in anything from a private room and bath to dormitory-like rooms in one of the nine women's hotels, with one to five roommates—all according to rank. Rank is based on their CAF (clerical, administrative and fiscal) or professional rating.

The new civil servant is soon at home in the city of free transportation, master plan menus and autos that drive on the left side of the road. She dances several nights a week, studies Japanese, attends art shows, horse races, wrestling matches and tea ceremonies.

Few women in the Tokyo area hold top ranking spots. A civilian personnel spokesman estimated that less than a half dozen are in the upper civil service brackets. While specialists have been recruited in education, public health and commercial divisions, the majority of the 2011 do clerical work.

The women came to Japan to "help win the peace," or "to avoid the recession at home." Some came "to escape marrying a man back home," or just because there was "a chance to come without paying for the trip."

Some Ex-Wacs

MANY transferred to civilian positions from the Wacs or Red Cross units which had served overseas.

One attractive brunette from Washington, D. C., said her work in Tokyo offers a "rare opportunity to broaden her mind." Another, Virginia Russell, a clerk-typist from Dallas, explained, "The cost of living was too high at home."

Approximately 60 recruits currently arrive each month. In the early days of the occupation men outnumbered the girls more than ten to one and dating was not a problem. With the advent of dependents, the ratio has dropped.

Still the girls whose aim was winning a man have apparently been successful. According to the American Consulate in Yokohama, 500 American girls in Japan have married since last June. With no breakdown on the figures, it is safe to estimate that more than 80 per cent of the brides were working in Tokyo.

Fabric Shortage Looms, Result Of Longer Hems

New York, Aug. 4 (AP).—A fabric shortage as serious as at any time during the war faces American garment manufacturers this fall, says Philip A. Vogelman, president of the Onondaga Silk Co., one of the largest rayon and silk manufacturers in the world.

Causes are three-fold, declares Mr. Vogelman. First is the change in the fashionable silhouette, with longer, fuller skirts requiring from a quarter to a full yard more fabric per dress. Second is the huge export volume of textiles. Third is recent labor trouble. He explains:

"If the American woman does not have the choice she should have of new dresses in her local store this fall, she cannot blame the fabric producer. One bottleneck which slows her dress from the designer's brain to the consumer's wardrobe lies in the fact that each dress must be at least 2 inches longer and 13 or 20 inches fuller, that it has pleats and drapery and perhaps big sleeves.

"Another bottleneck has been the timidity of the average department store executive in ordering enough new-looking merchandise to supply a certain and overwhelming demand from women who are tired of looking 'restricted as they did during the war.'"

Although textile production is now full scale, he says, American textile mills are running 50 per cent behind the demand for goods.

Calorie Dodgers Will Keep You Slim

By Ida Jean Kain

THESE calorie dodgers will help you to lose excess weight and miss none of the joys of eating. They are de-appetizers, and it's appetite that is the stumbling block to a slimmer figure.

First tip . . . comes dinner, eat a salad first. Not that the salad has fewer calories at the beginning of the meal than in the middle, but it helps to dull the appetite. In Hollywood, the movie girls often eat a head of lettuce first. It works fine, for a sense of fullness is a big part of quieting hunger pangs . . . the empty spaces are filled.

Oh, you do eat your salad first, but haven't lost weight? Ah, but you probably had it swimming in good French dressing or well coated with mayonnaise. Limit the amount of French dressing to one tablespoon . . . 65 calories. Or use Reducer's French dressing or vinegar and seasoning.

A Filling Needed

At the main course trim off all fat from the meat; have two vegetables, a roll or slice of bread and butter, or a potato, or lima beans or corn on cob . . . but take only the one starchy food. And finish with fresh fruit. With berries, a good trick is to wash them, add a rounded teaspoon of sugar per serving, and let them stand several hours or overnight. Delicious! That dessert counts only 100 calories . . . if you skip the cream.

Grape Juice Toast

An appetite fooler is to eat a sweet before the meal. Grape juice does the trick because it is cloyingly sweet and takes the sharp edge off appetite. You don't crave as big a dinner and you can happily pass up a rich dessert containing three times the calories as the grape juice. Or, there is the plan of having a piece of candy 30 minutes before dinner to "spoil" your appetite . . . but just one piece!

Saccharine, which has no calories and is several hundred times as sweet as cane sugar, can be used in place of sugar for sweetening iced tea and coffee. When sugar is used, sweeten the tea when it is hot, it takes less.

But avoid taking too much liquid with meals. One glass is right, more stretches the stomach and whets the appetite. Drink all the water you wish between meals.

Create Confidence

When the child comes to you with a question you consider it unwise to answer do not tell a direct lie to her. Answer truthfully as much as you want her to know and tell her you will explain more fully when she is just a little bit older. Never create a wrong impression, as you will soon lose her confidence.

Helpful Hints

The water drained from spaghetti can be used quite readily in place of starch.

If the food sticks to the bottom of the saucepan and you are afraid of a scorched taste, remove the contents immediately to a clean pan and continue cooking. Never disturb that stuck portion so that it gets into the food or you will surely stir the scorched taste along with it.

The torn back of a book can be mended with adhesive tape and then painted or tinted the same shade as the binding. Do it as soon as discovered so it will not tear further.

When straightening up the bedrooms in the morning try never to just carry an article from one room to another and then place it on a chair or bed. Put it in the rightful place immediately and you will find your work done in one-half the time.

That Fussy Phase

Learn to Exploit Your Child's Desire for Order in the Home

By Myrtle Meyer Eldred

When your 2½-year-old child begins to nag at you or fuss and cry when things are out of their proper places, do not jump to the conclusion that he is an unusually orderly child and that all your problems of neatness have been solved. Know, rather, that he is going through a period of "ritualism."

During this time the child has an actual compulsion to put, or to see put, everything where it belongs. If by chance a visitor's hat is laid on the living-room table, he must run and hang it in the hall closet. A shoe must stand parallel to its mate. The silver must be put on the table in the same positions and be put back in its place in the silver drawers.

Order a Must

Every ceremony of the child's day has an order that he has come to anticipate and which offends him if it is broken. Thus, his bib must be under his chin before he will take a bite of food. He must have his goodnight prayer and immediately the lights are turned off or on, whichever has come to be the accepted pattern.

The ritualism can be both a nuisance and an aid to the parent. She has to be conscientious about keeping the rooms in their accustomed order and everything in its proper place. She can and will, if she understands the strength of the child's compulsions, be patient when he cries because the pattern of events is different or disorder is unavoidable.

Easy to Handle

But it is an aid to getting things done, to set in motion a sequence of events and have them end in the predestined way. When it is time for the bath or the bed or getting the child to the table, she has only to start the usual chain of acts and the child will feel compelled to carry it through to the end.

To set up a new habit she has only to memorize a natural sequence of acts and perform them daily as she wants them performed and the child will see that not one is forgotten.

This period doesn't last long. But it is indicative of the child's recognition and appreciation of order, of habit and of routine and their personal satisfactions for him.

Plan Carefully To Make House A Cozy Home

To help make your house a "home, sweet home," keep a few vital points in mind in selecting furniture.

Take a good long look at your room when considering the purchase of a rug or rugs. Remember that too many small rugs make a room look cluttered. If you buy a wool rug, make sure it's closely woven. The pile, whether deep or short, should be thick, should stand upright, and be springy to the touch.

Then comes the furniture problem. Two or three-piece "suites" should be avoided as should "packaged" living-room groups. Each piece of furniture should be carefully selected with regard to its beauty and good design and should, of course, harmonize with the overall decorative idea of the room. Furniture, too, should be carefully guarded to maintain its beauty and insure longer wear.

Eyes may be the windows of the soul, but actual windows are the gateway to the heart of a room. Curtains must be selected carefully to express the feeling carried throughout the room. Curtains should be selected that are of ample size so that window treatment won't look skimpy. Hems and ruffles should be examined; well-made curtains are hemmed along the outside edge. Ruffles should be wide and full, securely stitched to the curtain.

Select Wisely

Linoleum should be selected wisely. The most important requisite of good linoleum is that it be "inlaid." The color in inlaid linoleum goes clear through to a backing of waterproof felt. This type of linoleum is exceedingly durable, and its original color and beauty last for many years.

Good quality glassware is an asset to any home. It should be sparkling clear and never have a cloudy, greenish tinge. The edges around the top of the glass should be smooth to the touch. Look for well-balanced, graceful shapes, ornamentation should conform to the shape of the glassware.

When is a bath towel not a bath towel? Look for a close, firm weave that will hold the pile yarns securely—a loose, open weave allows the loops to pull out easily. Selvages should be firm; the crosswise yarns should go clear to the edge, otherwise selvage is loosely woven, yarns apt to break.

There's more to a blanket than warmth. A blanket should be 100 per cent virgin wool with a deep, soft, luxurious nap and a firm weave. Blankets should be at least 90 inches long and 72 inches wide for a twin bed and 80 inches wide for a double bed. Blankets can be dry cleaned, sent to a reliable laundry or washed at home.

And last, but certainly not least, is that reliable iron. It is most economical to invest money in a high quality, lightweight iron that will last for years.

Did You Know That . . . ?

CUBERS for margarine or freshly churned butter can be used for other things, too: To mold salads and store foods in the home freezer. The plastic used in these cubers stands extreme temperatures.

GLASS utility plate can be used to broil chops, fish and sandwiches. Broiled food can be taken directly to the table in this service dish.

HOBBY HORSE made of plastic can be used for fun or exercise by all members of the family. The plastic used in it makes it lightweight but it is sturdy. Moving parts are equipped with ball bearings with no chains or gears to tear the rider's clothing.

MRS. PETER SIFNEOS
. . . Honeymoon in Nassau

Sifneos—Coit

Miss Ann Elizabeth Coit, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lew Garrison Coit of Washington and Lothian, Md., became the bride yesterday of Dr. Peter Sifneos. The wedding took place in St. James' Church, Lothian, the Rev. Malcolm Langley officiating. A reception followed at The Lord's Bounty, home of the bride's parents.

Wearing a gown of white dotted Swiss and a headdress of flowers, the bride was given in marriage by her father. She carried an arm bouquet of garden flowers.

Miss Mary Van Norman Coit attended her sister as maid of honor, and Dr. Maurice Pechet was best man.

Mrs. Sifneos was graduated from Wellesley College, and Dr. Sifneos was graduated from the Sorbonne and Harvard Medical School.

The couple will spend their honeymoon in Nassau and Havana, followed by a trip through the Middle West. Dr. Sifneos will report to the Army in September and expects to be sent to Germany for about one and one-half years.

Boze—McKay

Miss Nannie Leona McKay was married to Albert Clinton Boze on August 2 in the Chapel at University of Virginia, Charlottesville. The Rev. Allen W. Graves officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Charles Robert McKay of Arlington, Va. Mr. Boze is the son of Mrs. Ruth Evans of Baltimore, Md., and the late Samuel Boze.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Charles Meredith McKay and attended by her sister, Mrs. Albert Osborne Brockman. A reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Bethel followed the ceremony.

On return from their honeymoon, the newlyweds will reside in Charlottesville. Mrs. Boze was graduated from Winchester Memorial Hospital School of Nursing and her husband is a graduate of University of Virginia.

Mrs. Goldman at Beach

Mrs. Manuel Goldman is spending her fourth consecutive summer at Wildwood, N. J. with her two sons, Fred and Edward. Mr. Goldman was formerly with the District Public School and is now in the construction business.

Last 3 Trolleys Of County End 50-Year Runs

Hagerstown, Md., Aug. 4 (Spl.).—Washington County's last three trolley cars made their final run here this afternoon, loaded with officials and sentimental passengers, ending a half century of operations.

The three ancient vehicles left the Public Square here at 5:30 p. m. for a final trip to Williamsport, after which they were returned—empty—to the Hagerstown car barn to await disposition by the Potomac Edison Co.

The first two cars were crowded with fare-paying riders, and the final one with the Hagerstown Council, headed by Mayor Richard Sweeney; the Williamsport Council, led by Mayor Richard Hawkin, and the Washington County Board of Commissioners, headed by Keller Shank, president.

Among passengers were members of the Citizens' Committee, headed by J. V. Janison, jr., chairman, which urged removal of the trolley line and substitution of bus service.

Ladder Climbing Perilous for Pop

Women are better adapted for the job, safety experts say.

As the family breadwinner, you can tell your wife it would be risky business for you to clamber up a ladder to hang that picture of your mother-in-law.

You can quote authorities at the twenty-sixth annual Massachusetts Safety Conference as saying every fifth man who mounts a ladder in his home suffers injury. Women have far fewer injuries, the experts say, because they're more careful and more agile.

Hotel Manager Facing Arrest At Ocean City

Ocean City, Md., Aug. 4 (AP).—Sheriff Arthur W. Duer planned today to swear out a warrant for the manager of a hotel where he confiscated one slot machine Saturday night when he made his second foray within a week along gambling devices.

the Boardwalk here in search of Duer said he would obtain a warrant for Stacey Ludlum, manager of the Hotel Essex, and arrange a preliminary hearing for him Wednesday before Magistrate James B. Robins.

The sheriff said the machine in the hotel was the only gambling device he spotted.

"We went to about 20 places after that, but everything was gone," he added.

Ludlum said his "one and only" slot machine was being carried out of the hotel as he entered. He reported the hotel wa samong the establishments paid a surprise visit by Sheriff Duer's deputies July 28, when 15 machines were seized at other Boardwalk sites.

Magistrate Robins fined 10 persons $50 and $2.50 costs and an eleventh $25 on July 31 on charges of possessing gambling machines.

On Wagon 17 Years, His Lapse Forgiven

Beaumont, Tex. (U.P.).—Judge J. B. Synott thinks 17 years is a long time to be on the wagon, and an elderly man walked out of court free as a result.

The man, charged with drunkenness told the judge he hadn't touched a drop in 17 years.

"I took it for a cold, and I didn't have any idea it would affect me so," he explained.

"If this is the first time you've been here over 17 years, that's grounds for dismissal," Judge Synott said.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

GOP Bosses Killed GI Bills As Most House Foes Stood By

By Drew Pearson

After the smoke of congressional battle cleared, thousands of stunned veterans searched the headlines for word of an expected increase in students' subsistence, on-the-job training pay plus promised automobiles for the blind and amputees. Both bills had passed the Senate by unanimous vote, had been shoved hurriedly through the House Veterans Affairs Committee.

Rep. Rogers

However, nothing happened. The bills never passed.

Inside story is that GOP bosses in the House quietly turned thumbs down on the veterans' legislation. Strategy was plotted at a secret meeting of the Republican Steering Committee, where Indiana's Majority Leader Charlie Halleck argued that the Republican Party, which had promised more economy than it had been able to legislate, could not afford any more veterans' benefits—at least not this year.

This caused a vigorous clash inside Republican ranks.

Rules Chairman Leo Allen obediently refused to grant necessary rules to permit a vote on the veterans' bills. But Massachusetts' motherly Edith Nourse Rogers, chairman of the Veterans Affairs Committee, also a Republican, refused to be bullied. For three days she struggled to force the bills before the House. Stubbornly she jumped to her feet at every opportunity, demanding unanimous consent to proceed. But Speaker Joe Martin shrugged her aside.

Finally Mrs. Rogers buttonholed both Martin and Halleck in private, trying every means of persuasion. But it was no go. Slumping into a chair in the cloakroom, she muttered bitterly:

"I don't know what to do. They don't give me excuses. They just get angry."

Slapping the Speaker

"I do not know how the members can go back and I do not know how I can go back," she cried, "and tell the veterans, 'No, the Congress has passed millions and millions of dollars for relief to foreign countries and never counted the cost, but we are not passing legislation for the veterans because of the cost.'"

"I believe the leadership will bring up those bills for action tomorrow. I still have faith. I do not believe that faith will be betrayed."

But the session ended, and the bills were still bottled in committee.

At the height of the battle, Washington's local AMVET post happened to select Speaker Joe Martin for an honorary life membership. Minority Leader Sam Rayburn was supposed to speak on the same program, but a last-minute change kept him away, and Mrs. Rogers was hustled on the speakers' platform to take his place. Still smarting over the defeat of veterans' legislation and with the press safely absent, the lady from Massachusets really let the honor guest have it.

"There have been times when I have hated Speaker Martin," she declared. "I suppose there have been times when he has hated me. But in a democracy we can disagree and still be friends afterward . . . But I do wish he would let me be Speaker for a day."

Truman Was Lukewarm

At the closing day of Congress, Oregon's Senator Wayne Morse, who pushed the bills through the Senate, phoned Representative Halleck, asking him to try to break the bottleneck. A Republican himself, he soundly denounced the Republican leadership for blocking action. Halleck replied by pointing out an excerpt from President Truman's State of the Union message: "Except for minor adjustments, I believe that our program of benefits for veterans is now complete."

"So you see," Halleck hedged, "the President won't sign those bills anyhow."

"If you really believe that," shot back Morse, "wouldn't it be wiser to pass the bills? It would be our chance to put the President on the spot."

Note—Although it was the Republican leadership that blocked the bills, most Democrats remained strangely silent throughout the battle. Minority Leader Sam Rayburn and Colorado's John Carroll publicly urged passage. But there was a reason why no one pressed the fight harder. A group of progressive Democrats, including Senator Claude Pepper of Florida, Congressman John Blatnik of Minnesota and Congresswoman Helen Gahagan Douglas of California, called the Democratic National Committee, asking for a positive stand from the White House. Gael Sullivan's office then queried the White House, and received back a confidential memo which estimated that the proposed subsistence increase would cost approximately 250 million dollars annually, which it termed "reasonable." But the White House memo went on to argue that since it was late in the session, a message of support from the President would carry implication of support into the next session of Congress. The President could not commit himself that far ahead, the memo continued, since it was not known how much the Marshall Plan would cost.

Diplomat-General

Though military men aren't supposed to make good diplomats, the State Department loses a rare soldier when Maj. Gen. John H. Hilldring steps out as Assistant Secretary of State in charge of occupied areas.

A salty, forthright character seldom found in the hallowed halls of diplomacy, Hilldring has been one of the healthiest influences in the State Department.

It was Hilldring, then in the War Department, who forced the State Department to decide that European ills could not be settled without first settling Germany's ills. At that time State Department experts were working on the problem of stability in the Balkans, Italy and Poland neglecting the hub of European economic chaos—Germany.

Hilldring reversed all that. He also preached the doctrine that the way to combat Communism was to provide prosperity.

"There's nothing that irks a Commie so much," says Hilldring, "as to see prospective converts put on their economic feet. As everybody knows, communism flourishes on poverty and lack of hope. If we can alleviate economic suffering in these areas, we can give the people hope, and with that hope will come confidence in genuine democracy."

"Nothing promotes red tape like a lot of people hanging around an office with nothing to do," he says. "I found that the men who make up the State Department are a fine group. They just didn't know what a clock was for. Once they knew the meaning of a deadline, they reacted splendidly."

Unfortunately, the State Department is now losing the benefit of Hilldring's healthy influence.

Capital Chaff

As a result of "congressional economy," the State Department now has only 30 employes handling good will for all 20 Latin American countries—barely enough to open the mail. Yet good neighborliness is the hub of our foreign policy . . . Vice Admiral Forrest Sherman and Maj. Gen. Lauris Norstad are in line to be on the Joint Chiefs of Staff as a reward for their efforts in merging the Army-Navy.

On his twenty-eighth trip through the Scriptures, Willett set himself a record in getting from Genesis to Revelations in 66 days. His best previous mark was 103 days.

Willett reads the Bible instead of the morning paper while eating his breakfast. He finds the morning hours best for spiritual enlightenment. While on duty, the veteran of 33 years on Johnstown's police force scans a well-thumbed edition during lull periods at his radio broadcasting station post.

Hungarian Catholics Urged Not to Vote

Vatican City, Aug. 4 (AP).—A Vatican radio broadcast to Catholics in Hungary, reported today by the Pucci News Service, urged them to follow the recommendations of their bishops and abstain from voting in forthcoming Hungarian elections. The broadcast asserted all existing Hungarian parties had deceived Catholics.

Most Americans live in cities and one third of them live in 199 cities of more than 50,000 population.

School Upkeep Costs Virginia 20 Millions

Richmond, Va., Aug. 4 (AP).—Virginia spent $20,672,000 for maintenance of public education in the fiscal year which ended June 30, 1946, State Auditor J. Gordon Bennett reported to Governor Tuck today.

An audit of the State Board of Education for the 1945-46 fiscal year was one of seven transmitted to the Governor. Mr. Bennett also approved records of the State Department of Labor and Industry, the defunct State Board of Photographic Examiners, two State schools and two court clerks.

The auditor's report on the State Board of Education showed that $22,340,000 was available during the fiscal year. Some of the larger outlays for education included $14,681,000 for direct maintenance of public schools, $870,000 for the purchase of visual education equipment, $1,705,000 for joint vocational education, and $500,000 for aid to localities in pupil transportation costs.

A deficit of nearly $41,000 was accumulated during the fiscal year in the graduate aid fund which provides out-of-State college instruction for Negro students unable to obtain desired work at Virginia State College. The department ended the fiscal year, however, with a balance of nearly $1,400,000.

U. S. 4-Lane Road Project To Start in Va.

By The Associated Press

A proposed new four-lane dream network of express highways across the Nation will start at Newport News and will also serve the Norfolk area, the Public Roads Administration announced today.

The PRA said the Virginia cross-State route from Norfolk-Newport News links United States Highway Number 1 at Richmond with the Valley route at Staunton.

Other routes in the Virginia system include: Washington-Richmond-Petersburg-Smithfield, N. C.-Fayetteville-Jacksonville. Petersburg-Durham-Greensboro. Washington-Strasburg-Staunton-Lexington-Roanoke-Knoxville. Lexington-Charleston, W. Va.-Strasburg-Hagerstown, Md.

Of the 37,681 miles of the interstate system to be built within the next 20 years largely along present highway routes, 911 miles will be in Virginia, 57 miles in cities and the remainder in rural areas.

Meanwhile, the Virginia State Highway Department said today that the Old Dominion's part of the super East-West Highway already had been incorporated in the department's 20-year plan of road building.

A spokesman for the department said the two through highways in Virginia which would be part of the plan are United States Routes 11 and No. 1.

One On the Aisle—

G. W. Theater-Minded

Unit of Faculty To Steer Drama

By Richard L. Coe

GEORGE WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY is about to Do Something in the theater line, and we'd call that good news.

The brain factory at Foggy Bottom never has been noted for its contributions to the greater glory of theater. It has had its Cue and Curtain Club, a student organization that has varied with each year's crop of students, but officially G. W. theatricals have been looked on as animal hi-jinks that are to be borne, though not encouraged too much.

Now President Cloyd Heck Marvin announces the appointment of two drama instructors to his faculty, both people of some experience in the theater. They'll work under L. Poe Leggette, executive officer of the Speech and Drama Department.

Natalie E. White, who's officially "Dr." White, will teach classes in oral interpretation and acting. Edward Mangum, well known here for his work as head of the Mount Vernon Methodist Church's unique drama department, will offer courses in direction and stagecraft.

Professor Legette is himself no slouch in the drama. He's one of the original members of "The Lost Colony" staff, where until this summer he was Director of Make-up, an important post, for Indians play as big a role as the colonists in Paul Green's North Carolina drama.

Collegiate rivalry between the two departments of Catholic University and G. W.? "Not a bit of it," sighs Legette. "We're not working on this just because Catholic University has done so much with theater."

New Broom Technique

The Legette-White-Mangum trio is fully aware of the problem of giving a lift to dramatics at G.W. Though next year's Cue and Curtain officers already have been elected, the group will be known as the George Washington University Players, simply one step in the "new broom" technique.

There will be three, instead of four, public productions given during the year. They'll not be confined to members of the drama classes, however. Any member of the student body taking at least six hours (and maintaining the right average) may be in the productions. The first will be on the Lisner Auditorium stage early in December, which will give the instructors time to see of what their prospective players are capable.

These faculty additions mean that the university now will be offering an A.B. in speech, with a major in theater as well as a major in public speaking. Courses will be gradually introduced in voice training, body training, acting, stagecraft, direction, and history of the theater.

There is a Catholic University link, however, in Mangum, a Texan who got his master's from Father Hartke's department, which is high praise for anyone so far as we're concerned. Mangum's Mount Vernon offerings always have been particularly well chosen, good out-of-the-way things which have packed the small auditorium for three-week runs.

The Lisner "Hangar"

Miss White got her doctorate from Yale's noted school, majoring in theater and drama criticism. She's been on the faculty of Brooklyn College and put on Webster's "White Devil" for the Equity Library Theater. She's also been director of Lunchburg's Little Theater. Proof that the lady gets things done: She rented a house the first night she was here.

Besides the public performances, there will be department productions periodically to give the students practical training, but the big tests of the new group will come when it takes over the Lisner stage.

Handsome as Lisner Auditorium is, its stage closely resembles a hangar for a squadron of B-29s. Cutting down that vast area to some production less than "War and Peace" is but one of the many hurdles for the new department to clear. As it is, we're delighted that Dr. Marvin has taken this step. Congratulations and good luck to all concerned.

"GOING NATIVE" ABORNING: First tryouts for the Capitol Theater's homegrown revue were fascinating . . . Capitol Manager Gene Ford checked off over 400 names in the course of three nights' auditioning . . . We watched, digested and learned . . . F'instance: the Sinatra influence is still going strong. Husky guys got up, looking as if they might split a glass a la Caruso if they opened up, but they'd grab the mike and moon into it with just the whisper of a voice. . . . Some of the town's singing teachers, particularly of girls, would do well to relax the unnatural stance of their pupils . . . The audience (all prospective auditioneers) was wonderful, appreciating each artist's good points because they well understood how much work goes into making something seem simple . . . Which acts Ford will pick we don't know . . . But there were three that struck us as swell . . . An 18-year-old singer, Betty Cusick, who worked without a mike and had a neat, clipped diction besides a powerful voice for so tiny a person . . . A genial comic, whose name, we think, was Wilber Tall (?) worked with lariats and had a pleasantly amusing patter which went well with his friendly personality . . . And an eccentric boogie-woogie pianist with a refreshing, unique style, Joe Garvey . . . But then we didn't have Ford's fortitude and didn't hear everyone . . . "Going Native," though is shaping up fine and we're looking forward to it.

TOMMY AND JIMMY: The musical, battling Dorsey Brothers are to take over the Columbia screen in a picture about, of all things, themselves. This is "The Fabulous Dorseys," which will move in once Clark Gable, Deborah Kerr and "The Hucksters" depart F street. Also in the cast are Paul Whiteman, Janet Blair and William Lundigan

Mexico Fan

Owl Collector

Actress Ann Doran owns Hollywood's largest collection of owl ornaments. Now featured in "Seven Were Saved" for producers Pine and Thomas, she has over 600 owl pieces.

Super-Ambitious

Hollywood.—Gale Robbins, pacted not long ago as a star-to-be in United States Pictures for Warner Brothers' release, is just three times as ambitious as the average Hollywood youngster. She aspires to star in a Broadway musical, to become a dramatic headliner like Bette Davis and to become one of the world's foremost singers!

T-Men, Opium Smugglers in Border Battle

The Treasury revealed yesterday how Federal narcotics agents fought a running gun battle with Mexican opium smugglers "reminiscent of the violence of rum-running days" along the United States-Mexican border last June.

In the battle—the Treasury calls it "the affray at Woodbine Check"—at least two smugglers were wounded fatally. Not a single Federal man was hit although their car was riddled with bullet holes.

The skirmish took place last June 22 at Woodbine Check—an obstruction on the All-American Canal near Calexico, Calif., 50 yards from the Mexican border.

The Treasury had received reports that Calexico was becoming a "market place" for illegal narcotics salesmen; that in the wake of the annual Mexican opium harvest, a band of smugglers allegedly headed by California gang leader Jesus Demara had set up the town as headquarters for their illicit drug trade.

Flashes Bank Roll

Early last May, an undercover Federal agent arrived in Calexico to bait a trap. Flashing a $25,000 "roll"—it was really only $2500—the agent let it be known in underworld circles that he was in town for a "buy."

The smugglers sought him out, and after days of shady negotiations, arranged a "deal." The smugglers agreed to deliver their produce—138 cans of smoking opium—on the lonely, unsheltered flat-land around Woodbine Check. The time was set for late afternoon.

When the undercover man drove up to the rendezvous in his car, two Federal agents were hiding on the back seat, another was in a truck, and two customs men with rifles and field glasses were stationed in a building hundreds of yards away.

Confederates Open Fire

The first agent walked 50 paces to meet three of the smugglers on the bank of the canal. They were armed with automatics.

Coolly the agent directed them to the back of his car, on the pretense of getting them the money. Then the signal was flashed.

The two agents hiding in the car jumped out. The smugglers bolted and ran for the canal, shooting as they ran. Their confederates in ambush near the border opened fire and the battle was on.

The Treasury men exposed themselves to the enemy's fire in order to obtain better vantage points. They saw several of the smugglers fall. The rest of the gang picked up their wounded and made their way across the border under the cover of approaching darkness.

At Least Two Dead

The Government learned later that at least two and possibly three smugglers died of wounds. Another alleged member of the gang was arrested on the American side of the border, and indictments since have been returned against Demara and five so-called associates.

The Treasury said that the incident was just "one of a number of important narcotics seizures on the border."

In all, the Treasury said, it seized 5957 ounces of narcotics in the 1947 fiscal year, as compared with 8782 in 1946. There were 2855 arrests for illegal drug operations in 1947 as against 2620 in 1946.

Thieves Loot Parked Auto Of $1500 Gem

Lieut. Comdr. Arthur E. Simmons, 2101 Connecticut ave. nw., told police someone broke into his parked coupe during the night and stole his overnight bag. He said the bag contained a seven-diamond brooch worth $1500. Also missing, he said, were a $75 camera and a $5 portable radio.

Jacob Barab, of Lakeland, Fla., told police he parked his car on a lot in the 1300 block of L st. nw. Missing on his return, he said, was his $200 microscope. In both thefts, police found that ventilator windows had been forced.

Theda Graham Dorsey, 3500 Newark st. nw., reported yesterday to police that someone uncovered her secret hiding place, under her bedroom rug, and stole $85 in cash and a diamond brooch valued at $200.

Similarly, John Boyd, 150 Upsal st. se., later reported that his hiding spot for $170, a metal chest in his basement, was broken open and the cash removed. The theft, he said, occurred within the past week.

Mrs. Katherine Harper, 50, of 1811 3d st. ne., told police she was walking in the 200 block of S st. ne. at 1 a. m. yesterday when one of two boys grabbed her bag and $10.

The second boy, she said, threatened to kill her if she made outcry and both ran off together. A resident nearby, Mrs. Jenny Reamy, 45, of 1703 2d st. ne., told police she saw the boys empty the purse and throw it on her lawn.

Insect Class Playoff Series Starts Today

The East-West city playoffs in the Insect Class of the Boys Club of Washington League will be held today at Fairlawn Field No. 2 at 5:15 p. m.

May Hardware, the Western Division winner, will face the Eastern champions, the Maryland Aces, in a two out of three series. The second game will be played on the Ellipse Thursday. If a third game is necessary it will take place Saturday.

Va. Democrats Pick Big Slate At Polls Today

Richmond, Va., Aug. 4 (AP).—Virginia 1Democrats tomorrow will choose nominees for almost one third of the seats in the State Senate and one-half of the House of Delegates.

They will also decide 22 contests for sheriff, 13 for County Treasurer, 19 for Commonwealth's Attorney and 13 for Commissioner of Revenue. Some cities will choose members of the Democratic Committees.

Only 13 of the 40 seats in the State Senate are involved in tomorrow's primary. Forty-three of the 100 House seats are involved in contests in 27 districts.

Second (Norfolk city) District—Edward L. Breeden, jr., incumbent, and Robert F. Baldwin, George G. Martin, jr., and Edward L. Marshall, running for two seats.

Seventh (Brunswick and Mecklenburg)—Shelton H. Short, jr., and A. S. Harrison, jr., running for the seat vacated by Y. Melvin Hodges.

Twelfth (Campbell and Lynchburg) District—Senator Mosby G. Perrow opposed by Russell E. Coleman.

Twentieth (Alleghany, Bath, Craig, Botetourt, Rockbridge, Buena Vista and Clifton Forge) District—Senator J. C. Carpenter opposed by Eldon K. Crowder.

Twenty-first (Franklin, Montgomery, Roanoke County and Radford)—Benjamin E. Chapman opposed by C. Carter Lee.

Twenty-second (Arlington) District—Charles E. Fenwick, member of the House, and Frank L. Ball, jr., former Senator, seeking the seat vacated by W. D. Medley.

Twenty-third (Staunton-Augusta-Highland) District—W. F. Young, and Curry Carter seeking the seat vacated by W. Stuart Moffett.

Twenty-third (Elizabeth City, Warwick, Hampton and Newport News) District—Senator L. U. "Casey" Noland, opposed by Stanley S. Garner.

Blast Damages Flying Boat At Baltimore

Baltimore, Aug. 4 (AP).—An unexplained explosion blasted a hole in a big flying boat of the British Overseas Airways Corp. today as it was being overhauled at Municipal Airport.

B. O. A. C. officials said the blast occurred in the starboard 900-gallon fuel-carrying seawing of the flying boat Bangor, undergoing a general overhaul. A score of men were working on the plane, but only Albert T. Peters, 28, Baltimore mechanic, was hurt, BOAC said. Peters was treated for lacerations of the chest and possible internal injuries.

Capt. J. W. Burgess, BOAC Line manager, said the explosion tore a 4-foot hole through the plane's metal skin, and that water and fire extinguisher chemicals caused slight interior damage. He said there would be no interruption in the company's Atlantic service from Baltimore to London and Bermuda.

Long Memory Serves Judge

Pittsfield, Mass. (U.P.).—When a 48-year-old defendant was brought to court, District Judge Charles L. Hibbard remarked, "Your name has a familiar ring." The man had no previous court record and the judge was stumped for a while. Then it was revealed that the defendant had been before Judge Hibbard in 1912 as a neglected child.

Add Horrors of War-Yugoslav Whisky

Clinton, Okla. (U.P.).—Marshall Word, a Clinton attorney who spent 23 days with the partisan army of Marshal Tito during World War II, says Yugoslavian whisky is so strong "one American who took a shot of it said it burned his tonsils out first, and then fired his insides all the way down."

Word said the group he was with burned the whisky in their lamps.

Proud Father Dismayed as Pal "Shoots" Wrong Baby

While the nurse held Junior just so behind the nursery glass, the photographer friend banged away from all angles. Much film was exposed, to make sure that some of the shots would turn out good.

She'd been holding up baby 1-b instead of baby 1-a.

ALL BALLED UP

Mrs. Charles R. Fyfe, of 168 Moncure dr., Alexandria, Va., seems to enjoy good clean pun.

Leaving Griffith Stadium the other night, she spotted a newsie hawking papers bearing the headline, "Senators Summon Hughes." Asks Mrs. Fyfe slyly:

ASPIRATION

Strive ever upward. No dark star
Controls your fate; keep free.
God counts not only what you are
But what you tried to be.
W. S. A.

(It may help your appreciation of that bit of rhyming to know that 72-year-old W. S. A. is now in the Home For Incurables. For many years he ran a fine column for the Louisville Courier-Journal.)

HABLA VD. 'EL ESPANOL?

Local cab companies report that there's a steady demand for drivers who speak foreign languages.

Last week, for example, a Spanish official found a hacker who spoke Spanish. Since the official spoke no English he was delighted with his discovery—and kept the cab for two whole days, until he had finished his business here.

LET 'EM PLAY

Memo to the guy who suggested that the Army-Navy football game be suspended to diminish the rivalry between the services:

Nancy S. Brown of 104 Hodges ln., Takoma Park, Md., says you sense of proportion is badly warped and your suggestion is incredible.

GIVE-AWAYS

OVERSIGHT

They should have voted a probe of the Nats, and spent the rest of the summer at Griffith Stadium, gathering "evidence."

"AH THOSE TAMALES"

One vote has arrived for Sud Americano Restaurant at 1735 F st. nw.

Mrs. Malora Christman, of the Allied Realty Corp., says, "I think the Rio Grande puts out the best Mexican meal."

L. Branum, of 133 Joliet st. nw., says, "Tell Eleanor that the best Mexican food this side of the Rio Grande is at the Rio Grande."

Elizabeth R. Klagbrunn, of 3420 Q st. nw., sighs, ". . . ah, those tacos, frijoles and tamales. Simply marvelous."

Why doesn't somebody open a place like that downtown—so that I eat the joint into bankruptcy?

The dringing founden in our office has just been glug "adjusted" so that everyblubby who wants a dring gets a glug face fud of waddur, too.

Was Doc Mortar-fied by Bricks?

Hollywood. — Ingrid Bergman tells of the days when she first met her husband, Dr. Peter Lindstrom, and as is the custom of the young in Stockholm they spent long body-building and toughening hours climbing the hills in the countryside. During these difficult climbs Miss Bergman was intrigued by a knapsack which Lindstrom carried on his back but never opened. After four months of hill climbing, at which Miss Bergman always was able to keep pace with the stalwart Lindstrom, she finally decided to satisfy her curiosity. When they reached a lakeside Ingrid suggested that she was tired and that they rest and have refreshments. She pointed to the knapsack. Lindstrom opened it. It contained four heavy bricks.

Irwin Shaw, who denounced the drama critics after the opening of his last play, "The Assassin," will become a drama critic for the New Republic. Sydney Greenstreet's contract has a stipulation that his weight will remain the same as when he signed and gives the radio an option to cancel if he reduces . . . Marie McDonald is introducing sun glasses made of transparent mirror.

Ernst Lubitsch has just recovered from a long siege of illness. During his recuperation he meditated upon Hollywood and its people. "I thought of death," said Lubitsch, "and came to the conclusion that the size of a Hollywood funeral is determined by the importance of the loved ones he leaves behind."

Lubitsch, who lived at the Beverly Wilshire Hotel after the divorce from his wife, now has moved into a house again and he regards this as a danger signal. "It's a strange cycle," he said. "We arrive here from all over the world carrying a small bag and check into the Beverly Wilshire. Then if our pictures are good we move into a house. The house is too big for one person to live in alone, so we marry. Then comes the divorce and we take a small bag and move into the Beverly Wilshire."

Joan Crawford dined at Larue one night recently. When she was ready to leave, the head waiter suggested that she depart through a side door because a hundred fans were waiting at the door with pencil and autograph books. "How many are waiting at the side door?" asked Miss Crawford. "Only two," said the head waiter. "Two at the side door and a hundred at the front door." Miss Crawford took her her escort's arm and headed for the front door.

One of the photographs taken at the inaugural dinner at the Statler Hotel in Washington on January 20, 1945, shows Johnny Meyer and his friend, Janet Thomas, seated on the dais with the highest Government and military officials. Meyer, the publicity man for Howard Hughes, wasn't assigned to the dais. There were no reserved seats. At first Meyer had a seat at one of the tables on the floor. Then he went to the airport to meet Miss Thomas and bring her to the Statler, and when they returned, Meyer, undaunted, seated himself at the dais.

Boxing

Among the many sports we have . . . There is the boxing bout . . . In which two men do all they can . . . To knock each other out . . . They face each other with their gloves . . . And bodies all but bare . . . To spar and dance around a ring . . . That actually is square . . . They have to follow certain rules . . . Each time they take a swing . . . But otherwise their hands are free . . . To give it everything . . . For 15 rounds or less they fight . . . To carry off the crown . . . While referee must count to 10 . . . To keep a fellow down . . . The pugilistic contest is . . . A test of strength and skill . . . And many are the purses that . . . The fans are glad to fill.
